HON. HORACE RUSSELL

THE NEW YORK

Genealogical and Biographical Record.

Vol. XLV.

NEW YORK, JANUARY, 1914.

No. 1.

HON. HORACE RUSSELL.

CONTRIBUTED BY GEORGE M. WRIGHT.

Hon. Horace Russell, a life member of this Society, died at his home, No. 47 Park Avenue, in the City of New York, on the 14th of June, 1913. Mr. Russell was born at Bombay, Franklin County, New York, June 19th, 1843, the son of Charles and Hannah Wright Russell, both of whom were natives of Vermont but had removed to Franklin County during the early part of the last century. His mother was a descendant in the sixth generation from Lieutenant Abel Wright, a member of the General Court of Massachusetts in 1695. Mr. Russell's father represented Franklin County in the Assembly of New York, and was a citizen of distinction in his locality.

Mr. Russell was educated at Kimball Union Academy, Meriden, New Hampshire, at Dartmouth College, from which institution he graduated in the class of 1865, and at the Law School of Harvard University. After admission to the bar he took up his residence in New York City, and in 1873 he was appointed an Assistant District Attorney for New York, which office he held until 1880. During that time he was an active participant in the administration of the criminal law in the County of New York, conducted the prosecution of many important cases, and took a high stand for integrity and capacity among his brethren at the bar. During the years 1879 and 1880 he held the office of Judge Advocate General of the State.

Mr. Russell was appointed Judge of the Superior Court of the City of New York in 1880 by Governor Cornell and held that office for three years. His administration of the judicial office was dignified and efficient.

In the year 1884 he was appointed a Receiver of the New York, West Shore and Buffalo Railroad, and held that position until the reorganization of the company, a period of about two years. The duties of this great trust, during its pendency, almost entirely prevented other professional labors, but after it was closed Mr. Russell took an active part as counsel in many important litigations.

He was elected President of the New England Society of the City of New York in 1885, and Vice-President of the Association of the Bar of the City of New York in 1904. Dartmouth College conferred upon him the degree of Doctor of Laws in 1903. Mr. Russell was possessed of fine social qualities, and had a wide circle of friends. In public office and in private life he endeared himself to those with whom he came in contact. He loved outdoor sports, and in 1896 was made President of the Metropolitan Golf Association. At his summer home in Southampton, Long Island, and at his city house his hospitality was cordial and generous. Broad in his sympathies, catholic in his tastes, loyal in his friendships, honorable in his professional and personal life, he was a good type of the transplanted New England stock of which this city has many distinguished representatives.

Mr. Russell married Josephine Hilton, Feb. 26th, 1878, who, with three daughters, survive him. Mrs. Russell was a daughter of the late Henry Hilton, Judge of the Court of Common Pleas of the City of New York (died Aug. 24th, 1899), by his wife Ellen Jones (born March 20th, 1828), daughter of Edward Banker of New York, the fifth in male descent from that Laurens Matthysen of New Amsterdam and Sleepy Hollow, an account of whom may be read in the New York Genealogical and Biographical Record, vol. xl, p. 87, et seq.

JOB WINSLOW'S WIFE.

By RICHARD HENRY GREENE.

Kenelme Winslow followed his brother, Gov. Edward Winslow, of the Mayflower pilgrims, to Plymouth, Mass., in 1629, coming, as is generally believed, on the second trip, with Winthrop's fleet, when thirty-five of the Leyden church came to join the pilgrims in New England.

Gov. Bradford in a letter to Mr. Shirley, dated May 25, 1629, says: "Here are now many of your and our friends from Leyden coming over. . . With them we have also sent some servants in ye ship called the Talbut, that wente hence latly; but these came in ye May flower."

This, I think, proves that Kenelme Winslow and Josiah Winslow came in the same vessel in which their brothers Edward and Gilbert Winslow came on her first voyage in 1620.

Kenelme married after his arrival here, in June, 1634, Eleanor or Ellen, widow of John Adams, believed to be Eleanor Newton, who came on the Anne in 1623 (New Eng. Hist. Gen. Register, 33, p. 410). Kenelme had four children: Kenelme, Eleanor, Nathaniel and Job, the youngest who was born about 1641, probably at Marshfield, where his father had moved from Plymouth.

He was one of the proprietors who purchased "Ye freemans lands at Taunton River" from the chief Wamsutta, April 2, 1659, called Assonet, later Freetown, where he never settled, but his son Job resided, coming from Swansea, where his house was attacked by Philip's men, July 18 or 19, 1675. He was there since about 1666. Job married about 1673 or Jan. 1674, Ruth —. Here is the matter we are attempting to clear up.

Davis, in his Landmarks of Plymouth, says: Job married Ruth, daughter of Daniel Cole, of Eastham (page 290).

In the Descendants of Elisha Cole, by Jos. O. Curtis, N. Y., 1909, we find: Daniel Cole married Ruth Chester and had:

> John, b. July 15, 1644; m. Ruth, probably daughter of Joseph Snow.

Timothy, b. Sept. 15, 1646.

Hepsibah, b. April 16, 1649; m. (1) Geo. Crisp; (2) Danl.

Ruth, b. April 15, 1651; m. (1) John, Nov. 16, 1669, son of John and Abigail Young; m. (2) Capt. Jonathan Bangs.

Israel, b. June 8, 1653; m. April, 1674-9, Mary Rogers.

James, b. Nov. 30, 1655.

Mary, b. March 10, 1658; m. May 26, 1681, Joshua, son of Gyles Hopkins; she d. March 1, 1734.

William, b. Sept. 15, 1663; m. Dec. 2, 1686, Hannah, dau, of Stephen Snow.

Daniel, b. Sept. 1666; m. Mercy, dau. Rev. Samuel Fuller.

Also, The Cole Genealogy, by Frank T. Cole, Columbus, O., 1887, gives Ruth, b. April 15, 1651; m. John, eldest son of John and Abigail Young of Eastham, b. in Plymouth Nov. 16, 1649. John Cole, eldest son of Daniel, who m. Ruth, dau. of Nicholas Snow, Dec. 12, 1666, and had a dau. Ruth, b. March 11, 1668; m. William Twining, whose third child was Ruth Cole, b. August 27, 1699; also Hugh and Mary (Foxwell) Cole, had dau. Ruth. b. Jan. 8, 1666.

The Genealogy of James Cole of Plymouth, by E. B. Cole, Grafton Press, informs us that James Cole, m. 1624, Mary Lobel, b. London, and had: James, b. England 1624, and Hugh, b. 1627, in London probably. He came to New England in 1632 and Plymouth in 1633. This Hugh Cole m. Mary Foxwell, dau. of Richard and Ann Shelly; they removed to Barnstable; the first wife died in Swansea; he m. (2) Jan. 1, 1689, Elizabeth, wid. of Jacob Cook, and dau. of Thomas and Ann Lattice, of Plymouth; she d. at Swansea, Oct. 31, 1693; he m. (3) Jan. 30, 1694, Mary, wid. Ephraim Morton and dau, of Robert Shelly. He d. at Swansea, Jan. 22, 1699. Of his ten children the sixth was Ruth Cole, b. Jan. 8, 1666; m. Deacon Nathaniel Luther, June 10, 1693. Hugh Cole lived at Swansea at the same time with Job Winslow.

James Savage in I, New Eng. Genealogical Dictionary, at page 425, we read: Daniel Cole, Yarmouth, removed to Eastham 1643 . by wife Ruth had children (agreeing with Mr. Curtis above except Daniel, the last named), and there "he d. Dec. 21, 1694, aged 80, and his wife Ruth d. six days before, aged only 67."

On page 10, of Descendants of Elisha Cole, there is the Hopkins family, from which we abbreviate as follows: Stephen Hopkins, b. in England 1585; by his first wife he had two children: Gyles and Constance. Gyles Hopkins, b. about 1608; m. in Yarmouth, Oct. 9, 1639, Catorne, dau. of Gabriel Whelden, and d. at Eastham in 1690; they had among others, Joshua, who m. Mary, dau. of Daniel Cole; "the first of many marriages between the Cole and Hopkins family," according to the author.

I have been thus careful to show the Cole family, and have tried to show the locations where they lived; also to collect the daughters in that vicinity of the name of Ruth in order to determine who is right in naming the wife of Job Winslow.

We have another family we should introduce: John Young m. Abigail —, Dec. 13, 1648, at Plymouth; he had:

John, b. Nov. 16, 1649. Joseph, b. Dec., 1654. Nathaniel, b. April, 1656. Mary, b. April 28, 1658. Abigail, b. Oct., 1660. David, b. April 17, 1662. Lidia, b. 1664. Robert, b. April, 1667. Henry, b. July, 1669; d. 1670. Henry, b. March 17, 1672.

John, the eldest, is again said to have m. Ruth Cole, dau. of Daniel. 7, New Eng. Hist. Gen. Reg., 347.

Gyles Hopkins and Daniel Cole lived in the localities in which Job Winslow lived. We have stated he was born in Marshfield, but the three families lived in Yarmouth and Eastham at the same time and finally Job settled in Freetown. He became selectman there in 1686; town clerk and grand-juryman in 1690; assessor 1691, 1701 to 1706 and 1711; moderator of the annual town meetings in 1708 and 1711; deputy to general court in 1686, and representative in 1692. He was also the highest military officer, having been commissioned lieutenant-commandant of the Freetown train bands by authority of King William and Queen Mary. He was, therefore, a man of importance.

Job Winslow had thirteen children; six are recorded in Swansea: Hope, on page 17; Job, page, 18; Oliver, page 41; Ruth, page 51, and Richard the same; William, page 69; the rest except Joseph and Elizabeth are from the records of Freetown, but these two are not recorded so far as I have found.

In Job's will, dated Nov. 12, 1717, he mentions wife Ruth and all the children except Mary, Hope and John; Mary and Hope may have died, but John was living and married 12 years after.

William, b. Nov. 16, 1674; m. Ann Wheeler. Oliver, b. Feb. 20, 1676. Ruth, b. Sept. 13, 1678.

Richard, b. March 6, 1680; m. Hannah —, a doctor; d. 1727-8.

Hope, b. May 29, 1681.

Job, b. July 10, 1683; lieutenant Dec., 1755, Halifax. Joseph, published intentions to Mary Tisdale; m (2) Hannah ——.

James, b. May 9, 1687; m. (1) Elizabeth Carpenter; (2) Ruth Gatchell.

Mary, b. April 2, 1689; d. young.

John, b. Feb. 20, 1695; m. Oct. 9, 1729, Betsey Hath-away.

Elizabeth, b. 1696-7; m. John Marshall.

I cannot tell why Elizabeth's birth or the date of her marriage was not recorded; according to family records she married John Marshall in 1725; he was of Windsor, Conn., but was a shipwright, like his father-in-law, and engaged in building ships on the Taunton River. They had nine children, all born at Freetown.

John Marshall died May, 1772, aged 69. Elizabeth Winslow Marshall moved with Ruth, the youngest child, to East Haddam, Conn.; others of the family seem to have removed to the same place, but I cannot say if before or after their mother.

We can often make a prima facie case, or at least get a good clue, from family names; take the Cole family names in order to see if they are repeated in Job's and Ruth's children.

Ruth should be excluded in such a test; John, James, Mary and William are perhaps so common we find them in almost every family, but Timothy, Hepsibah, Israel, Daniel in the Cole family are not repeated in the family of Job and Ruth, where we find Oliver, Richard, Hope, Job, Joseph, George, Johnathan and Elizabeth Winslow.

Again if we take the children of Gyles Hopkins we can prove nothing, for Mary, John and William with Ruth appear in both, and the youngest child is Elizabeth both in the family of Job

Winslow and Gyles Hopkins.

We should expect Gyles or Kenelme or some such name, but we have only Job and Ruth and these do not help us. Of the seventy-six grandchildren of Job and Ruth, Job has two namesakes and Ruth three. These families lived near each other and were intimate, so a marriage is possible in either family.

If we examine their ages, Ruth Cole was b. in April, 1651; Ruth Hopkins in June, 1653, a difference of two years and two months; the former is ten years younger than Job Winslow, and if she married Young was then eighteen years old; on the other hand, Ruth Hopkins was twenty years old when Job Winslow was married, and forty-four when his youngest child was born. Mary, her sister, was married at twenty-five, and Abigail at twenty-three, and if Ruth married Job their ages would not be disproportioned.

Gyles or Giles Hopkins came with his father Stephen and a step-mother on the Mayflower in 1620; he was born between 1605 and 1608; he was of Yarmouth 1639 to 1642, and married there Oct. 9, 1639, Catorne or Catherine Whelden, perhaps daughter of Henry of Yarmouth; they moved to Eastham in 1643. The will of Gyles Hopkins, dated Jan. 19, 1682, with codicil March 5, 1688-9, recorded April 22, 1690, prove that he died between March, 1689, and April, 1690 (N. S.). He mentions wife Catorne and sons: Stephen, Caleb, Joshua and William, every living son since John had died. Bradford wrote in his history in 1650: "Gyles Hopkins is married and hath four children." His children were as follows:

Mary Hopkins, b. at Yarmouth, Nov., 1640; m. Samuel Smith of Eastham, Jan. 3, 1665.

Stephen Hopkins, b. at Yarmouth, Sept., 1642; m. May 23, 1667, Mary Merrick, dau. of Ens. William and Rebecca Merrick of Yarmouth.

John Hopkins, b. at Yarmouth and died in 1643 when three months old.

Abigail Hopkins, b. at Eastham, Oct., 1644; m. William Merrick, eldest son of William, on May 23, 1667.

Deborah Hopkins, b. at Eastham, June, 1648; m. Josiah Cooke.

Caleb Hopkins, b. at Eastham, Jan., 1650. Ruth Hopkins, b. at Eastham, June, 1653.

Joshua Hopkins, b. June, 1657, at Eastham; m. May 26, 1681, Mary, dau. of Daniel Cole of Eastham.

William Hopkins, b. Eastham, Jan. 9, 1660. Elizabeth Hopkins, b. Nov., 1664; d. Dec., 1664.

There is another source of information better on many accounts than a single family history, and this is David Hamlin's First Settlers of Eastham, Mass., furnished to and printed by the N. E. Historic Genealogical Register in Jan., 1852, and following numbers. This antedates much of our matter given before, having been printed more than sixty years ago. We believe these to be from the original records made at the time; hence they are earlier than Savage, who prepared his dictionary in 1860. John Farmer's Genealogical Register of First Settlers of New England came out in 1829 and was the foundation of Savage, but he does not mention Job Winslow, Gyles Hopkins, Daniel Cole or John Young. In these Eastham records of David Hamlin the statement occurs: "John Young, son of John, married Ruth Cole, daughter of Daniel." This seems to me the best proof thus far.

Taking Ruth Cole out of the candidates for Job Winslow's hand, is there any one who is prepared to name any of the numerous Ruths as his wife. I will give many of these Ruths with what I can learn of them. Some of the inquirers in the genealogical column of the Boston Transcript may know more than I do and some may show why Ruth Hopkins, daughter of Gyles, may not have been the one.

To be the mother of Job Winslow's children she must be a Ruth, and marriageable in 1673. It would seem that in that early day, and within so small a territory, one might discover her family name. Acting on this idea I began to collect the Ruths on and near Cape Cod; then I sought to find if she was married, and here is the result first of those who were married:

Ruth Alden, m. May 12, 1657, John Bass.
Ruth Chipman, b. 1663; m. Eleazer Crocker.
Ruth —, b. 1648; m. 1673, Thomas Kendall.
Ruth Eddy came in 1630; m. Ezekiel Gardiner.
Ruth Merrick, b. May 15, 1652; m. Jan., 1677, Edmund

Freeman.

Ruth Bangs, b. 1652; m. —, Sears.

Ruth Goodspeed, b. April 13, 1652; m. John Davis, Jr., Feb. 2, 1674.

Ruth Chandler, m. Daniel Cole.

Ruth Bassett, m. 1655, John Sprague.

Ruth Foxwell, b. March 25, 1641; m. — Nelson.

Ruth Merrick of Wilmington, Ct., m. Feb. 23, 1751, Clement Topliff.

Ruth Chester, m. 1643, Daniel Cole.

Ruth Snow, m. Dec. 12, 1666, John Cole.

Ruth Partridge, m. June 1, 1670, Ralph Thatcher.

Ruth Jackson, m. Ebenezer Nelson.

Ruth Winslow, m. 1677, Richard Bourne.

Ruth, m. Nathaniel Thayer.

Ruth Cole, b. 1666; m. Deacon Nathaniel Luther.

Ruth Cole, b. April 15, 1651; m. John Young.

The above twenty-two Ruths are removed from our search. Here are others in which I have been able to find the birth but no marriage; however, many of these were born so late they cannot be considered:

Ruth Bass, b. about 1662.

Ruth Godfrey, b. Jan. 1, 1675, Eastham.

Ruth Cole, dau. John, b. March 11, 1668.

Ruth Kendall, b. Oct. 19, 1675.

Ruth Norket, b. 1728, Eastham.

Ruth Thatcher, b. Nov. 1, 1675.

Ruth Bryant, b. 1673.

Ruth Sprague, b. Feb. 12, 1659.

Ruth Turner, b. March 19, 1685.

Ruth Snow, b. Oct. 14, 1679. Ruth Thayer, b. July, 17, 1689.

This list, until I discovered the dates of birth, were considered possibilities. Now I have only four left among my eligible Ruths.

1. Ruth Eddy, b. 1649, at Plymouth or at Watertown, where her parents moved in 1631. The fact of the family living so far away makes me think she could not be the wife of Job Winslow.

2. Ruth Tracy, dau. of Stephen, b. 1629. The father returned to England in 1654, leaving five children in New England, two sons and three daughters. Mary m. Henry Cullifer; Susanna m. John Simons; of Ruth I find no record of marriage or death, but she was a dozen years older than Job.

Ruth Hopkins, daughter of Stephen, the pilgrim, was born in Plymouth; is mentioned in her father's will in 1644, but supposed to have died before Bradford wrote as follows in 1650: "Mr. Hopkins and his wife are both dead, but they lived above 20 years in this place, and had one sone and 4 daughters borne . one daughter dyed here and 2 are maried, one of them hath 2 children, and one is yet to mary. So their Increase, which still survive are 5. But his sone Giles is maried and hath 4 children."

Ruth must have been the daughter who died, as appears from the settlement of her younger sister's estate in 1650.

4. Ruth Hopkins, daughter of Gyles, b. June, 1653, three years after Bradford wrote. I find no account of her death, and no report of her marriage.

And though I find no record or established proof of her marriage, I see no reason or proof to the contrary. Job Winslow, we know, married a Ruth. Can any one say her last name was not Hopkins?

THE ANCESTRY OF ANNE HUTCHINSON.

By John Denison Champlin.

Anne Hutchinson, the most noted woman of the seventeenth century in the New England colonies, was as remarkable for ancestry as for culture and force of character. The daughter of the Rev. Francis Marbury and of Bridget Dryden, greataunt of John Dryden, the Poet Laureate, she first saw the light in the village of Alford, on the borders of the Fen District in Lincolnshire, and was baptized in the parish church of St. Wilfrid, July 20, 1591. Her father removed, when she was fourteen years old, to London, and there she was married in the church of St. Mary Woolnoth, Aug. 9, 1612, to William Hutchinson, also a native of Alford. The couple returned to Alford and made their home there, and on the registers of its church are recorded the baptisms of fourteen children born to them before 1634, when the family emigrated to New England.

MARBURY ANCESTRY.

The Marbury family was descended through heraldic lines from Charlemagne and Alfred the Great, and consequently from most of the other royal houses of Europe. Robert Marbury, the great-grandfather of Anne (Marbury) Hutchinson, was the son of William Marbury (see G) of Girsby, Co. Lincoln, and of Anne, daughter of Thomas Blount, son of Walter, Lord Mountjoy. The Blounts (see C) were lineally descended from Rodolphus, Count of Guisnes in Normandy, three of whose sons went into England with William the Conqueror. The Counts of Guisnes were directly descended from Charlemagne through Judith, daughter of his grandson Charles le Chauve (the Bald), who married Baldwin I, the first Count of Flanders (see A).

Walter, the first Baron Montjoy or Mountjoy, was the grandson of Sir Walter Blount who accompanied the Black Prince and John of Gaunt to Spain in 1367 in the expedition in aid of Pedro the Cruel, whose daughter Constantia, John of Gaunt married in 1371. After the return to England, Sir Walter married Donna Sancha de Ayála, who had come in attendance on Donna Constantia. Donna Sancha belonged to one of the most illustrious houses in Spain, of which an old Spanish poet sings:

"Quien con Ayála se topa No le falteran abuelas."

(He who is connected with Ayala will never need ancestors.)

Donna Sancha, daughter of Don Diego Gomez de Toledo and of Donna Inez Alfon de Ayála, was fourteenth in descent from Don Vela de Aragon, Infante of Aragon, to whose son, Don Sancho Velasquez, Alfonso VI, King of Castile, gave the Lordship of Ayála in 1074 (see D).

Sir Walter Blount, or Blunt, as he is called by Shakespeare, who introduces him so prominently in the first part of "King Henry IV," was slain in 1403 in the battle of Shrewsbury, in which Henry IV overthrew Harry Hotspur and his allies and where Sir John Falstaff "fought a long hour by Shrewsbury clock." Sir Walter, the King's standard bearer, was one of several knights who wore armor like that of the king, as a measure of protection for their royal master, and fell by the hand of Archibald, Lord Douglas. When Douglas claims that he has slain the King, Hotspur exclaims:

"No; I know this face full well: A gallant knight he was, his name was Blunt, Semblably furnished like the King himself."

В

DESCENT FROM THE COUNTS OF FLANDERS AND THE COUNTS OF GUISNES IN NORMANDY.

The Counts of Guisnes owe their origin to Sigefrede, a Danish Prince, grandson of Harold V, King of Denmark, and a descendant also of Walter, Count of Ponthieu, Guisnes, and Saint Pol. Through the latter descent he claimed Guisnes as his lawful inheritance and, after the manner of the time, landed with a band of Northmen and occupied the terrritory, now included in the department of Pas de Calais. He immediately took measures to fortify his new possessions, building a strong castle on the River Guisnes and surrounding it with a double fosse. This castle stood until 1558, when it was demolished by the French government.

When Count Arnulph of Flanders heard of this usurpation, he summoned Sigefrede to appear before him, his lord paramount, and answer for his conduct. Arnulph received him angrily, but impressed by his bold and defiant bearing, became reconciled, gave him the Lordship of Guisnes as a fief of the Counts of Flanders, and bestowed on him the hand of his daughter Elstrude, great-granddaughter of Alfred the Great of England (see A).

The descendants of Sigefrede therefore, of the Danish royal line on the paternal side, share on the maternal side with those of William the Conqueror the blood of the French and English royal lines, as shown in the following:

Joseph Vincent was accompanied by a brother and his wife. The two wives upon reaching the rude log hut which was their destination, ate their supper in silence, went out and sat under a tree in silence for a long time, when one of them exclaimed, "Are our husbands fools or not?" George Hawes of Ashfield, Mass., under date of July 25th,

George Hawes of Ashfield, Mass., under date of July 25th, 1907, says: "The Cemetery, called the North West, where lie the mortal remains of Joseph Vincent and his wife Sarah⁶ Thacher has a special interest just now. It is one of the many small neighborhood or family burying-grounds that were common throughout New England in the 18th and 19th centuries. This one when founded was upon a main travelled highway (since discontinued), and now lying remote from the homes or footsteps of men, has thus become neglected, lying as it did in a pasture. It was in use from 1790 to 1850. The last burial, that of an old lady of 99 years of age, took place there in 1866. We find the names of about 50 or 60 bodies lying there. Within the year past Mr. Zebulon Bryant Taylor, a descendant of Joseph Vincent and Sarah Thacher, has had the ground cleared, stones reset, wall rebuilt, and has erected a fine monument bearing the name, date of birth and death and age of all those known to be buried there, at a cost of $1,000.00 and also another monument to the memory of his nearer relatives there, making the spot a glory and grace to the town. There are many good photographs of the monuments to be had."

Mr. Zebulon Bryant Taylor informed the compiler of these notes that he has left $1,000.00 in his will to the town of Ashfield, Mass., the interest on which is to be used in keeping the sacred spot in good condition.

According to Allen's Thacher Genealogy, p. 60, Hon. David⁶ Thacher received a college education. He was for many years a leading man in Yarmouth. Later, on account of better business facilities, he removed to Dartmouth, Mass., where he built the first salt works. He failed in business on account of the embargo of 1812. He afterwards removed to Egg Harbor, N. J., and died in reduced circumstances. He was a man of superior education, and was noted for his courteous and urbane manners.

Captain Daniel Wood of New Bedford, Mass., stated that when David⁶ Thacher moved to Dartmouth he must have been worth $30,000. He was a manufacturer of salt and magnesia. He failed on account of the speculations of his son Lothrop Russell⁷ Thacher and also on account of the embargo of 1812. He afterwards went to Egg Harbor, N. J., in behalf of a company for the purpose of building and carrying on salt works. It is said that he opened a store in Philadelphia, Pa., at one time. He was a leading man in Dartmouth, Mass. "I have the highest opinion of him; I have met noblemen in Russia and England, but I have never met so perfect a gentleman as the 'Squire' as David' Thacher was called." It is said that David' Thacher went from Egg Harbor, N. J., to Lewes, Delaware, and thence to Philadelphia.

From Alden's Epitaphs, Vol. I, p. 128, we obtain the following inscription from the Old Burying-ground at Yarmouth,

Mass.:-

"Sacred to the memory of Mrs. Sarah Thacher, the amiable consort of David Thacher, Jr., Esq., who died July 21st, 1793, in the 23rd year of her age.

While weeping friends bend o'er the silent tomb, Recount her virtues and her loss deplore, Faith's piercing eye darts through the dreary gloom And hails her blest where tears shall flow no more."

PHILIPPE DUTRIEUX.

By KATHLYNE KNICKERBACKER VIELE.

The recent discovery of several new facts concerning this early settler of Manhattan Island seems to justify the publication of a brief account of him in the Genealogical Record.

On a map of New Amsterdam as it was about 1644, which is to be found in the front pages of J. H. Innes' New Amsterdam and Its People, will be seen a large tract of land on the East side of the island marked "Land of Philip de Truye." This land of Philippe Dutrieux, or de Truye as the Dutch called him, was situated in what was then known as "Smit's Vly" and now is partly occupied by Fulton Market. Philippe was one of the few early settlers whose land can be readily located, and although he did not take out a patent for it till 1640 he doubtless had owned it long before. A patent was often sought for only when land occupied by a settler and bought by him from its Indian owner was about to change hands.

What is told by Mr. Innes concerning Philippe Dutrieux was gathered by him from the various but limited sources of information left by the early chroniclers of Manhattan Island and is about as follows:

Philippe Dutrieux, a Walloon, born about 1585, was in New Amsterdam during Gov. Minuit's administration (1626-33). In 1638 he was Court Messenger or Marshall. His wife was Susanna du Chesne and his children, according to Pearson and the Dutch church Records, appear to have been Abraham, who was a skipper on the Hudson river; Marie, who married Cornelis Volkertszen Viele before 1640, and Jan Peek in 1650; Sara, who in June, 1641, married Isaac de Foreest; Susanna, who in July, 1644, married Evert Janse Wendel; Rebecca, who married Simon Simonse Groot; Rachel, who in 1656 married Hendrick Van Bommel, and in 1677 married Dirck Janse de Groot; and two sons, Isaac, bap. in New Amsterdam, April 21, 1642, and Jacob, bap. there Dec. 7, 1645. Besides these children there appears to have been a son

Philip, as in 1653 "the widow of Philip du Trieux" makes deposition that "her son Philip (who was also murdered) was at the time of his death earning the monthly sum of 100f."

From these records it would appear that the children ascribed to Philippe Dutrieux were at least very difficult to place and the discovery of his first marriage simplifies the genealogical puzzle. But before proceeding to give the facts that have just come to hand it must be suggested that a wider interest than a mere matter of family genealogy is here involved. The earlier history of Philippe Dutrieux confirms the historical data which has led historians of New Netherland to place the first settlement of that Colony in 1624, and to ascribe to a company of Walloons who came thither in that year under the leadership of Jesse de Foreest the honor of being the first citizens of what is now New York. In 1924, when the State of New York celebrates its three hundredth anniversary as a European settlement, Jesse de Foreest and his little band of exiled Walloons will be found to lead the long procession of emigrants who for one reason or another have made the New World their resting place. And of the few of this early company who settled on Manhattan Island Philip Dutrieux, because of his now full record, may claim special consideration.

It need scarcely be said that the Walloons were French-speaking Protestants who in the sixteenth century were driven by religious persecution from their homes in the wedge-like country between France and Germany into England and Holland, taking with them certain industrial arts such as lace-making and the weaving of textiles, in which they excelled. Many of these went to Leyden where they established a church. Of the Walloons in Leyden Dr. Wm. Elliot Griffis says in his book on Belgium: "In the Walloonsche Bibliothek or library alongside of St. Peter's church at Leyden . . . one may discover his ancestry . . . as in this storehouse of names, relics and mementoes he traces the personality of some refugee for conscience' sake . . . till rest was found . . . in the hospitable soil of free America."

Jesse de Foreest was one of these Walloons who settled at Leyden; he was a dyer and there pursued his calling, belonging no doubt to the Guild of the Dyers. Philippe Dutrieux we find was also a worsted dyer and it was perhaps belonging to the same Guild as well as to the same church that influenced him to join de Foreest's company "pour Westinde" in 1624.

From the records of this Walloon church at Leyden we learn that on August 15, 1617, Philippe Dutrieux and his first wife Jaquemine Noiret became members. Four years later, his first wife having died, we find Philippe Dutrieux in Amsterdam betrothed to his second wife Susanna du Chesne, and three years later (1624) he procures from the church at Leyden an "attestation," as the Dutch call it—a transfer—as "pour Westinde." Here is a translation of the Act of Betrothal copied from the Archives of Amsterdam on September 11, 1913, by P. T. Kapstyn, Search Clerk of the City Archives of Amsterdam:

"On July 17th, 1621, appeared before the Commisaries of matters concerning marriages, Philippe Dutrieux of Roby aged thirty-four years and living in the Runtstreat, worsted dyer, widower of Jacquemyne Noiret, to Susanna'du Chesne, of Sedan aged twenty years, orphan, assisted by Jean Pinson her cousin, living in the Bisschopstreate requesting their three Sunday proclamations (bans)."

(Signatures) Philippe Inhrium

It was on March 9, 1624, that Philippe received his certificate from the church at Leyden as "pour Westinde." This was to use in the new church in the New World whither he and his family went on the good ship New Netherland.

As to family genealogy these papers show that some of Philippe's children were undoubtedly by his first wife. There is a Jacomintje Dutrieux who was probably the daughter of Abraham Dutrieux and there was Jacomintie Viele who was daughter of Marie Dutrieux and her first husband. It seems more than probable that these two, Abraham and Marie, were the children of Jaquemeyne Noiret. All the others of whom we have record appear to have been the children of Susanna du Chesne, who it will be noticed was considerably younger than her husband. There is no mention of the marriage of Philip Dutrieux, Jr., but he must have been well-grown to have been earning so much at the time of his decease. It seems likely that the Isaac Dutrieux who settled at Schenectady in 1670 with his "cousin," Jacobus Peek (son of Marie Dutrieux), was the son of Philippe's son Abraham and not of Philippe himself. Two facts make this at least probable; the first is that Isaac names his eldest son Abraham, and the second that Jacobus Peek is called his cousin in the deed of sale. A list of the children of Philippe Dutrieux born in Holland may vet come to light.

Correspondence on this matter with Mr. A. J. F. van Laer, the archivist in the State Library at Albany, brings the additional information that Robey was "doubtless Roubaix in the north of France which is well-known for its dye-works." Mr. J. H. Innes also writes: "The facts (relating to the discovery of certain records concerning Philippe Dutrieux) are important as showing what I have always suspected, that he was one of the very first settlers. You do not have to resort to the supposition of a changed voyage from the 'West Indies,' because that term is used almost entirely for New Netherland in the first years of the settlement. See various entries in the ecclesiastical records."

The name Dutrieux became later Truax.

THE HEMPSTEAD CENSUS OF 1698.

COMMUNICATED BY EDW. DOUBLEDAY HARRIS.

The original document containing the names of the inhabitants of the town of Hempstead, Queens Co., New York, in August, 1698, for many years was one of the treasured possessions of the State Library in Albany. It consisted of eight pages of manuscript, in excellent preservation, the names arranged in four columns to the page, evidently compiled from a house to house visitation, children's names following those of parents, presumably in the order of their births. Most unfortunately, in the recent disastrous fire at the Capitol the document was destroyed.

The Queens County Sentinel, in its issue of March 13, 1884, printed a copy of the census, which, although not altogether accurate, has proved of much value to students of family history.

In 1899 the writer caused to be made, for his own use, from the original sheets in Albany, a certified copy, in manuscript, which has been in his possession until recently, and is now deposited in the State Library. It is this certified copy, in Mr. Arnold J. F. van Laer's handwriting, that is reproduced in the following pages.

BRISTOL NOTES.

CONTRIBUTED BY THERESA HALL BRISTOL, Member of the New York Genealogical and Biographical Society.

The name was spelled Britsow by the first two or three generations in Connecticut, and this spelling is still used in the southern states and in England. The spelling was changed, says tradition, "because they were from Bristol, England." It undoubtedly changed gradually, because of the spelling of "Bristol," the city in England, and so often repeated in the naming of towns here. There was one John Bristow, a Councillor of Pennsylvania, 1689-91, living at Chester, near Philadelphia, who died in 1695, and who inserted a clause in his will which reads as follows: "If all my children die before they reach the age of twenty-one years, my estate to go to Brother Richard Bristow living in Bristoll in Old England." His children were: John, William and Hester. As the names of Richard and John were repeated in the first and second generations of the New Haven line it would seem to be worthy of consideration as to whether these Bristows of a later generation, coming from and connecting with those still living in the city of Bristol, Eng., do not furnish the clue for following up the ancestry of the New Haven line.

The pedigree of the two most prominent families of this name living in England can be found in Burke's Dictionary of the Landed Gentry, vol. I.

According to the usual tradition "three brothers 'Bristow' came to America." There was one Robert Bristow who settled for a time in Virginia, acquired a large estate, and returned to England. At the time of the Revolution this land was confiscated because the owners were living in England. The two brothers who settled in Connecticut were Richard Bristow of Guilford who had no children, and Henry Bristow of New Haven.

6. John' Bristol (Joseph, John, Henry), m. Abigail, dau. of James and Mary (Andrus) Benedict of Danbury, Ct.; lived in Farmington, Ct. The original township of Farmington has been so divided and sub-divided into other townships and towns, that it is difficult to decide from the old records just in where or in what part of Farmington John Bristol lived. In 1766, John Bristol of Farmington (indexed Worthington) deeded land to his "son John Bristol, Jr., of Farmington." A letter written by his descendant, Jesse Bristol, gives the place of birth of John, Jr., as "Plymouth," then called Northbury, and that of his son John H., as "Bristol," once called New Cambridge, formed from Farmington. Known children:

EARLY SETTLERS OF WEST FARMS, WESTCHESTER COUNTY, N. Y.

WILL OF GABRIEL LEGGETT.

In the name of God, Amen, the 16th day of April in the yeare of our Lord God 1697, I, Gabriel Leggett of the West Farms of Westchester, in the County of Westchester, and Province of New York, being very sick and weak in body but of perfect mind and memory, do make and ordain this my last will and testament, that is to say, principally and first of all I give and recommend my soul into the hands of God that gave it, and for my body I commend it to the earth to be buried in a christian like manner att the discretion of my Exetutrix nothing doubting butt att the General resurrection I shall receive the same again by the mighty power of God and as touching such worldly estate wherewith it hathe pleased God to bless me in this life, I give, devise and dispose of the same in the ffollowing and manner and forme. Imprimus, I give and bequeath unto my beloved wife Elizabeth all my household goods.

Item. I will that all my debts which are justly due from me to any person or persons whatsoever be first paid out of my living stock of creatures of what kind so ever. Item. I will, give and bequeath unto my son John Leggatt my house and outhouses, orchard, land and the meadow in the Planting Neck and meadow by the yard side, and is that messuage or tenement which Thos. Williams dwells upon, and was formerly my ffather in laws John Richardsons, together with fifty acres of woodland, to him, his heirs, and assignes forever.

Item. I will and bequeath unto my son Thomas Leggatt my now dwelling house and orchard and outhousen with the land and meadow which I bought of John fferguson, Sr., and Robert Manning together with fifty acres of woodland lying within the bounds of said pattent and is the one moyty or half of one hundred acres with his brother John, to my said son Thomas (I say) to him, his hears, and assignes forever. Item. I give and bequeath to my son William Leggatt one hundred acres of woodland and fifty acres of meadow lying behind the field within the bounds of one pattent together with all the undivided meadow which shall fall to my sheir as also my house and home lott with an orchard thereon lying in the town of Westchester aforesal to him, his heirs and assignes forever, and I will, order and ordaine that after my decease the aforesaid housen and outhousen, lands and meadows with all and singular the appertenances before mentioned shall be entered into and upon by my three sons as aforesaid after the decease of my wife but not sooner, unless in case of her remarriage as is here after provided and I do declare my beloved wife Elizabeth Leggatt to be sole executrix of this my last will and testament and to succeed me in possession of all and singular the house and housing, lands and meadows before expressed for and in the behalf of my three sons, John, Thomas, and William Leggatt afored.

I give and bequeath unto my daughter Martha Leggett my little negro boy. Item. I give and bequeath unto my daughter Sarah Leggett twenty pounds. I give and bequeath unto my daughter Alice Leggett twenty pounds. Item. I will and bequeath unto my daughter Elizabeth Leggett twenty pounds, wh is in all eighty pounds to be paid out of my living, provided, that if any of my daughters should dye then her legacy shall fall to her serviving sisters, equally to be divided between them.

Item. It is my will and pleasure, and I do so order and appoint that notwithstanding what is herein before exprest that no legacies shall be paid nor any alteration be made in my estate during my said wife's natural life, but that all things continue in the same condition in her possession and enjoyment for her necessary subsistance whilst she lives, and may take into the house with her or putt into the other messuage or tenements which of my said children she please for the better management of her affairs, always provided due care be taken that nothing be wasted or embezled of my estate by whom she admits into any or either of the said houses. But if my said wife shall marry after my decease, that then and for such case my three sons shall enter and each possess what I have before bequeathed to them, also provided that if either of my daughters shall marry and my wife consent that then she shall forthwith pay the legacy as I have before bequeathed without further delay. Lastly I devise, authorize, and appoint my trusty and well beloved friends Samuel Haight of fflushing and Sam! Palmer to be my executors in trust to see that my last will and testament be punctually performed and fulfilled. In witness whereof I, the said Gabriel Leggatt have hereunto put my hand and seal the day and year above written.

I also will and bequeath unto my son John Leggett my thirty acres of pasture land adjoining to the orchard which I bequeathed to him above.

William Barnes, Joseph Haviland, Edward Collier. Recorded N. Y. Surrogate's Office, N. Y., Liber II., pg. 25.

The testator did not die of this illness, but recovered and lived until 1699. The will was probated in 1700.

On the 1st day of May, 1698, Gabriel Leggett deeded, by gift, to his son John 1/4 part of 200 acres of land which his "father in law John Richardson, bequeathed to" his wife [on his (John) coming to age].

Also, in the Westchester Co's Reg's Office, Liber C., pg. 70, is recorded the following deed of gift dated Jan. 1, 1701: "Elizabeth Legat of West Farms widow of Gabriel Legat dec'd to her son John Legat, conveys all her dwelling house at West Farms which was formerly her father's John Richardson, dec'd, and the dwelling house of John Legat with such part of the orchard as she had promised before Sam' Haight, Senior, of West Farms, to give him, said John Legat."

Note:—This shows, by the way, that Capt. Williams had some time before been ousted from this old Richardson homestead, for John Leggett was living there at this date, Jan. 1, 1701, and this also makes it appear that John was then married. He married and entered this house by the date of his father's gift of 1/4 of 200 acres dated May 1, 1698.

It is to be noticed by Gabriel Leggett's will that two of his children are not mentioned, Mary and Gabriel.

The question is why? We can not think it was intentional from his disfavor for cause for it was customary where such was the case to "cut them off with a shilling," that is to lease to them some very insignificant amount, or thing.

Was it because both were born after he made this will? That were possible, but there is testimony that Gabriel was born 1696, therefore shortly before the making of the will, for a public paper dated April, 1786, contains this statement: "Died a few days ago at West Farms Gabriel Leggett, Esq., a native of this country aged 90. He was for a number of years one of the Aldermen of the borough of West Chester. What is very singular there are 65 years difference between his oldest and youngest This latter remarkable statement creates some scepticism, and so the statement may be an error which says he was 90 years old. Had it said he was in his 90th year, then Gabriel, 2nd, may have been born just after Gabriel, 1st, had made his will and which he never thought worth while to alter, or thought of altering, but delayed too long to do so, perhaps taking sick and dying suddenly.

But how of Mary? Was she born still later, possibly a posthumous child? Bearing upon this question is the following deed, dated April 2, 1705, Westchester Records, L. 3, p. 165: Elizabeth Legatt of West Farms, widow, to her daughter Mary Legatt, gives "unto the said Mary Legatt, her heirs and assigns forever my two negro children born of the body of Hannah my negro woman, and of the issue of the body of Robin my Indian slave, the boy being named Abram, and the girl named Jenny."*

Note:—Not being a lawyer I cannot say certainly, but I had supposed a deed could not be made to a minor; if so, then Mary was one of the older children rather than the youngest, but I am just as likely in error, and so we will suppose that she was born after the making of the will. If not so, then this sick man was not quite "of perfect mind and memory."

^{*} It was the custom to give a child a slave about the same age as a companion servant.

Note:—Thos. Leggett, son of Gabriel, dying unmarried, leaves bequests to his sisters and brother Gabriel, but make no mention of Mary.

Mary was well married to John Archer, perhaps so when Gabriel made his will she had had her portion'

In 1711 the heirs of the original Patent of West Farms united in a second division as follows:

"Whereas, Thomas Hunt, sen., of ye West Farms in ye borough town and county of Westchester in ye colony of New York, yeoman, and Elizabeth Leggett of ye same place, widow, did on the 9th day of May last (1711) by an instrument under their hands and seals, formally agree and conclude that the West Farms lots containing twelve in number, should be surveyed and laid out by me William Taylor, on or before the last day of June instant, with a further covenant, promise & agreement, each to the other, for themselves, or each of their heirs, executors and administrators, as far as they or any of them are concerned in the said lots, that the survey made by M. W. E., or some other person, in manner as above, and the lines or bounds so run and settled should remain, continue, and not be removed for ever hereafter upon the penalty of five hundred pounds current money of sd colony, to be paid by the party or persons breaking the said conclusion or agreement and covenant to the party or persons fulfilling and performing the same &c. Therefore upon the request and desire of sd Thos. Hunt, Elizabeth Leggett and others, the owners and proprietors of said land, I have surveyed the same twelve lots as follows: That is to say, begin at a chestnut tree standing on the river side above Byvanck's Mill, running thence north forty-three degrees west 283 to a marked white wood, thence south thirty degrees west about forty-five, eight rods to the north side and westernmost corner of the 6th lot, and then upon several courses until it meets with the north west corner of the 12th lot, then east twenty-one degrees and a half rod to ye meadow, and from thence along in the meadow and river to the place first begun as appears in the scheme hereunto annexed, the whole tract containing 1096 acres, etc. It is firmly agreed and concluded upon by the said Thomas Hunt, Elizabeth Leggett and others concerned in the matter, that what every or any lot wants or falls short of 100 acres as above shall be allowed and made up to them or theirs out of the land not contained within survey, comprehended with a certain patent granted by Gov. Richard Nicolls to Edward Jessup and John Richardson in the year of our Lord Christ 1666 except thirty acres which he said Thos. Hunt formerly sold to John Feryedon and Robert Manning and also thirty acres belonging to the said Elizabeth Leggett being in lieu of the aforesaid thirty acres on which Thomas Davenport now dwells, in witness whereof, &c., &c.''

In the presence of Joseph Hunt, Justice.

Thomas Hunt Elizabeth Legget John Laurence Matthew Pugsley.

In the south west corner of the Patent of West Farms was situated a small tract of land called the "Debatable ground." This territory seems to have been in dispute between the heirs of the Patentees of West Farms and Lewis Morris, proprietor of the Manor of Morrisiana from 1666 to 1740. At an early period Lewis Morris laid claim to most of the undivided lands of the West Farms patent as belonging to him.

Upon the 4th of Feb., 1712, Elizabeth Leggett, widow of Gabriel Leggett and daughter of John Richardson, released her title and interest of all the common and undivided lands that Lewis Morris makes any claim to within our Patent of West Farms. But in the year 1737, "William Leggett, assignee to the heirs of John Richardson, of one-half moiety of the West Farms, and Abraham Lent, of the heirs of Edward Jessup, jointly agreed to prosecute Lewis Morris, who is now in possession of almost all the undivided lands."

A complete settlement of the undivided lands was not made till 1740, and the result and processes leading to it are all in the probate records too voluminous to be transcribed. In 1830 the whole tract once known as debatable land was the property of

William H. Leggett.

As to Elizabeth Richardson Leggett, I have not as yet obtained the date of her birth. She was the youngest of the three daughters of John Richardson and was married when her father made his will in November, 1679. As John, the eldest son of Gabriel and Elizabeth, presumably came to age in 1696 or 1698, we may say Gabriel and Elizabeth were married in 1675 or 6. If the printed statement be correct that Gabriel was born in 1635, he would then have been forty years of age, and if Elizabeth were married at the usually early age customary in that day for women to marry, then there was great disparities in their ages. And there are circumstances which make it appear that there was such difference. Elizabeth was an active business woman for at least twenty-three years after her husband's decease, and was the mother of infant children from 1696-1700.

According to the above figures Gabriel died at 65 years of age, and Elizabeth at not less than 68.

That she was living in 1714 is evident by the following deed dated Jan. 14, 1714: "Elizabeth, widow of Gabriel Leggett, to her son William conveys, in consideration of £60, 50 acres being the rear part of Lot No. 11 West Farms, and also 60 acres adjoining the meadow of John Leggett dec'd, reserving a right of way for Gabriel, a brother of sd William."

On Oct. 9, 1723, she conveys her right of fishing, hunting, fowling, &c., in the Patent of West Farms to Gabriel Leggett.

She was dead by July 3, 1725, as appears by the "release," recorded as follows:

"Resealse by John Legget, for consideration of £60, to Gabriel Leggatt of all such right, estate, title, interest and demand whatsoever as the said John Leggatt had, or ought to have, of, in, or to, all or any part of ye lands and meadows which ye said Gabriel, by his father Gabriel Leggat, deceased, and his sd mother Elizabeth Leggat which either of them, or by his brother Thomas deceased by any ways or means whatsoever, either divided or undivided or situate and being in Westchester above sd, and also in any part and parcel of ye personal estate of ye sd Elizabeth Leggett deceased which is in the seizen and possession of ye sd Gabriel Leggatt."

JOHN LEGGETT, THE MARINER.

We may believe him to have been the elder brother of Gabriel. His home was in Westchester, Province of New York. He died in the West Indies. His son afterward is registered "of Barbadoes;" one of the circumstances connecting the family with the first John Legatt of Barbadoes.

The following transcript of his will furnishes about all the knowledge we at present have of him.

"Will of John Leggett of Westchester, made at Port Royall, in the Island of Jamaica, dated Oct. 2nd, 1679.

Letters testamentary granted to Ffredrick Phillips, as Executor by Sir Edmund Andros, Feb. 2d, 1680, reciting: Whereas John Leggett, late of Westchester, marriner, departed this life on the Island of Jamaica, and that his last will hath been proved in the court of the Mayor and Aldermen of New York City, and security given by the Executor." New York Surrogate's Office, L. I, pp. 448).

"In the name of God, Amen: I, John Leggett, now of Port Royall, in the Island of Jamaica afores marriner, being very weake and sick in body but of sound mind and memory (Praise be therefore given unto Almighty God for the same), do make this my present last will and Testament, in manner and form following (that is to say) my body I committ to the Earth to be decently Buryed, and as touching all such worldly estate God of his mercy hath been pleased to blesse me with all. I give, will & dispose of as ffolloweth, ffirst, I will that all my debts and funerall charges shall be paid and discharged. Item, I give and bequeath unto my well beloved son John Leggett all that my one half part of the Ketch Tryall of New York, one negro boy now on board the sd Ketch, known by the name of 'You-Boy,' one hogshead of sugar, one Barrell & eleaven gallons of Rum, Two barrells of Lyme Juice on board the sd Ketch, and all my wearing apparell both linen & woolen, a piece and a remnant of white linnen: and all the rest and residue of my personal estate whatsoever (not being before bequeathed) I give and bequeath unto my now wife Anne Leggett, and unto the child she now goes withall, if it shall live to the age of two years.

I give and bequeath the sum of Thirty pounds Sterling to be paid out of the porcon or estate before hereby given unto my said son John to my good friend Mr. Frederick Phillips now of New York in America, merchant, whom I do hereby make full and sole executor of this my last will & Testament, in trust to and for the only uses and intents above menconed, and desire him to take care of my sd son John Leggett, and bring him up, or cause him to be bred up to the sea for his livelyhood, and to pay all the above sd porcon to my sd son John at the age of one and twenty yeares together with all such profits and produce as shall or may be made thereoff and improved. And as touching the legacy hereby given to my sd wife I will that she shall have and receive the same immediately after my interment and Buryall and I do hereby revoke, disannull and make void all former wills and Testaments whatsoever heretofore by me either made or spoken and will this and no other to by my last will and Testament. In witness, I, the said John Leggett have hereunto sett my hand and seal the 2d day of October Anno Domini, 1679.

Frederick Philipse, the executor of John Leggett's will, was at this time the wealthiest citizen on the continent, and one of the most distinguished citizens in the Province of New York. When, after the Dutch had regained New York and money was needed for its defence, it was resolved to raise it by forced loan by the most affluent inhabitants, and Fred. Philips heads the list of 62 names assessed for 80,000 guilders. He was a member of Council under the English Governors from Andros to Bellamont. In 1680 he acquired the Manor, and was first lord of Phillipsburgh, Westchester County. He died 1702, aged seventy-six years.

As another link in the evidence connecting the Westchester Leggetts with John Leggett of Barbadoes, Fred. Philipse, friend of John Leggett, the mariner, was a large land owner in Barbadoes, the "Springhead Estate;" there his son was born in 1676, resided and married the daughter of Gov. Sparks of Barbadoes, and his son, the Hon. Fred. P., was born in that Island, 1698, and became the second lord of the Manor of Philipsburgh.

The son of John Leggett, the mariner, is identified by the following extracts from the records of the Dutch Church of New York:

"Married Sept. 14, 1688, Jan Legget y. m. van de Barbadoes, en Catalina Ten Broeck y. d. N Albanicen, d eeste wonende alhier en tuede tot N Albanien."

Congregational Church of Stillwater, Saratoga County, New York, with list of inscriptions on tombstones in the Cemetery adjoining, known as the "Yellow Meeting House Cemetery."

The Congregational Church of Stillwater was organized at Canaan, Litchfield County, Conn., June 26, 1752.

From the records as published by Lebbens Armstrong in 1850, it appears that there were present at the first meeting John Palmer, Pastor of Scotland Church, and Abraham Payn, Pastor of the Church of Christ, in Nine Partners, Dutchess County, New York. On the following Sabbath, Rev. Mr. Palmer administered the sacrament to Jedediah Stephens and Henry Stephens of Stonington; Samuel Howe and Gideon Lawrence of Plainfield; Asa Douglass and Benjamin Green of Canterbury, who were in full communion in the churches of their respective towns.

Sunday, June 28, 1752, John Palmer preached. A number were received on profession of faith, the sacrament was administered, a revival commenced, and the Church met the next day, June 29, 1752, signed the covenant and chose a clerk.

Whether all of the persons whose names are given above came to Stillwater is not known, probably not. Some must have died in the ten years, and others declined to move.

Before the Revolution they erected a commodious house of worship near the west bank of the Hudson River opposite the mouth of the Hoosic River, which was subsequently removed about two miles west of the River where it became known as the "Yellow Meeting House."

They established their cemetery by its side and the principal part of the early members are here buried.

This cemetery is one of the oldest in Saratoga County.

It is situated on the north side of the road, directly in the rear of the "Yellow Meeting House," distant about two miles northwest of the village of Mechanicville.

The character of the stones—a considerable number being of heavy brown stone and of ornamentally cut marble—indicates the wealth and importance of the early settlers, whose names they perpetuate.

A large number of old unmarked field stones are in the back part of the cemetery.

The inscriptions were copied September 11, 1877, by Edward D. Harris and C. E. Durkee.

NOTE *:—These epitaphs are cut upon white marble stones of a unique design. It will be observed that there are several of them in this cemetery, all bearing dates of about the same period. The stones are engraved with patterns on the edges, and faces of conventional form on the tops, cut by a skilful hand, and undoubtedly brought from a distance.

CORRECTIONS AND ADDITIONS TO PUBLISHED GENEALOGICAL WORKS.

Every gleaner in the field of genealogical research has met with errors in printed volumes which, left by themselves, carry mistaken conclusions to the end of time. This department has been inaugurated in an endeavor to correct such spurious data. Readers are requested to forward for publication here every such error, and such further additions to printed genealogies as are found, that due correction may be made. The authority for the statement must be furnished, with name and address of contributor.

HOE, ROBERT.

I. In an article on Robert Hoe published in the N. Y. Gen. and Biog. Record of April, 1910, page 6, it was stated that "the first of the line of which any definite information is to be obtained is that Robert Hoe (son of Thomas and Elizabeth Hoe) of the Hamlet of Hoes, Leicestershire, England, born Oct. 29, 1784, who came to New York in 1802, and was the grandfather of the subject of this sketch."

Although the above statement was taken from what were believed to be authentic records further researches made in England on behalf of Miss Laura Hoe show that instead of being the son of Thomas and Elizabeth Hoe, as set forth in the article Robert Hoe, who was born Oct. 29, 1784, and baptized Nov. 7, 1784, was the son of Richard and Ann March Hoe, the record of whose marriage appears in the Register of the Parish of Hose, Leicestershire, and reads as follows:

MARRIAGE.

"Richard Hoe of this Parish Bachelor and Ann March of this parish were married in this Church by Banns this 9th day of Dec. 1771. (Signed) V. Matthias Unwin, Curate."

This marriage was solemnized between us Ann March

In the presence of Henry March and Robert Corner.

The second error in this article appears on page 68, the fifth paragraph of which should read "Robert Hoe, first, retired from active business in 1832 and was succeeded by Richard March Hoe, Mathew Smith," etc., instead of "was succeeded by Robert Hoe, second," etc.

MOULTON—CORRECTIONS.

Jeremiah² Moulton (Thomas¹) of York, Me., had but two children, and not six as stated in Moulton Annals, p. 186. (See will of Jeremiah Moulton in Maine Wills, p. 326, "My only daughter Mary; my only son Joseph.") His first wife Mary (Young), who died 1772, was the mother of these children. (Lewis' Maine Genealogies, vol, i, p. 413.)

Jeremiah³ Moulton, called the "great warrior," was not son of Jeremiah², as stated in the Annals, p. 187, but was the son of Joseph² who was taken captive by Indians. His uncle, Jeremiah², put in a bill for his "keep" when his father's estate was settled.

(Lewis' Maine Genealogies, vol. i, p. 413.)

Joseph² Moulton (Thomas¹) moved to Portsmouth (Moulton Annals, p. 186); had sons, as shown by the Probate records, John, Joseph, Daniel and Jeremiah. (Lewis' Maine Genealogies, vol. i, p. 413.)

i. John Moulton of Newcastle (then a part of Portsmouth), m. Dorothy Cogswell of Essex (Emerson Genealogy, p. 57). Dorothy, widow of John Moulton, late of Newcastle, rendered an account of his estate, Sept. 11, 1726. (Colonial Probate Records at Concord, N. H.)

ii. Joseph³ Moulton of Portsmouth, m. Abigail, dau. of Edward and Alice Ayres, Nov. 25, 1709. (New England Hist. and Gen. Register, vol. 23, p. 394.)

iii. Daniel Moulton of Newcastle, m. Lucy, dau. of William and Martha (Emerson) Cogswell, and sister to his brother John's wife. (Emerson Genealogy, p. 57.) They had a son Daniel, b. at Ipswich, Mass., July 7, 1719.

(Ipswich, Mass., Vital Records, vol. i, p. 271, "son of Capt. Daniel and Lucy Moulton of Portsmouth, N. H., at the Hamlet." Daniel Moulton, Jr., of Newcastle, signed a petition for the building of a bridge, 1757. (N. H. Prov. Papers, vol. ix, p. 375.) Lucy, wife of Daniel Moulton, d. Feb. 27, 1733. (Portsmouth and Newcastle, N. H., Cemetery Ins., p. 29.)

John⁴ Moulton, son of Joseph⁸ and Abigail of Portsmouth, d. 1719, in his 7th year, and not aged 77, as stated in Portsmouth and Newcastle, N. H., Cemetary Inscriptions, p. 29, and repeated in Some Colonial Gravestone Inscriptions, p. 6. In proof of this see New Hampshire Gen. Record, vol. i, p. 16, which gives another list of these inscriptions; also see N. H. Hist. and Gen. Register, vol. 23, p. 394, in Town Records of Portsmouth, the marriage of Joseph and Abigail (Ayres) Moulton, and the following: "Joseph Moulton ye son of ye above parents was born Sept. 29, 177—; Jno. Moulton ye son of ye above parents was born Dec. 15, 1713; Alice Moulton ye daughter of ye above parents was born June 4, 1715;" see also N. H. Gen. Record, vol. 4, pp. 98, 99, 102, 104: "Abigail Moulton was received into ye covenant of grace and baptized; her sons Joseph and John baptized June 27, 1714." Alice Moulton, bap. June 12, 1715; Abigail Moulton, bap. Feb. 1, 1718-9; John Moulton, bap. Oct. 8, 1721. Their son John, b. 1713, having died in 1719, "in his seventh year," the next son, b. 1721, was given his name. This was John "of Portsmouth," Ipswich, Newburyport and Hampton.

MOULTON-SALTER-TIBBITS.

History of Hampton, N. H., vol. ii, states that John⁴ Moulton (calls himself John Moulton The Third when he signed the Test, 1776; see N. H. Prov. Papers and verification in Moultonboro Propretors' Book; also deed and plan of assignment of lots at Moultonboro.) (Jacob³, John², John¹) had a first wife, name unknown, and a second, who was a Brown of Newbury. That he had a wife (whether a second or third it is impossible to ascertain, but she outlived him) is shown by letters written by Lieut. Richard Salter Tibbits, U. S. N., of Portsmouth, N. H., to his "Honored Parents," John Moulton and his wife, then living at Moultonboro, N. H., 1790 to 1813; and two letters written by Richard Tibbits, Jr., one in which he addresses his grandmother as Mrs. Mehitabel Moulton, and the other written to John Salter Moulton just after the death of his (John's) father. (See also Salter Gen.)

Moulton Annals, p. 187, is in error in placing Alice, who married James Holt, as the daughter of Joseph³ (Jeremiah²). She was the daughter of Joseph and Abigail (Ayres) Moulton of Portsmouth, and married at Hampton Falls. Hist. Hampton Falls. "Mrs. Allis Moulton of Portsmouth and James Hoit of York," m.

SMITH-BARNARD—CORRECTION:

In his History of Hampton, N. H., vol. ii, p. 979, Mr. Dow does not give a daughter Hannah³, who married Richard Barnard, in the list of the children of John² Smith. That he had such a daughter is proved by the will of her brother, Capt. Jabez⁸ Smith, of Hampton, dated April 8, 1761, in which he mentions grandson Jabez Moulton; son John Smith, "now deceased;" "two grand-daughters" Sarah Smith and Hannah Smith; granddaughters Hannah Moulton and Eunice Moulton; sister Hannah Barnard of Boston; eldest son of [brother] David Smith of Rye; John Moulton, son of Rebeckah Moulton, deceased; "sister Meribah Fogg; "three sons of my sister Sarah Moulton;" son-in-law John Moulton and my daughter Lydia Moulton;" daughter-in-law Sarah Smith.

Boston Records: Marriages 1700 to 1750, p. 104, Richard Barnard and Hannah Smith, m. May 7, 1722.

There is no mention in the will of Capt. Jabez Smith, of his daughter Hannah, who married "Mr. William Clough of Boston," April 1, 1742 (His. Hampton, N. H., p. 980, and Boston Marriage Records p. 272), and as William Clough m. at Boston, Dec. 6, 1744, (Marriage Records, p. 279), Mary Dirgee, the reasonable supposition would be that Hannah (Smith) Clough, daughter of Capt. Jabez Smith, died at Boston soon after her marriage.

MRS. R. D. BRISTOL, 400 Convent Ave.

Stiles-Bristol-Preston.

The Massachusetts Stiles Family, p. 26, states that Eleanor³ Stiles (John,² Robert¹) married Aaron Bristol of Harwinton, Conn. This is incorrect. Aaron Bristol's wife was Abigail—. Eleanor³ Stiles married March 18, 1730–1, at Windham, Conn., to John⁴ Preston of Windham, Ashfield and Litchfield (Harwinton), Conn. (See vol. vi, N. Y. Gen. & Biog. Socy's Collections, pp. 13, 14, 74, 75.)

BOOK REVIEWS.

By John R. Totten.

EDITORIAL NOTE:—The New York Genealogical and Biographical Society solicits as donations to its Library all newly published works on Genealogy, History and Biography, as well as all works on Town, County and State History, or works embodying information regarding the Vital Records of any and all localities. It also solicits the donation to the manuscript collections of its library any and all manuscript compilations which bear upon the above mentioned topics.

In consideration of such donations the works so presented to the Society will be at once placed upon the shelves of its library and will be reviewed in the next subsequent issue of The New York General And Biographical Record, each donation of such character, whether in printed or manuscript form, will be reviewed under the head of "Book Notices" and a conv of The Record containing the review will be sent to the donor.

whether in printed or manuscript form, will be reviewed under the head of "Book Notices" and a copy of The Record containing the review will be sent to the donor.

The Society does not solicit donations of publications or manuscripts on topics foreign to the above mentioned subjects, as its library is specialized and cannot accommodate material which does not bear directly upon its recognized sphere of usefulness.

Donations for review in the January issue of The Record should be delivered to the Society before December 1st of the previous year; for the April issue, before March 1st; for the July issue before June 1st; and for the October issue, before September 1st.

All donations will be generously reviewed with a view of calling the attention of the public to their good points; but, while generous, the reviews will contain such proper criticism as the interest of the genealogical student would expect from the editorial staff of The Record.

The "Book Notices" of The Record are carefully read by all librarians as well as genealogical students, and the review of a work in The Record is equivalent to a special advertisement of such work.

Letters of transmittal of donations of such works should embody the price of the work

Letters of transmittal of donations of such works should embody the price of the work

The work is evidently the result of much labor and will be found a most valuable addition to the history of the Hulls in America. It is heartily recommended to all genealogical libraries.

COMPENDIUM OF NOTES ON THE DWELLY FAMILY, compiled by E. Dwelly. 8vo, boards, pp. 54. Price 2 shillings, postpaid.

This, as the title indicates, is a collection of notes on the Dwelly family in England and in America, which would be very useful to one intending to compile a full genealogy of the family. It is enriched by many charts of individual lines showing English and American connections. Recommended to all genealogical libraries. Address: Edward Dwelly, Esq., Margate Road, Herne Bay, Kent, England.

DWELLY'S PARISH RECORDS, Volume I. The first portion of the Bishop's Transcripts at Wells [England], being those that are in the most fragile condition [Section I, Parishes A to H], copied from the originals by Arthur J. Jewers. Edited by E. Dwelly, author of "The Illustrated Gaelic Dictionary," &c., &c. 8vo, cloth, pp. 485. Price, Vol. I, 15 shillings. Vol. II [Parishes I to Y] in press. Price 15 shillings. Address: Edward Dwelly, Esq., Margate Road, Herne Bay, Kent, England.

This is a most excellent work and is much to be commended, as it preserves in printed form records which the lapse of time had rendered so fragile as to promise speedy disintegration. As is well known by genealogists, Bishop's Transcripts of Parish Registers very often preserve parish records that are individually themselves lost, and hence publication of such records should be encouraged. The first volume includes in alphabetical order the parishes from A to H, and Vol. II, of which 270 pages are already printed and the rest soon to go to press, will cover the other parishes from I to Y. Recommended to all genealogical libraries.

THE RECORDS OF THE SAMUEL FAMILY, collected from essays, MSS. and other sources by J. Bunford Samuel of 1609 Spruce St., Philadelphia, Pa. 8vo, cloth, pp. 56, with illustrations. Printed for private circulation by J. B. Lippincott Co., Philadelphia. 1912. Limited edition of 100 numbered copies. Not for sale.

This is a most interesting record of the ancestry of a Hebrew family of great antiquity. Our library is to be congratulated in securing a copy of the work.

HISTORY OF THE SIDERFIN FAMILY OF WEST SOMERSET [England], by James Sanders, J. P., of South Molton, Devon [England]. 8vo, cloth, pp. 47 and a large chart. 1912.

This is a most interesting sketch of the origin of this old English family which is traced back to 1275-6 A. D. It cannot fail to be of interest on this side of the water, as we are informed by the author that descendants from the original stock are to be found in Chicago, Denver and Cincinnati and scattered throughout Canada. Recommended to those of kindred blood and to genealogical libraries.

[Jan.,

This is a most valuable addition to the history and genealogy of this celebrated old Virginia family, giving as it does the genealogy of the family from Richard Lee, the emigrant ancestor, to the seventh generation, inclusive. Recommended to all genealogical libraries.

THE FAIRFAX FAMILIES OF VIRGINIA. A historical sketch of the two Fairfax families in Virginia, being a reprint from Cartmell's History of Frederick County, Va., with "textual revision" thereof necessary to reproduce the article in separate and distinct form. Compiled by Lindsay Fairfax, Esq., Union Club, No. 1 East 51st St., New York City. 1913. 8vo, boards, pp. 47.

In thus reprinting in book form the excellent though short sketch of the two Fairfax families in Virginia the compiler has done a service to genealogists in dissevering it from its original surroundings and presenting it to the public under its specific title. Recommended to all genealogical libraries.

THE DICKINSON FAMILY OF MILTON AND LITCHFIELD, Conn., by Anthon Temple Gesner. 8vo, paper, pp. 14. Price $1.00. Address: author, care Berkeley Divinity School, Middletown, Conn.

A most excellent contribution to Dickinson family history and as such is to be specially welcomed. The author has condensed much information into small space and has evidently made accuracy of statement his aim. Recommended to all genealogical libraries.

NATHANIEL MERRIMAN, one of the founders of Wallingford in the State Connecticut, by Mansfield Merriman, 1071 Madison Ave., New York City. 8vo, paper, pp. 24. Price not stated. Address: author.

The author, who is sixth in descent from Nathaniel, the founder of Wallingford, has made in this pamphlet a valuable addition to Wallingford biographies and at the same time enriched the genealogical field with notes upon Nathaniel' Merriman and his children. HISTORY OF NEW SALEM (MASS.) ACADEMY, by Eugene Bullard. 1913. 8vo, cloth, pp. 279. Illustrated. Price $1.90, postpaid. Address: Edwin F. Stowell, of New Salem, Mass.

A most interesting history of this bonored seat of learning and containing, as it does, sketches of its preceptors and trustees and many of its graduates, with a full list of its students, it will furnish a link in the chain of genealogical information upon which searchers are dependent.

HISTORY OF THE CHEMICAL BANK (N. Y. City), 1823-1913. Privately printed. 1913. 8vo, morocco, pp. 167. Profusely illustrated.

A most interesting history of this noted New York bank which, in addition to its review of the bank's career, is rendered interesting to the general reader by the reproduction of many old views of New York.

These four numbers of the Allied Families are the productions of the pen of Thomas Hale Streets, Esq., of Wyncote, Pa. No. 2 was reviewed by us in the October, 1905, Record, and these other numbers, 1, 3 and 4, are, like No. 2, most satisfactory genealogical productions, and as such are heartily recommended to genealogical libraries.

HISTORY AND GENEALOGY OF THE POMEROY FAMILY, Collateral Lines in Groups, Normandy, Great Britian and America, comprising the ancestors and descendants of Eltweed Pomeroy, from Beminster, County Dorset, England, 1630. By Albert A. Pomeroy. Large 8vo, half morocco, pp. 962, including index and 77 illustrations. Limited edition of 400 numbered copies, copyrighted. Price $15.00; eight copies of two volume edition, $18.00. For sale only by A. A. Pomeroy, Sandusky, Ohio.

This handsome family book contains many interesting details which make it a desirable addition to any genealogical library and the reference rooms of the patriotic societies. By certified photographs it establishes the specific rank of all the first generals in the Revolution, about which American history is silent. These photographs were taken from the records in the archives of the Commonwealth of Massachusetts. They are as conclusive for all the descendants of the first generals as they are for the descendants of Major-General Seth Pomeroy, for whom they were prepared. Also, the complete roster of all Pomeroy men in the Revolution is given, with rank, home town, organization and terms of service transcribed from official state papers of Massachusetts, Connecticut and New Jersey.

chusetts, Connecticut and New Jersey.

The system adopted in the Pomeroy genealogy of arranging the children and grandchildren of Pomeroy mothers in family groups is unusual. By this method the necessity of carrying names in collateral lines through the book in the several generations is avoided, and the student can comprehend at a glance the results of a collateral marriage, as the children and grandchildren are numbered consecutively. The records of the collateral lines involve the addition of 17,000 names other than Pomeroy, making this is a desirable book of reference for colonial families.

Part one records the English lineage of the American Pomeroys, not merely in the shape of a pedigree, but to include the entire family of each successor from 1035 to 1630, when Eltweed Pomeroy came to America. Some of the families, however, are carried down parallel with the descendants of the first American ancestor to the present day. It is one of the most complete records of English ancestral families we have seen in American books of genealogy.

The Pomeroy genealogy has an engraved title page worked in colors. There are also two color plates, painted in London, of the Pomeroy arms with mantel, and the Pomeroy achievement, which are artistic in design and finish.

There is an ancestral chart, a study in heredity, which comprises 600 names of historical worthies, with some essential data, tabulated in compact form, backward, so that each ancestral lines can be traced from son to father through as many generations as the information obtainable will carry, four lines reaching to 350 A. D. In making up this table the charts of the late Prof. C. A. L. Totten, of Yale College, have been quoted for the more remote ancestors, because of the apparent accuracy of these charts. The ancestral chart has a special significance to colonial families for hereditary, social and eugenic investigations.

The photographs from the Domesday Book, the first census of England, which the Pomeroy genealogy presents in old Norman French (with translation from the Victoria histories) are unique. The seven pages describe the holdings of Sir Ralph de Pomery granted for his assistance in the conquest of England.

REGISTER OF COLONIAL DAMES OF THE STATE OF NEW YORK. 1913. 8vo, buckram, pp. 432. Published by the authority of the Board of Managers. New York. 1913.

This is a most excellent lineage book and the Society of Colonial Dames is much to be congratulated in presenting it to its members. As in the case of all of these lineage books, it seems a pity that the vital facts of each generation of descent from the ancestor from whom eligibility is derived should not be published. If such information was habitually given in lineage books of societies they would soon become the most valuable genealogical reference books to be obtained anywhere.

A glossary of Dutch Christian names with English equivalents add value to this most creditable work.

"The Refugees sympathized with the American side during the Revolutionary War. They were safe at their homes on Long Island as long as the operations of the war were confined to the vicinity of Boston, and, being safe, they persecuted the Tories who opposed them. After the evacuation of Boston the British Army fought the Battle of Long Island on August 27, 1776, and later they captured Fort Washington. These victories gave them the control of Long Island and New York City throughout the war. The people on the Island were obliged to take the oath of allegiance to the Crown or to flee. This work is the story of those who fled.

Little concerning the Refugees was known until Henry Onderdonk, Jr., made numerous Notes in his 'Revolutionary Incidents of Suffolk County, New York.' These Notes were often quoted by the several historians of Long Island, but the source of the Notes was a mystery. Indeed, it seemed as it no further information would be found.

About the year 1890 Mr. Mather was preparing for publication the book known as 'New York in the Revolution—Supplement.' The original documents on which it was based were in charge of the Comptroller of the State of New York at Albany. Among the documents were many bundles marked 'Refugees from Long Island.' These papers were claims against the State for the expenses of removal to Connecticut. But few of them were printed in the 'Supplement.' All of them, however, were copied, and the copies were compared with the originals. The copies appear in Appendix C of this work. It was fortunate that they were made, for nearly all of the originals were destroyed by the fire which swept the State Library in 1911.

The source of nearly all of Onderdonk's Notes was found in original documents owned by the Connecticut State Library and the Connecticut Historical Society, both at Hartford. Copies of them appear in Appendixes D, E and F. Appendixes A and B give all the information as to the Refugees that could be found in the Records of New York. Appendix G gives the military service of all the soldiers on Long Island, and the service of the Refugees elsewhere. Appendix H contains important miscellaneous documents, including the associators and the non-associators on Long Island. Appendix I gives brief civil and military biographies of those not Refugees who appear prominently in this work. Appendix J is a catalogue of the illustrations, from which it appears that there are nearly 900, including 115 portraits, 559 autographs, 77 houses, &c. The several Appendixes known as Part 3—documentary—cover pages 691-1110. They are the foundation of the book—the proof of many statements that are made in the text. Pages 1111-1200 carry the general index of nearly 20,000 names.

Part 2—biographical—occupies pages 239-690. Here we have condensed biographies of the 81 captains of ships and nearly all of the 1274 Refugees. The biographies aim to give the descent of the Refugees from the emigrant ancestor to America, incidents of their lives and the names of many of their living descendants. Part 2, therefore, is a biographical cyclopedia of those families on Long Island which had representatives among the Refugees. As the heads of families were usually named, the number (1274) does not indicate all of the Refugees. There were between 5,000 and 6,000 of them, or nearly half the population of Suffolk County at that time. Of the 1274, 150 (a partial list only) were from New York City.

The time spent upon Part 3-biographical-was more than half of the five years which were required to complete the work. The correspondence included thousands of letters. It is believed that the biographies are as accurate as it has been possible to make them.

Part 1-historical-gives a history of the war, in outline (chapters 1-6), to show the relative importance of the Battle of Long Island and the loss of New York City, which were responsible for the fact that there were Refugees. Certain little known phases of the war are described in Chapters 7-12. In Chapters 13-20 the history of the Refugees is given. Finally, Chapters 21-26, we trace the local conduct of the war on Long Island, in Connecticut and in Westchester County, N. Y., wherein many of the Refugees took a prominent part. Many maps are printed, of which the most interesting (page 161) shows Long Island and Connecticut as they were in 1774.

As a whole, the material used in this work is original. Nearly all of the documents in the appendixes have not been printed before. All of the resources in sight have been exhausted. It may be that, in the future, the contents of somebody's attic will shed more light on the subject. But those who are interested in this work cannot await the contents of an attic."

Too much cannot be said in praise of this voluminous work. The author's name is sufficient to stamp it as a work of painstaking accuracy and elaboration of detailed information. Tracing, as it does, the exodus of the American Refugees from Long Island to Connecticut after the disastrous results of the battle of August 27, 1776, it furnishes a vast number of heretofore missing links in the lives of these Refugees and furnishes material hitherto unearthed for the benefit of historians, biographers and genealogists. Mr. Mather is to be highly congratulated on the successful presentation of this work to the public, and likewise complimented in having added such a monumental work to the list that have already issued from his pen. The work is most urgently recommended to all historical, biographical, genealogical, general reference libraries and patriotic societies.

GEORGE SULLIVAN BOWDOIN.

An Appreciation.

By Hon. Robert Bacon.

Any appreciation of the life and character of George Bowdoin must seem to those who read it, as well as to one who attempts to write it, inadequate and incomplete. Few men have possessed in a higher degree the power of attracting others, and the charm of manner, the gentleness, the unfailing kindliness and sympathy which were his, must, by the very fineness of their quality, elude expression. Even those who knew him but slightly and whose acquaintance was limited to the transaction of affairs, felt the sweetness of his nature, and, remembering his courteous consideration, have experienced a sense of personal loss.

To those who had the privilege of intimacy he occupied a place apart from all others. The loyalty of his friendship was manifested throughout his long life and was a natural attribute of his character. He took and gave pleasure in companionship, rare at any time, but particularly rare in the time in which he lived.

The great good that he did was done unobtrusively, not from a sense of duty but because generosity and charity were parts of his life. They went inseparably with his kindness and consideration and, like them, came from the heart.

Coming from distinguished ancestry, he kept himself true to his traditions. His culture and charm drew about him a circle of friends who greatly loved him. The influence of such a character cannot be measured, but there was no one who knew him who did not feel that life was made sweeter by that knowledge and that in losing him something fine and gentle and dear had been taken from them which could never be replaced.

GEORGE SULLIVAN BOWDOIN.

A SKETCH OF HIS LIFE.

By Miss Georgina Schuyler.

The subject of this brief memoir, George Sullivan Bowdoin, was born in New York City, September 25th, 1833, and died at his residence, 39 Park Avenue, New York, December 16th, 1913, in his eighty-first year. On his father's side he was descended from the Bowdoin, Sullivan, Winthrop and Temple families of Maine and Massachusetts; on his mother's side from the Hamilton, Schuyler, and Morris families of New York.

He was the son of George Richard Sullivan of the old and well known Boston family, who, with his brother James, changed their name to Bowdoin in their early manhood, in conformity with the provisions of the will of their distinguished colateral ancestor, James Bowdoin (b. 1752, d. 1811), who, after graduating from Harvard and studying at Oxford, was traveling in Europe when the news reached him of the battle of Lexington. He came directly home and served under Washington in the operations at Dorchester Heights, preceding the evacuation of Boston by the British troops. He was many times member of the State legislature, was Minister to Spain, and associate minister to France, and was a liberal benefactor to Bowdoin College, named after his father, James Bowdoin, the enlightened and patriotic governor of Massachusetts (b. 1726, d. 1790).

The father of the subject of this sketch, George Richard James Bowdoin (b. 1809, d. 1870), was a cadet at West Point, but left before graduating in order to study and practice law, becoming later a member of the firm of Bowdoin, Larocque and Barlow. He was a man of distinguished appearance and manner, possessing a genial and attractive personality. He married, in 1832, Fanny Hamilton, granddaughter of Alexander Hamilton, daughter of James A. Hamilton, of "Nevis," Irvington, New York.

George Sullivan Bowdoin, their only son, was educated in private schools in New York City, and was three years in the Lawrence Scientific School at Harvard University. He gained his first business experience as a clerk with Aymar & Company, shipping merchants in South Street. In the sixties he became a broker dealing in notes and securities. In 1871 he became a partner of the firm of Morton, Bliss & Company, of which Levi P. Morton was the senior partner. He remained in this firm for thirteen years, when, in 1884, he became a partner of the house of Drexel, Morgan & Company, now J. P. Morgan & Company. He retired from active business December 31, 1899.

He was connected with various railroad organizations and was for many years a director of the New York Central.

He was member of the Chamber of Commerce, director or trustee of the New York Life Insurance and Trust Company, the Mutual Life Insurance Company, the Commercial Union Assurance Company, Limited, of London, and the Guaranty Trust Company, and was Trustee of the Bank for Savings. He was also for many years a member of the New York Stock Exchange. variety and breadth of his interests are shown by his connection with the following organizations: director and treasurer of the Metropolitan Opera and Real Estate Company, and one of the governing board of the New York Hospital, trustee of the American Museum of Natural History, member of the Union, Knickerbocker, New York Yacht, Union League, Century, Church, Metropolitan, Brook, Turf and Field, Racquet and Tennis, and Players' Clubs, also member Metropolitan Museum of Art, of the American Fine Arts Society, of the New York Genealogical and Biographical Society, member of the Huguenot Society, New England Society, and Sons of the Revolution. He was much interested in Bowdoin College 'and gave largely to it; also he supplemented the original endowment made by his ancestor for the "Bowdoin Prizes" of Harvard University.

Throughout his boyhood and youth, "Nevis," his grandfather Hamilton's house on the Hudson, was another home to him, as it was to all the grandchildren, their gathering place during school and college holidays in summer and winter; at Christmas the scene of house parties full of gaiety, with the skating, sleighing and dancing of a joyous set of young people. In 1862 he married Julia Irving, daughter of Moses H. Grinnell of the New Bedford family, partner of the important house of Grinnell, Minturn & Company, shipping merchants, and of Julia Irving, a niece of Washington Irving. Mr. Grinnell's country home, "Wolferts Dell," adjoined that of "Wolferts Roost," the old name of Irving's cottage, "Sunnyside," visited by all travelers, whether from the Old World or the New, to do homage to the first of American authors of that day. Mr. Grinnell, the kindest, most hospitable of hosts, gathered about him distinguished men in political as well as in financial circles, and the young George Bowdoin shared in this association.

From his youth up, Mr. Bowdoin belonged to Grace Protestant Episcopal Church. He was strongly attached to it. One of his best known gifts is the Grace Neighborhood House on Fourth Avenue, connected with the church, devoted to the religious, educational and civic welfare of the neighborhood. He also gave the organ in the western tower and the chimes attached to it. With Mrs. Bowdoin, he was much interested in the Cathedral of St. John the Divine and its memorial chapels, in the chapel in memory of the Rev. William Reed Huntington, and together they donated the Chapel of St. Boniface. With the late-J. P. Morgan, Mr. Bowdoin gave the necessary sum for the crossing of the Cathedral, thus sufficiently completing the edifice, as it now stands, to make it possible to hold services within its walls.

This brief synopsis of his career would be but a poor tribute to offer George Bowdoin were it not that, joined to the absolute purity and integrity of his high character, his success stands for a life time of hard work, of persistent industry and application. These were among his dominant traits. As in his youth of good looks and high spirits and keen enjoyment of social life, and with every opportunity open to him for such enjoyment, he allowed nothing to interfere with the task he had undertaken; so, in his old age, when he retired from active business there was found in him no weakness and no indolence. After long years of business detail and responsibility his mind was fresh and young and open to a variety of interests. "Now I have time for reading and travel," he would say, and he accomplished both. Besides this, having amassed a fortune solely by his own industry, the last decade of his life was passed in the enjoyment of giving it away by thousands and tens of thousands every year-and this so quietly that his great liberality was hardly known save to those immediately benefitted by it.

For he had a deep-seated reticence and reserve, and a modesty touching in its manifestations. It was a "great surprise" to him when, in the course of his career, one piece of good fortune after another was, so to speak, "thrust upon him." It did not occur to him that in his early business life older men, high in financial circles, were watching the young broker, his cool head, his avoidance of speculation, his industry and integrity before inviting him to be associated with them. In the counting-house his presence made for serenity and kindliness, while his invariable courtesy to high and low was, in itself, a power.

It was said of him, "Mr. Bowdoin always had time. There was no bringing of hurry or impatience into his presence. They seemed to melt away."

Those associated with him in the management of affairs have written, "His simplicity and sincerity of motive, with the clearness of his judgment, gave great value to all his opinions, and his quiet word of counsel, often given with diffidence, made many difficult problems easy."

Many men have spoken of him as their ideal of a gentleman. Associating with him under difficult circumstances and varying experiences, they had never known him, by word or act, to forfeit the estimate they had made: "Always—and at all times—a gentleman!"

REV. WILLIAM JONES SKILLMAN.

By Tobias A. Wright.

In the death of Mr. Skillman, which occurred in Corona, Borough of Queens, N. Y., Feb 23, our Society loses one of its useful workers. After a ministry of over fifty years in the Reformed Dutch Church he retired to spend the closing years of his life largely in gathering and arranging genealogical records of his own and allied Dutch families, many of which have appeared in the pages of this magazine. Possessed of a wonderful faculty for finding missing links, he succeeded in unraveling tangles that had long baffled others. A special intuition seemed to guide him on the ancestral trial, and hundreds of the present generation are indebted to him for about all they know of their early Dutch progenitors. A beautiful pen-printed and illuminated volume of his unpublished genealogical notes is indigitive of the painstaking care displayed in all his work. This collection he generously presented to the New York Genealogical and Biographical Society and may be seen in its library.

At a time of life when most men cease to labor, Mr. Skillman continued his contributions to religious literature. The infirmities of age rested lightly upon him, and his genial kindly personality was a joy to his friends and an inspiration to young men. He died at the age of 79 and his long and useful life was well worthy of emulation.

The genealogical records of the Skillman family, compiled by him, may be found in the Record, beginning in vol. 37, page 22.

HENRY PARSONS KING.

By Rufus King.

Henry Parsons King, of Boston, Mass., died at his home in Beacon Street, October 31, 1913, after a long illness.

Mr. King, the son of George Parsons and Sarah Williams (Lathrop) King, of Boston, was a descendant, in the ninth generation of William Kinge, of Salem, Mass., who was born in England in 1595 and came to New England in 1635; his son, Samuel King, an early settler at Southold, L. I., was the ancestor of Henry Parsons King as set forth in the Pedigree of King of Salem, Mass. (N. Y., 1887). The RECORD for 1901-2 also contains a brief history of the family.

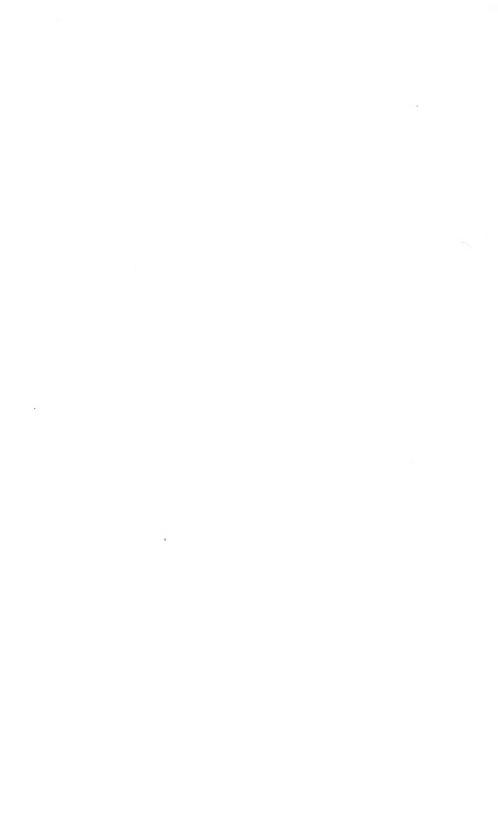

Henry Parsons King, the subject of this memoir, was born in Roxbury, Mass., January 14, 1867, and educated at Harvard University, a member of the class of 1889. He married October 19, 1895, Alice Ormond, daughter of the late Mahlon Day Spaulding of Boston, by whom he had two children, Katherine Spaulding King, deceased, and Henry Parsons King, Jr.

Mr. King, at the time of his death, was identified with large commercial interests in Boston, and was also active in its social life as indicated by his membership of the Somerset, Union and other clubs and societies of that city.

Funeral services were conducted by the Rev. Dr. Alexander Mann, of Trinity Church, Boston, and the burial was in Forest Hills Cemetery, Jamaica Plains.

Mr. King is survived by his wife and son and a sister, Mrs. Edward M. Weld of New York City.

GENEALOGICAL NOTES RELATING TO JOAN JENTIL-MAN, WIFE OF REV. JOHN YONGES, OF SOUTHOLD, N. Y.

By LUCY I). AKERLY.

"The Town of Southwold has for a long time enjoyed an evangelical ministry. In 1626, on June 14, Mr. Christopher Yonges departed this life,"* having been Vicar of Reydon, and stately St. Edmund's, Southwold, since 1611.

This shows the early influences surrounding the vicar's son, Rev. John Yonges, the principal founder of our own Southold, L. I., who doubtless came from the parish, if not from the fascinating little church of St. Margaret's, Reydon.†

The maiden name of Joan, his wife, has been much discussed. In Moore's Indexes she is simply Joan; in his Historical Address of 1890 the surname Lewington is added, a typographical error.

Munsell's American Ancestry and the Oyster Bay Yonges Record

call her Herrington.

The MSS. Parish Register at Southwold was personally examined by the writer of this article in 1903. The marriage entries read: "1622, July 25, John Yonge & Joan Herrington, widow." "1613, March 7, Robert Herrington & Johan Jentilman."

The printed Marriage Licenses of the Archdeaconry of Suffolk, at Ipswich, Eng., have: "1622, July 24, John Yonges & Joan Herrington, both single, of Southwold, surety Chr. Yonges;" or as Mr. Reynal Upham puts it, "John Yonges, bach., & Joan Herrington, spinster."‡

The author of the Yonges Genealogy concludes Joan may have been daughter of Stephen Herrington, named in the will of her father-in-law, Rev. Christopher Yonges.

The latest light on the subject comes from Mr. J. C. Herrington, of Portsmouth, Eng., a native Southwolder, who traces back to Robert Herrington, Bailiff of Southwold, 1607, whose family record, compiled from English sources only, distinctly states that "Joan Jentilman, widow of Robert Herrington," (prob. son of the Bailiff above) "married 2nd, Rev. John Yonges, who later came to America."

The Herringtons are one of the few Southwold families extant in the days of Rev. Christopher Yonges who have to-day a male representative.

Robert, son of Robert and Joan (Jentilman) Herrington, bapt. I October, 1616, thenceforth disappears from the Southwold Pas-ish Register. Perhaps he was that Robert Herrington (Harrington), of Watertown, Mass., 1642, who m. 1 October, 1648, Susanna, dau. of John George, and had, says Savage, Susanna, John, Robert, George killed by the Indians at Lancaster, 1676, Daniel, Joseph, Benjamin, Mary, Thomas and Samuel.*

We find other Herringtons or Harringtons in New England. Benjamin Herenton died in Providence, R. I., 1687, an intimate friend and connection by marriage of Roger Williams.†

To return to the Jentilmans (Gentlemans). Herrington tradition make Joan Yonges the probable daughter of Thomas Jentilman, many times Bailiff at Southwold, described in Wake's History of Southwold as the "unmatchable, who lived 98 years in perfect sight and memorie, giving Composition Lings "(a free tribute to the king from every fishing bark) "70 yrs. to 4 princes, King Edward, Queens Mary and Elizabeth and James 1st."

Tobias, his son, an author of note, revivor of the fisheries, emulated his father's fame.

Joan Jentilman, having both a son and a grandson called Thomas Yonges, doubtless descended from Thomas Jentilman, but was probably dau. of William and Agnes Jentilman, whose dau. Joan was bapt, at Southwold, 5 July, 1603, her name being one of the first on the Parish Register there.

There is no mention of any other early Joan Jentilman, nor any other disposition of Joan, dau. of William Jentilman, hence it was doubtless she who married Robert Herrington in 1613, let us say, aged at least 14 or 15, so born about 1598-9. This would make her nearly the same age as Rev. John Yonges, born 1598-1602,‡ and renders it most unlikely that Thomas Jentilman, born 1511, died 1609, was her father; he was more likely to have been her grandfather or great grandfather.

The name Jentilman (Gentleman, Jentilhomme) is one of those nicknames or sobriquets in which the Normans delighted, and like Bonner, Debonaire and Corteis, signified a courteous and affable character, one with whom it was a pleasure to be.§

Robert Jentilhomme is found in the Wills at Bury St. Edmunds, Thomas Gentleman on the Rolls of Parliament, Nicholas Gentleman on the Hundred Rolls, while several English authors were named Gentleman. The name also appears in Burke's Landed Gentry, and at Boston, Mass.

The arms of Robert Geo. Gentleman, Esq., of Ballyhorgan and Mt. Coal, Co. Kerry, Ireland, are: "A demi-eagle, displayed, with 2 heads, sa., on each wing a trefoil or. Motto: Truth, honor and courtesy." ¶ [¶] Fairbairn's Crests.

We do not know whether Joan Jentilman Yonges bore the above arms or not, but it is certain that the motto would describe many of her descendants.

Herrington traditions hold that the Southwold Jentilmans were shipbuilders, mariners, boatowners; the Herringtons seamen and fishermen, while for years the wars took them away from the old town.

In other words, the roving Viking blood that has made the English the greatest colonists on the globe, held both Herringtons and Jentilmans fast with its irrisistible spell and thirst for adventure, and to it Joan Jentilman Yonge's descendants doubtless owe more than they are aware.

ADAM MOTT OF STATEN ISLAND.

By Edward Doubleday Harris.

Heretofore but little has been published concerning the elder branch of the Adam' Mott family of Hempstead, Long Island, N. Y. The patriarch had, as is abundantly established by contemporaneous documents,* two sons bearing his own name, Adam,² the eldest of the children, who was baptized in the Dutch Church of New Amsterdam, 14 Nov., 1649, and Adam, the youngest, who was born at Cow Neck, 20 Aug., 1680, as the bible record reads, "at 1 P. M." It is with the elder of the two that we have to do at this time. The story of the younger is well known.†

Adam, as has been said, was baptized 14 Nov., 1649, the first child of his parents who had been married 28 July, 1647. He was therefore but eight years of age when his father had taken residence at Hempstead, near the head of the Harbor, in 1657. In 1671, then twenty-two, he purchased of Edward Titus, three acres of land with a house, calling himself Adam, "junior." On March 23, 1674, "Adam Mott, junior," was a seaman on the ketch Hopewell from New York to Virginia. In 1678, still "jr." and "of Hempstead," he was cited to appear to answer to a charge of debt, brought by Gabriel Minviell of New York. Sept. 25, 1691, as "eldest son of Adam Mott, dec'd, who died intestate," he petitioned Court that he might be appointed to administer his father's estate. He sold his interest in the Cow Neck lands to William Nicoll, Sept. 20, 1693. On April 30, 1694, then calling himself "Sr.," he conveyed his interests in certain lands that had been his father's to his half brothers and sisters, his brother Adam at that time being but fourteen years old. The Hempstead Census! of 1698 lists him between the families of his brother John Mott and James Jackson (evidently his nearest neighbors), one Nicholas Stilwell, probably of his wife's family, being of his household.

"M". Adam Mott

His wife's name first appears in deeds in connection with his in 1704, though he had been married as early, certainly, as 1678, to Mary, the daughter of Nicholas and Mary Stilwell. In this connection it is interesting to read the contents of a paper kept in the State Records at Albany until destroyed by the disastrous fire of 1911. "hamfted 5 day of March 1705. M'. sacatary s' be pleased to inform y° governor that I have given my consant that this barer Solomon samens shall have my dagter mary pray assist him in gating a lysans for thare marag and i shall be (willing to you so I rest your) assured friend and servant Ad Mott my wife is allso willing to y° same." In 1705 he was Justice of the Peace, and apparently living at Rockaway, on the south side. To his son Adam he conveyed by deed of June 15, 1713, one-half of all his lands at Rockaway, and Nov. 28, 1719, he and his wife Mary, with their son Adam and his wife Elizabeth, sold to John Mott their lands on the "Neck," at the same place. This is the last recorded evidence of him and his wife, as living, that appears.

To the issue of Adam and Mary, as shown by the Census and other documents already cited, Mrs. Bunker* adds, as the eldest, Jane, who married in 1693 Richard Seaman (b. 1673-6; d. 1749); and Bergen† would have us add another daughter, Maria or Mary, who was wife of Daniel' Stilwell (Nicholas'), bapt. Nov. 13, 1653, of Gravesend and later of Staten Island, dying about 1720, with issue Nicholas, b. 1678, Samuel, b. 1680, Daniel, b. 1687, and Richard.

Adam² and Mary Mott certainly had:

1. Ann, unmarried 1698.

2. Mary, married 1705, Solomon Seaman.

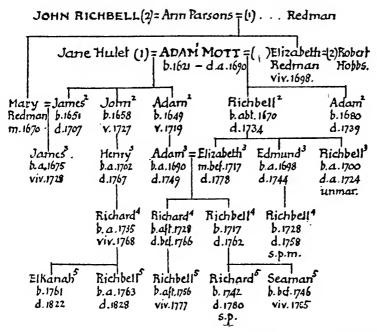

3. Adam, born 1684-1690.

ADAM³, apparently the youngest of his father's children, and the only son, was born not earlier than 1684, nor later than 1690. He first appears on the records June 15, 1713, when his father conveyed to him one-half of his lands at Rockaway. He married some time not long before 1717, Elizabeth, the daughter of Richbell² Mott, who was one of his father's younger half-brothers. I [‡] Adam Mott, the patriarch, for his "last wife," as he calls her, had taken about 1670, Elizabeth, the step-daughter of John Richbell of Mamaroneck, and sister of Mary, the wife of James² Mott (bapt. 1651), the second son of the patriarch, and own brother of Adam². From this late marriage of Adam, Sr., there resulted four sons, Richbell, Charles, William and Adam. Richbell was a man of some prominence, lived at Great Neck, and among his children were Edmund³, Richbell³ and a daughter Elizabeth³, who became the wife of Adam³ Mott of the text. The son Richbell³, born about 1700, died 1725, apparently single. Edmund³, to keep alive the christian name, named a son Richbell¹, born 1728, and who died 1758 without male issue. Elizabeth, the elder Richbell² daughter, who married Adam³ Mott, gave the name to one of her two sons, the Richbell¹ of the text, whose brother Richard⁴ was the father of the last Richbell⁵ in this line, as will be seen later. Cotemporary with this last was another, the sixth to bear the name of Richbell, born about 1763, of Far Rockaway, who is easily separated by the fact that he was brother of Elkanah⁵, both the sons of Richard⁴, the son of Henry³, the son of that John² to whom Adam² Mott sold his farm in Rockaway in 1710. The relative positions in the family pedigree may be readily seen in the subjoined table.

Undoubtedly he continued to live at Rockaway for awhile, for Nov. 28, 1719, Adam Mott, Sr., with Mary his wife, and Adam, Jr., with Elizabeth his wife, "now living all of us at a place called Rockaway," joined in conveying to John' Mott 264 acres of land, with the houses, barns, etc., thereon. In 1725 he had transferred his residence to Staten Island, for June 15 of that year Enoch Stephenson and wife Katherine conveyed to him certain lands with house, barns, etc., thereon, situated on the south side of the Freshkill in Richmond Co., the same being then in the occupation of the grantee under a lease; and Sept. 10 following "Mr." Adam Mott's cattle mark was recorded in the county clerk's books. The fact that his mother's people, the Stilwells, were living on Staten Island, doubtless influenced him in changing his residence. In 1728 he was made the County Clerk, and appears to have occupied the office for ten years. His peculiar signature (sometimes mistaken for Abram Mott) on many of his official documents in the county and at Albany serves to identify him both in Hempstead and after his retirement from office.* In 1738 he wrote from Richmond county to the Governor in behalf of his son Richbell. Evidently he returned to Long Island, for July 11, 1745, with his wife Elizabeth, he sold to John Allyn, then of Madnan's Neck (north side of Hempstead) their "home farm of land . . . formerly belonging to Richbell Mott," Elizabeth's father, consisting of 138 acres "which had been Adam Mott's." This was his last appearance in the New York records. The discovery a few years ago of a forgotten volume in the cellar of the County Court House in New York City, gave the first intimation of his subsequent history. Therein it appeared that Elizabeth Mott of Richmond county, widow, filed a bond for £500 as administratrix of her late husband, Adam Mott, "formerly of Richmond county, but since of the Province of Penna.," gentleman, deceased. Samuel Stillwell of New York City, merchant, was the surety, and the date was March 8, 1749. Of the estate on the Freshkill, which had been acquired in 1725, the records show no disposition in his lifetime, or in that of his widow. Searches in the records of many of the county seats of Pennsylvania failed to locate him after 1745. Recently Mr. William Alfred Robbins placed before the writer an original deposition which gave the clue resulting in the discovery of his retreat. Under date of Oct. 1, 1750, Richbell Mott, his son, testified in Queens Co., N. Y., to having been present at the marriage of one George Manlove "of the Little Creek Hundred In County of Kent upon Deleware," to Mary, the daughter of John Treadwell of Hempstead, the officiating clergyman being "Mr. Reading, Rector of the Parish Church of St. Georges In New Castle County In the Territories of pensilvany," and that the deponent "was Bondsman for the License In the Town of Dover," that he is "Aged Thirty-Two yeares, of the County of Kent upon Deleware, Gentleman." A personal search of the county records at Dover disclosed much of the subsequent history of the family. Peter Galloway and his wife Elizabeth, Feb. 11, 1747, of the county of Kent, conveyed by deed to "Adam Mott of the county of Richmond in the Colony of New York," for a consideration of £350, several parcels of land in Dover Hundred, lying upon Dover Creek and Dover River, with their houses, barns, etc., Richbell Mott being one of the witnesses; and on the same day the same grantors conveyed to the same grantees 180 acres of land "called Willinbrook" in Little Creek Hundred in the same county. On Feb. 22, 1748, Adam Mott of Kent Co. conveyed to

^{*} In the State Library at Albany there was, until recently, on file, the deposition of one Adam Mott, yeoman, of Richmond Co., Henry Young and Joseph Carman, concerning a wounded whale cast ashore on Staten Island, dated Apr. 10, 1730. The Mott signature makes it evident that the signer was not the county clerk, nor apparently could he have been any other descendant of the patriarch than the son of that name of Charles² of Hempstead. It is more likely that he was that Adam (son of Lorus or Lawrence Mott) of Matinecock, Long Island, who in 1724 submitted the inventory of his brother Thomas' estate at Little Egg Harbor, N. J., and of whom we know nothing further.

[†] The State of Delaware has but three counties, New Castle in the north Kent in the middle, and Sussex in the south. New Castle was the seat of that county until the year 1881, when it was removed to Wilmington. Search in the Registry of Wills there discloses nothing of the surname of Mott until 1784, when administration of the estate of Nathan Mott was granted to Frederick Eristmingland, said Nathan, lately deceased, having lived at Newcastle. Later the name of Mote appears, the family being of Mill Creek Hundred. Apparently neither was of the eastern family of Mott.

I Kent Co. Deeds, N, 193, 194.

his "son Richbell Mott" of the same place the Dover lands bought of Galloway the year before, and upon the record appears, affixed to the acknowledgment under date of March 11, 1748, the signature of Adam Mott made familiar to us by its frequent occurrence on New York documents.*

In the Dover Registry of Wills (K, 6) it appears that Feb. 7, 1749, there was issued "at Dover in Kent . . . to Richbel Mott, son of Adam Mott, dec'd," letters of administration, the said Adam having lately died intestate. It will be remembered that on March 8 following the widow Elizabeth was bonded as administratrix in Richmond Co., N. Y. In the Registry of Deeds at Dover under date of Dec. 14, 1757 (P, 47) it may be read that "Adam Mott, late of Kent Co., deceased . . . left three children, to wit, Richbell Mott, eldest son . . . Elizabeth, the wife of Benjamin Seamans, and Richard Mott, a minor." Further reference to this document will be made in its proper place. It is therefore apparent that Adam' Mott, the Richmond Co. clerk, and grandson of the patriarch in the oldest line of descent, died while a resident of Delaware a little before Feb. 7, 1749.

Elizabeth Mott, the widow, continued in residence at Staten Island, made her will there Jan. 30, 1777, appointing her "grandson Richard Seaman of Richmond Co." her executor, and died sometime before April 2, 1778, when the will was proved. Her legatees were "grandson Richbell, son of my son Richard Mott, dec'd," when he shall reach the age of 22; "granddaughter Elizabeth Seaman, daughter of my daughter Elizabeth, the wife of Benjamin Seamans." No mention was made of the children of her older son Richbell. Her gravestone has not been found on Staten Island, though diligent search has been made for it, nor is that of her husband standing in either of the two old church-yards in Dover.

Apparently the only issue of Adam' and Elizabeth Mott were:

1. Richbell', born 1717-18 (32 in Oct. 1750).

2. Elizabeth, wife of Benjamin Seaman in 1743.

3. Richard', born later than 1728.

RICHBELL', the older son of the County Clerk, stated in his deposition of 1750 concerning the Manlove marriage that he was "aged 32 years." Hence 1717-18 must be ascribed as the approximate date of his birth. He had, therefore, barely come of age when his father appealed to the Governor, Nov. 1738, to appoint him "lieutenant at large" for Richmond Co. He married while in his minority, March 1, 1736, Mary, daughter of Richard and Sarah Seamans. March 9, 1744, then styled "of Co. Richmond, gentleman," he was appointed by the Court to administer upon the estate of Samuel Briton, dec'd. He accompanied his father to Delaware in 1747, settled the paternal estate there two years later, and continued in residence in Kent Co., in the township of Little Creek Hundred, until his death in 1762. Apparently a separation had occurred from his wife, for when her father Richard Seaman, "of Herricks in the bounds of Hempstead," wrote his will on the 15th of the 5th month, 1751, he gave to her the use of the house he had "bought from Searing," with certain personal effects, "all these she is to have during the time she doth or shall live separate from her husband Richbell Mott, or if he should die, then to her use during her widowhood;" and in a codicil (April 17, 1752) revoking this bequest adds, "she shall have the use of the new house I am building . . . so long as she lives separate from her husband."

Feb. 7, 1753, Richbell Mott, "of Kent Co., farmer," conveyed to Richard Wells two parcels of land in Dover Hundred, being a portion of the purchase of his father Adam from Galloway in 1747, and which constituted a part of his share of the estate. Jan. 1, 1759, then of Little Creek Hundred, "gentleman," he conveyed "in consideration of the love and good will that I have and do bear to the Societies of the Church of England and the Presbyterians, and for the edication of youth professing themselves members of either of the Societies above said" to John Brinckle of Little Creek Hundred and to "Richard Mott of the same place, vestrymen in the Parish of St. Mary in Kent Co. on Delaware," and to John Miller, Presbyterian minister at Dover, certain lands, being a part of his homestead in Little Creek Hundred "called by the name of York."

The date of his death has not been learned, nor the place of his burial, but June 10, 1762, letters of administration were issued at Dover "to Matthew Manlove and Sarah Manlove (Mary Mott you widow having first exhibited her Renn)."* In a conveyance from Richard Mott, his son, in 1767, to be hereafter more particularly noted, there occurs this passage—"the said Richbell Mott . . . died intestate, leaving Mary, widow; Richard, his eldest son, and several other sons and daughters;" and in another conveyance from Seaman Mott it is stated that Richbell Mott died "leaving four children, to wit, Sarah, now the wife of Matthew Manlove, and Richard Mott, Seaman Mott and Elizabeth, the wife of Solomon Seamans."† Mary, his widow, was living in 1767.

Thus it appears that the issue of Richbell' and Mary Mott were:

1. Sarah, probably the oldest child, and the wife of Matthew Manlove in June, 1762.

2. Richard, older son, probably not of age in 1762.

3. Seaman.

4. Elizabeth, wife of Solomon Seaman in 1768.

RICHARD' MOTT, the second son of the County Clerk, was born as late certainly as 1728, for he was under age in 1749 when his father died. Thomas Irons was his guardian. On the 14th Dec., 1757, he, then "of Kent Co., yeoman," conveyed to John Vining his interest, as a younger son, in divers pieces of land in Dover, one of them bounding on Court House Square.

^{*} Kent Co. Registry, K, 285. † Kent Co. Deeds, R, 251.

[‡] Court House Square is the notable feature of Dover to-day. Surrounded by its dignified public buildings and private residences of a past generation, an atmosphere of peace and quiet pervades the scene as delightful as it is unusual.

He was that Richard who in 1759 was a vestryman of the "Parish of St. Mary in Kent Co." mentioned in the conveyance of that year of lands in Little Creek Hundred, forming a part of the homestead of his brother Richbell. His father's land at Willingbrook in Little Creek Hundred, one hundred and eighty acres, "the whole tract," he sold May 27, 1763, to Govey Emerson. No further mention of him in the Dover Registry appears until 1766, when, on Dec. 17, Jerusha Mott, widow, was granted letters of administration on the estate of Richard Mott, deceased. Thereafter neither the widow nor any Motts that could have been his children can be discovered on the record in Delaware. In her will of 1777, his mother Elizabeth, of Staten Island, names her son Richard's son Richbell, at that time not twenty-two years of age.

The only known issue of Richard' and his wife Jerusha was:

1. Richbell, born later than 1756, living in Dover 1766, and alive in 1777, then under twenty-two. Nothing further is known of him. He could not have been that other Richbell of Rockaway, who was born about 1763, for he was brother to an Elkanah, sons of another Richard, who was grandson of that John Mott of Rockaway to whom the County Clerk sold the farm in 1719. This last Rockaway Richbell was the tobacconist of New York City, 1801-1811, and was dead in 1828, the father of a Stephen, probably the brass founder of New York.

RICHARD' MOTT, the elder of the two sons of Richbell' of Little Creek Hundred, was born probably either on Staten Island or Long Island, and about the year 1742. It seems conclusive that he was not of age when his father's estate was placed under administration in 1762.

On May 6, 1767, Richard Mott, then "of Queens Co., N. Y., yeoman," as the "eldest son" joins with his mother "Mary Mott of Queens Co., widow and relict of Richbell Mott," in conveying to Thomas Irons of Kent Co., Delaware, their interest in certain lands (300 acres), "part of two large tracts called York and Willingbrook in Little Creek Hundred," the said Richbell having "died intestate leaving Mary, widow, Richard, the eldest son . . . and several other sons and daughters." Matthew and Sarah Manlove witnessed the conveyance.* It is apparent that he had returned to Long Island from Delaware and was probably living with his mother at Herricks, "within the bounds of Hempstead."

In the records of the Surrogate Court in New York Citythere may be read the will of Richard Mott "of Herricks in the township of Hempstead," made "on the 12th day of the eighth month, 1779," he then being "in a weak state of health." It gives "all my wearing apparel unto my brother Seaman Mott... my bed and furniture ... unto my sister Sarah

Manlove . . . the sum of four pounds to be paid into the hands of the Treasurer of the monthly meeting of Friends at Westbury for the use of said meeting . . . the remainder . . . unto children of my brother Seaman Mott, to the children of my sister Sarah Manlove."† It is apparent that Richard Mott after his return to Long Island, and undoubtedly under the influence of his mother's people, the Seamans, joined the Quakers, and that he died between August 12, 1799, and July 28, 1780, leaving neither wife nor child and with no real estate.

SEAMAN' MOTT, the younger of the two sons of Richbell, was probably born 1744-46. His name first appears upon the Kent Co. records May 14, 1767, when James Stevens sold to him for £360 certain lands on "St. Jones's Neck" in that county. On Feb. 24, 1768, then "of Little Creek Neck and Hundred, yeoman," he sold to Abraham Vamoy, Jr., for £300, his interest in lands "called York," which had been his father Richbell's, and appoints Samuel McCall and Mark McCall his attorneys to appear for him "at any time after the date of this" document. months later, Apr. 21, 1768, then of Kent Co., with wife Nancy, he conveyed to Govey Emerson his interest in the York and Willingbrook lands, and in this deed it is again recited that Richbell Mott died "leaving four children, to wit: Sarah, now the wife of Matthew Manlove, and Richard Mott, Seaman Mott and Elizabeth, the wife of Solomon Seamans of Maryland." His name does not appear later either as grantee or grantor in the land records of the county, nor is there in the Dover Registry of Wills anything relating to the settlement of his estate. Delaware Archives, I. 70, 71, is authority for the statement that he was a sergeant in Capt. Manlove's company, "part of the flying camp in the Delaware battalion," enlisted July 30, 1776. The Simmons Moat of the Dover Tax List of 1785 was undoubtedly the same man. The wording of his elder brother Richard's will of 1779 implies that at that time he had children, but nothing has been learned of them either in Delaware or Long Island. It is possible that the descendants might be traced through the records of the Pension Office in Washington.

[†] Several wills in the Dover Registry throw light on the Manlove connection. That of Matthew of Kent Co., made Dec. 13, 1773, presented Dec. 23, 1773, names sister Margaret Craigo, brother Mark Manlove, and nephew Matthew Manlove (L. 147). The will of another Matthew (apparently the husband of Sarah Mott) of Kent Co., made April, 1775, presented Jan. 1, 1778, mentions wife Sarah, and minor children without naming them (L. 167). The will of Mott Manlove of Dover, yeoman, made Sept. 29, 1790, presented Oct. 12, 1790, gives his entire estate to his "natural daughter Elizabeth Manlove," and in case of her death before the age of twenty-one, to his brother George Manlove (M. 253). The will of another Matthew Manlove of Kent Co., made Feb. 11, 1811, gives all his estate to nephew, Charles Polk (O. 252), and to the children of my sister, Elizabeth Seaman, to be equally divided "between them" when they arrive respectively to the age of twenty-one years old or their respective days of marriage, or the first of those terms that shall happen." His "Kinsman Giles Seaman . . . and Richard Seaman, sons of my uncle Giles Seaman of Oyster Bay" to be the executors. The witnesses were Thomas Pearsall, John Searing and Sarah Lake, a spinster, who deposed July 28, 1780, and Apr. 25, 1781, letters testamentary were issued to the executors.

The Kent County records reveal the existence there at an early date of one Samuel Mott, whose family affiliations are not readily discernible. "Att a Court held for St. Joneses Countie the 20th of December, 1681, upon the severall pettions of the hereafter mentioned parsons desireing to take up land within the precincts of this Countie the Court grants the sd. Petitioners the following quantitys exprest"—among others to "Samuel Mott a grant of 400 ackers of land."* Thomas Heathered "of county St. Joneses in the Province of New York, planter," Aug. 11, 1682, assigned to Samuel Mott of the same place a lot "called Heatherds adventure . . . being situated on the west side of Delaware Bay and on the north side of a creek called Murther Creek near unto the head of the saide Creeke side and running from thence north-east," on Beaver Dam, containing three hundred acres. On the 15th of — mo, 1685, Samuel Mott "of Kent in territories of the Province of Penn." sold to John Edmundson for £18, one hundred and fifty acres adjoining Heatherd's Adventure, being one-half of a lot of three hundred acres "called Edmondson's charge." Again, the same grantor on the 15th of 12th mo., 1685, conveyed to the same grantee the piece known as Heatherd's Adventure.§ On the 10th of the 1st mo., 1689-90, Sarah Bishop of Kent Co., as administratrix of the estate of Benoni Bishop, sold to Samuel Mott four hundred acres called "Mott's field" in Kent Co., on the west side of Delaware Bay "in a fork of Murder Creek." || Samuel Mott assigned to John Edmondson, Feb. 4, 1687-8, lands covered by a Patent issued to him 12th of 8mo., 1681.

In the Dover Registry of Wills it appears that on the 14th of 7th mo., 1692, Sarah Mott of the "county of Kent in the Territories of Penn.," widow and relict of Samuel Mott of the county aforesaid, who had died intestate, was appointed by the Court to administer upon the estate.

The two creeks frequently mentioned in the Kent County deeds, Little Creek and Murder, are still known by the same names. Little Creek, which gave its name to the Hundred, or township, enters the Delaware Bay at a point directly east of the county town of Dover, and distant from it about seven miles. Murder, or Murder Hill Creek, enters the Bay at about the same distance to the southward; it is much the larger of the two. extending into the country through tortuous twistings in a southwest direction. The first "fork" is about five miles from the coast, the present town of Frederica occupying the ground between the two streams. Two miles further inland the Creek divides again. The sites of "Mott's Field" was probably at one or the other of these forks.

This Samuel Mott does not appear to belong to the Long Island family of that surname, and could not have been very closely related to the Richmond Co. Clerk. Adam' of Hempstead grandfather of the Clerk, had no son of record bearing the name of Samuel, and the dates preclude the theory that he was his grandson. Nathaniel' Mott of Scituate and Braintree, Mass., was father of a Samuel,' born 1668, but that man had a wife Mary, lived in Lyme, Conn., and made his will in 1751. Adam' Mott of Portsmouth, R. I., had in his large family no son Samuel, but the Kent Co. man might easily have been a grandson. The seafaring leanings of all these Mott families were quite pronounced, and it was a common occurrence for the coastwise sloops from New England and Long Island to extend their trade much farther from home than Delaware Bay.

EARLY SETTLERS OF WEST FARMS, WESTCHESTER COUNTY, N. Y.

COMPILER'S NOTE:-In comparing the will of Gabriel Leggett as given by the Rev. Mr. Leggett, with the copy filed in the Surrogate's Office, New York (Liber 1-2, page 335, according to the last binding of the volumes, or, Liber 2, page 25, according the index), it appears that Mr. Leggett must have made a mistake in copying the will, and was therefore in error in thinking that Gabriel made no mention of his daughter Mary in the will, and hence, in his later conjectures as to the date of her birth. The fourth paragraph of the will should read: "I give and bequeath unto my daughter Martha Leggatt my little negro boy. Item. I will and bequeath unto my daughter Mary Leggatt twenty pounds. I will and bequeath unto my daughter Sarah Leggatt twenty pounds," etc. Also; Mr. Leggett's note that this daughter Mary was "well married to John Archer" at this time is not correct, as we find in the will of Gabriel' Leggett, 1781, a bequest to his daughter Mary Archer, who is evidently the Mary, wife of John Archer, to whom Mr. Leggett refers.

The son of John Leggett, the mariner, is identified by the following extract from the records of the Dutch Church of New York: Married, Sept. 14, 1688: "Jan Legget, j.m. van de Barbados, en Catalina Tenbroeck, j. d. van N. Albanien, d'eerste wonende alhier, entwede tot N. Albanien." Translation: John Leggett, young man (i. e., unmarried), of the Barbadoes, and Catalina ten Broeck, young maiden, of New Albany; the first living here, the second at New Albany.

1689, July 29. Rachel. Sponsors: Hendrick H. ten Broeck and Gertrude ten Broeck.

1692, Feb. 28. Christina. Sponsors: Capt. Brandt Schuyler and Lysbeth ten Broeck. (Christina died in infancy.)

1693, April 2. Jan and Christina (twins). Sponsors: Dirck

Wesselszen, Cornelia Schuyler, Jannetje ten Broeck.

The indications are that this family removed to Columbia Co., N. Y. From the Rev. W. J. Leggett, now of Nyack, I obtain the information which enables me to arrange the following pedigree:

John, the mariner, and wife, Anne.

John, m. Catalina ten Broeck, Sept. 14, 1688; their son:

John, bapt. April 2, 1693; m. Oct. 25, 1722, Beta Delemater;

their son:

John, bapt. at Kinderhook, Feb. 9, 1723-4; d. 1773; m. and had 3 sons and 3 daughters. The sons were: James, John; Tobias, who m. and had son John Tobias, who had 4 sons: Abram, Frank, Charles and Willis.

James, married and had 2 sons and 4 daughters. Their sons were: John; James, who m. and had son James, and 5 other sons and 3 daughters.

John, m. and had 2 sons and 3 daughters. Sons; James, William.

William, m. and had 2 sons and 4 daughters. Sons: Charles F., who m. and had 2 sons, William F. and Fred H.; and (Rev.) W. J., who m. Eva Powell, and had children: Frank, Paul, Carl and Fanny.

Marriage records. Province of New York:

1764, April 19. John Leggett and Rachael Lametter. 1763, June 30. Gertrude Leggett and Jacob Vosburgh.

There is also a New England family, of which I have direct knowledge by correspondence with Mr. William Morris Legate of Leominster, Mass., born 1815. He says the first of his family came from Yarmouth, England, and was:

Capt. Robert, or Thomas Leggate, born 1700-1710, who was a captain in the English navy, and was killed at the battle of Louisburg (whether that of 1747 or 1758 he does not state). His wife was a French woman named Dupee. They had 2 sons: Thomas, Robert, who m. and had son Thomas, of Worcester, Mass., who was city councillor, 1780-82.

Thomas, m. and had 3 sons: William, a mariner; Thomas, major at Galina, Ill., 1846, who had 2 sons: George and Bruce, both cadets at West Point; Samuel, b. 1790.

William, the mariner, m. and had son William Morris, and 2 daughters.

Representatives of this family are now living at Leominster, Mass.; Stratham, N. H.; Hartford, Conn.; Leavenworth, Kan.; Denison, Texas; Mineral Point, Wis.; Woodland, Yolo Co., Cal.;

Westerly, R. I.

The tradition that the first of the Leggett name living in America came from Essex County, England, is found among all branches of the family, and was believed and told, I find, before anything was written or printed concerning the pedigree. That the American progenitors came from England is conclusive, and the evidence seems to show that they came from Essex.

Westchester County was settled chiefly by English, West Farms entirely so, and by Englishmen coming, for the most part, from New England, and there is circumstantial evidence that, although Gabriel Leggett may have come into New York directly from England, John Leggett, who is assumed to have been Gabriel's father, had lived for some years in Exeter and Hampton, now in the State of New Hampshire, and that he, John Leggett, had come into New England by way of the Barbadoes.

In an old English work entitled "Memoirs of First Settlers of the Island of Barbados, and other Carribbee Islands," I find in the list of settlers owning more than ten acres of land in the year 1638 the name of John Legat. In the list of inhabitants for 1640 his name does not appear, and it would seem from this that by the latter date he was either dead or had removed. About 1640 we find a John Legat in New England. I have no certain evidence identifying this John as he of Barbadoes, but it seems likely that they were the same, and it is worthy of note that the Leggetts of Westchester were connected in various ways with the West Indies, and especially with Barbadoes.

John Legat, or Leggett, was at Hampton, N. H., 1640, and again in 1649; at Exeter 1642 to 1649. He was town clerk of Exeter, 1642-49, and taught school in both Hampton and Exeter. I transcribe the following from Bell's History of Exeter: "Philimon Pormont was the first schoolmaster, before he departed another well qualified to be his successor had come to settle in the town, John Legat. He had taught school at Hampton. He lived in the place up to the year 1652, at least." His name was entered on the town book Oct. 20, 1642. From Toppan's Hampton Genealogies: "John Legat was admitted an inhabitant of Hampton the 30th day, 8th mo., 1640. Afterward at Exeter and again at Hampton in 1649." Hampton Town Records: "On the second of the second month, 1649, the selectmen of the town of Hampton have agreed with John Legat for this present year ensuing to teach and instruct all children of or belonging to our town."

On the 11th of November, 1642, John Legat, together with Edward Hilton, John Smart and John Richardson, witnessed the will of Thomas Wilson of Exeter; the will was proved Suffolk County, Massachusetts, the 31st of the 8th month, 1634, and in 1644 John Legat married Anne, widow of the said Thomas Wilson. (Thomas Wilson came to this country in June, 1633, with wife Anne and three sons, Humphrey, Samuel and Joshua; he had two other children born here, Deborah, born August, 1634, and Lydia, born November, 1636. He lived at Roxbury, and went later to Exeter, N. H., with Wheelwright.) There is no record of any children having been born to John and Anne (Wilson) son) Legat.

There seems to be no further mention of John Richardson at Exeter, but shortly after we find a John Richardson and a John Legat in Westchester. Richardson as one of the Patentees, with Edward Jessup, to the Manor of West Farms, and Gabriel Leggat (the first of the West Farms line) married Richardson's daughter, Elizabeth. Another John Legat (the mariner), who died in Barbadoes, was also from Westchester, and is supposed by Bolton and Pelletreau to have been a son of John and brother to Gabriel Legget of West Farms, though there seems to be no actual proof of the connection other than the fact that they were all in Westchester at about the same time. The differences in spelling the name are no disproof of relationship, as it is found variously given in the early records: Legat, Leggatt, Leggett, etc. I am of the opinion that John Legat of Exeter was the father of John (the mariner) and of Gabriel of West Farms; that he was a widower when he left England for Barbadoes previous to 1638, and that probably his children by his first wife were left in England and came to him later in Westchester as men.

Another connecting link between Exeter, N. H., and the settlement of Westchester is the fact that Mrs. Anne Hutchinson, whose brother-in-law, the Rev. John Wheelwright, was the founder of Exeter, and who was herself at Exeter for a short time, came to Westchester with John Throckmorton in 1642. She and her family were massacred by the Indians the following year.

Note on the Jessup and Hunt Connection:

Edward Jessup emigrated into Westchester from Fairfield. Conn. In the latter place he was owner of lands on Sascoe Neck. As has already been stated in these pages, he was one of the original proprietors and patentees with John Richardson of the West Farms.

His wife was Elizabeth —. (Bolton gives her name as Bridges, but in the Jessup Genealogy it is stated that no record of her maiden name has been found.) After the death of Edward Jessup, his widow, Elizabeth, married Robert Beacham, as appears by a deed of sale by them to Thomas Hunt of "all those lands and accommodations which were formerly Edward Jessup's, within the limits of Westchester that the sd Edward Jessup and John Richardson together bought."

Edward and Elizabeth Jessup left one son, Edward, and two daughters, one of whom was Elizabeth, who married Thomas

The following deed by Edward Jessup, junior, is not important except as it further identifies Cicely Hunt the wife of John³ Leggett: "Know all men by these presents that I Edward Jessup, of the town of Fairfield, New England, have sold, alienated, and conveyed, &c., unto Thomas Hunt, Junior, of the town of Westchester, his heirs, &c., all my right, title and interest to and in a certain parcell of mares, horses, and colts, within the government of New York, formerly belonging to my father Jessup. That is to say, all and every part and parcell of them, the above said Jades (no doubt branded and turned loose in the woods of the West Farms patent, according to terms of purchase) and all their increase, excepting to myself one yearling horse colt, which I give to the sd Thomas' daughter Silly (Cicily), freely giving and granting to the sd Silly; owning and acknowledging to have received due and full satisfaction for the said Jades of the sd Thomas Hunt. In witness whereof, I have (&c.) on this 3d day of July, 1682. (Signed) Edward Jessup. Witnesses: John Cooper, Roger Bartow, Abraham Whearly."

Thomas Hunt, formerly of Rye, and son of Thomas Hunt and Cicily (Pasley) Hunt, purchased in Westchester what was known as the Grove Farm, which was patented to him Dec. 4, 1667. 1668, as already stated, he purchased from his mother-in-law, widow of Edward Jessup, the Jessup portion of the West Farms patent. The next year he and John Richardson made an equal division of the estate. In 1688 he granted to his son Thomas what has since become known as Hunt's Point, or "One hundred acres lying at the south side of Gabriel Leggett's land, bounded easterly and southerly by the Bronck's."

His will is dated Oct. 6, 1694. He had previously deeded to his son Thomas certain lands, reserving to himself and his wife Elizabeth the use thereof during their lives; Thomas, junior, to pay Thomas, senior's, daughter Scisily (Thomas, junior's, sister) within four years after the death of the last parent £60, in four payments of £15 each year.

Thomas and Elizabeth (Jessup) Hunt had eight children, the youngest of whom was Cicily, who married John' Leggett.

GABRIEL LEGGETT AND HIS DESCENDANTS.

GABRIEL LEGGETT, born probably in Essex County, England. in 1635; came to Westchester County, N. Y., about 1670-76; resided at West Farms; was a land owner and merchant; he died at West Farms, before July, 1700, and was probably buried in the family graveyard on Hunt's Point. He was married, presumably at West Farms, about 1676, to Elizabeth Richardson of West Farms. She was born at —, about 1656; died at West Farms, -, 1724, and was probably buried in the graveyard on Hunt's Point; she was a daughter of John Richardson, one of the original patentees of the Manor of West Farms, and his wife Martha.

In a book entitled Narrative of Major Abraham Leggett of the Army of the Revolution, it is stated that Gabriel' was born in England in 1635. (Major Abraham Leggett was a son of John,' William,' Gabriel,' was quite a distinguished man of his day, and was vice-president of the Society of the Cincinnati, and he may have known the exact date of his great-grandfather's birth, although it has not been possible to verify his statement.) The records of lands owned by Gabriel' and his will have been given on a previous page, also such data as is known concerning Elizabeth Richardson, Gabriel's wife.

The exact order of birth of the children of Gabriel' and Elizabeth is not known, but such dates as are known, and guided by the order in which they are mentioned in Gabriel's will, it should be as given above. In the census for the town of Westchester, 1698, we find "Gabriel Leaggatt, wife Elesebath, children John, Thomas, william, mary, sarah, alce, Elesabath;" from this it seems likely that Gabriel' was not born until 1698.

Martha, who married William Davenport.

Gabriel' Leggett died before July, 1700; the exact date is not known, and the date of probate of his will is not given, but the will recorded just before his bears the date of June 28, 1700, and the one following July -, 1700, placing the date of his death probably only a short time previous to July, 1700.

JOHN² LEGGETT (Gabriel'), born presumably at West Farms, May 1, 1677 (?), resided at West Farms, was a landowner as his father, died at West Farms, Dec. -, 1707, and was probably buried at Hunt's Point. He was married, presumably, at West Farms, ____, 1698 or 1699, to Cicily Hunt of West Farms. She was born ____, before 1682, died between March 18 and Dec. 19, 1732, and was probably buried at Hunt's Point; she was a daughter of Thomas Hunt, who purchased his father-in-law, Edward Jessup's, share of the West Farms Patent in 1668, and his wife, Elizabeth Jessup.

Children 5 (Leggett), 3 sons and 2 daughters, all born, presumably, at West Farms.

i. Martha, b. about 1699; d. young, probably. (No record.)

ii. John, b. about 1700-01; d. —, 1777; m. Anna Hunt. +12 iii. Joshua, b. -; d. before June 30, 1738; m. Abi-+13gail ----.

iv. David, b. —; d. —; m. —. v. Sarah, b. —; d. —; m. —. 14 15

It is probable that John' Leggett was born May 1, 1677, since on May 1, 1698, his father, Gabriel, gave him a deed for fifty acres of land, presumably upon his coming of age. It appears also that he married about this date, or at any rate as early as 1699, since in the history of the Jessup family, by the Rev. Henry G. Jesup, it is stated that "John Leggett, the son of Gabriel, was a son-in-law of Thomas Hunt and had in 1700 a daughter Martha."

Since John's Leggett died at an early age very little is found in the public records concerning him. I note that John Leggett was a juror in 1705. Letters of administration of his estate were granted to his wife, Cicily, Dec. 18, 1707.

I am uncertain as to the order of birth of the children of John' and Cicily. Bolton and Pelletreau name only John and David; Martha is named as the only child in 1700 (Jessup Gen.) and therefore was probably the eldest; we get the names of Joshua and Sarah from deeds on record in Westchester.

By deed dated April 25, 1720, Robert and Cicily Eddas give to "our loving son, Joshua Legit, a negro boy Dick." Sarah Leggett signed a release of the personal estate of her father, 1721. I find nothing later on record concerning any of the children except John and Joshua. After the death of John's Leggett, his widow, Cicily (Hunt) Leggett, married Robert Eddas of Westchester. He was probably a widower when he married Cicily, and it was a daughter by this previous marriage who married Daniel Hunt, whom Cicily, in her will, calls "son-in-law." Robert Eddas died in 1726-27, and in his will dated Feb. 22, 1726, proved Westchester County, April 11, 1727, he mentions his wife, not named, sons Robert and John, daughter Abigail, granddaughters Arsenah and Phebe Hunt, all under twenty-one years of age.

Cicily (Leggett) Eddas died 1732, and her will, dated March 18, proved Dec. 19, 1732, mentions her son John Eddas, son Robert, daughter Abigail, and "the children which I had by both my husbands, John Leggett and Robert Eddas." Executors, son John Leggett and son-in-law Daniel Hunt.

(Pelletreau's abstracts of these two wills differ slightly from those of the New York Historical Society Collections, which have been followed in the above notes.)

3. Thomas' Leggett (Gabriel'), born probably at West Farms about 1678, resided at West Farms, was a landowner; he died at West Farms, 1707 or 1708; was not married.

In Bolton's History of Westchester the date of his birth is given as 1678. I have found no original records relating to him beyond that of his will. By this it is evident that he died a young man—thirty years of age if the above date of birth be correct—that he was unmarried and that his sisters Sarah, Alice and Elizabeth were living and unmarried at that date, and his sister Martha the wife of William Davenport, Jr. No mention is made of his sister Mary, and it is probable that she was dead before his will was written.

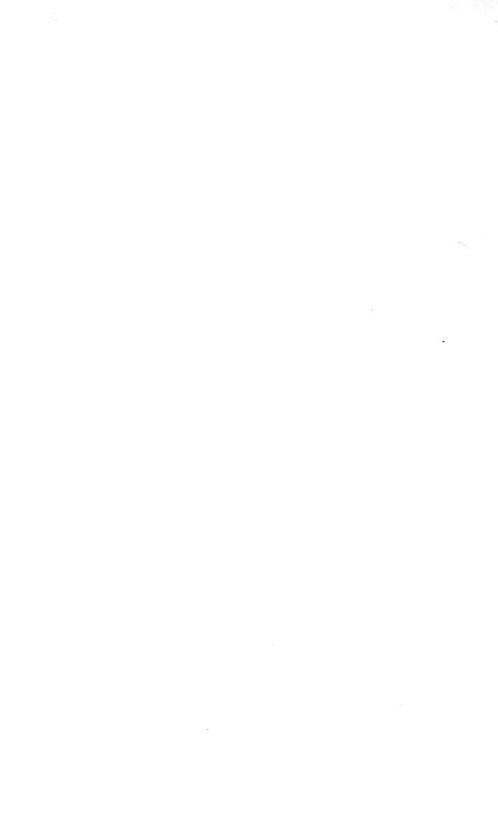

(This will confirms the fact that Gabriel' was the son of Gabriel,' and not of Thomas' as Bolton states him to have been. Bolton's error was no doubt due to the fact that Gabriel' is not mentioned in the will of Gabriel,' and he seems to have quite overlooked other evidence.)

Will of Thomas' Leggett, dated Sept. 7, 1707. Letters testamentary granted to Elizabeth Leggett, April 13, 1708. After the usual prefix, etc.: "I give full power to my beloved mother, Elizabeth Legitt, whom I have made Executrix of my last will and testament, to dispose of all my lands and meadows lying in the West Farms, which my father Gabriel Leggitt gave me, as she shall see cause, she having the advice of William Nicholls, Esq., Mr. Rd Alsop of Masby (Maspeth) Kills, and Mr. John Lawrence of Hellgate, but my will and mind is that what the said estate is sold for shall be put out for the use, benefitt and behoofe of my brother Gabriel Leggitt when he comes to age, or to his heirs lawfully begotten, and if the said lands and meadows be not disposed of before my said brother come to age yn my will and mind is yt ye sd lands and meadows be to him and his heirs lawfully begotten, and if the sd Gabriel dye without issue then I give my sd land and meadow, or what it was disposed of for, unto my brother William Legitt or to his heirs, and if in case my sd brother William Legitt, dye without issue, then I give the sd land and meadow, or what it was disposed of for, to my three sisters, viz.: Sarah, Alice, and Elizabeth Legitt to be divided equally amongst them or to their heirs. And for want of such issue, I give it to the heirs of Martha Davenport, wife of William Davenport, Junior. But my will and mind is that my sister Martha Davenport shall have five pounds paid her out of my estate within two years after my decease." He further gives to his sisters Sarah, Alice, and Elizabeth each five pounds when they come to age. Gives all his cattle, sheep, horses, and other personal estate to his mother. Appoints his mother and his friends William Nichols, Esq., of Islip, Suffolk Co., Mr. Richard Alsop, of Maspeth Kills in Newton, Queens Co., and Capt. John Lawrence, of Hellgate Neck in Newton, his executrix and executors.

Martha² Leggett (Gabriel¹), born at West Farms, probably, about 1680; died, presumably, at Perth Amboy, N. J. (date and place of burial not found). She married, probably, at West Farms previous to 1707 to William Davenport, junior, born —; died —. (Nothing further has been discovered concerning her.)

On the 30th of Sept., 1723, William Davenport of Perth Amboy, in East New Jersey, and Bridget, his wife, did convey all their right, title and interest in the Patent of West Farms unto William Leggett. From this it would appear that Martha had died between 1707, the date of her brother Thomas' will, and 1723, and that her husband had remarried. Another agreement, dated Oct. 10, 1723, is an "Indenture Tripantile" (the original is in the possession of Mr. Francis W. Leggett) between Gabriel Leggett, 2d, William Leggett and Abraham Lent, their signatures affixed, by which each has free right to fish, hunt, &c., within the Patent of West Farms, and by this instrument it appears that Elizabeth, widow of Gabriel' Leggett, had the day before granted this right to Gabriel, that only the day before Thomas Davenport and Sarah, his wife, had conveyed their same rights to Abraham Lent, and that William Davenport and his wife Bridget had on Sept. 30 conveyed the same to William Leggett (as stated above).

These deeds may be interpreted in several ways; it is possible that this William Davenport is the one who married Martha' Leggett, with a second wife Bridget, as surmised above, and that Sarah, the wife of Thomas Davenport, may be Sarah' Leggett, of whom we have no records, the two sisters having married brothers, or it is possible that this William and Thomas may have been the sons of William Davenport, junior, and Martha Leggett, or that the William named is William, junior, and Thomas, the son. (No further records of any of this family have been found, so that it will have to remain conjecture for the present, at least.)

7. WILLIAM LEGGETT (Gabriel'), born at West Farms, Sept. 1, 1001, was a landowner, is said to have been a sea captain for a time, and was alderman and mayor of the borough town of Westchester for many years; he died at West Farms, May 26, 1763, and was buried at Hunt's Point. He was married, first, at West Farms about 1713-14 to Sarah —. She was born 1692; died at West Farms, Aug. 30, 1744, and was buried at Hunt's Point. Nothing is known of her maiden name nor her parentage. William' Leggett married, second, at West Farms, April 13, 1745, Abigail —, born July 3, 1728; died at West Farms, Jan. 2, 1813, and was probably buried at Hunt's Point. Nothing has been discovered which would throw any light on her parentage.

Children 7 (Leggett), 3 sons and 4 daughters, all by the first wife, Sarah ——. All were born, presumably, at West Farms.

- +16 i. William, b. March 26, 1715; d. —, 1763; m. Elizabeth —
- ii. Sarah, b. Jan. 4, 1720; d. —; m. Charles Frasier. 十17
 - iii. Elizabeth, b. Aug. 9, 1724; d. ---; m. --18 iv. Charity, b. April 21, 1726; d. ---; m. - v. Abraham, b. July 3, 1728; d. June 2, 1813; m. Geertje Childs.

vi. Mary, b. July 10, 1730; d. —; m. —. vii. John, b. Feb. 4, 1733; d. Dec. —, 1760; m. Sarah Alsop.

The dates of birth, marriage, etc., of William' Leggett and his family are taken from his family Bible, the entries which are mostly presumably in his own handwriting are beautifully written, beginning: "William Leggett His Book or Bible—1715." (The dates as given vary slightly from those in Bolton's History of Westchester, but it is probable that the Bible records are the most correct.)

On one of the first blank pages is the following entry: "Memorandum: That there was a very hard winter in the year of 1740-41. This great snow fell on the 16th of December, 1740, and continued on ye land until 25th of March. That Capt. William Leggett and three other men walked over the ice to Long Island on ye 8th of February said years. On the 9th the sd Capt. Leggett, Capt. Lawrence and Alderman Gabriel Leggett went over to Long Island with a slay and horses, and on the 13th day of said February, the s^d men went over to Long Island and brought over thirty bushels of corn in two slays. On the 14th two slays went over and came back again."

William' Leggett is here called Captain. I have heard his great-great-grandson say that he was a sea captain, although I have no other evidence of it, and he tells of his covering the dinner table with Spanish dollars after one of his voyages. If this be so he did not continue to follow the sea, for from 1730 to the time of his death he was most of the time Alderman or Mayor of the Borough town of Westchester.

This William Leggett was he, with his wife and children, whose bones were removed from the old cemetery, as told in a previous paper.

The will of William' Leggett, dated Dec. 8, 1762, proved May 21, 1763, mentions his wife Abigail; daughter Mary, wife of Richard Lawrence of Staten Island; daughter Sarah Frasier, widow; grandson William Frasier; granddaughters Sarah and Mary Frasier; son Abraham; eldest son William; grandson Abraham, son of deceased son John; grandson William, son of said John, and granddaughters Frances and Susannah, daughters of the said John.

As no mention is made in the will of the other daughters it is probable that they were dead previous to 1762.

(As it is evident that the will of William' Leggett could not have been probated before his death, and the date of his death was May 26, 1763, the date given in the probate record, May 21, 1763, must be a mistake.)

From the Savage Family, by Lawrence Park, Esq., (see N. E. Hist. Gen. Reg., Vol. LXVII, p. 229), we obtain the following sketch of the life of Samuel Phillips Savage⁷ Thacher:

"A severe attack of typhus fever rendered Mr. Thacher an invalid from his 15th year until 1817. During this time he devoted himself, principally for amusement, to the study of the law, and in 1817 removed to Buxton, Maine, and opened a law office. Owing to his inability to plead his clients' cases, his income from his law practise was found insufficient for the needs of his family, and in 1832 he removed to Saco, Maine, where his mother was living and became a commission merchant. In 1840 failing health obliged him to seek a warmer climate and in October of that year he removed with his family to Mobile, Ala., where he died.

I am indebted to Clarence Etienne Leonard, Registrar General of the Society of Founders and Patriots (P. O. address, Caryl, Yonkers, N. Y.), for the above correction to Record No. 200; who, in calling my attention to the error states:-"I am aware the most genealogists have identified Benjamin Smith's wife, Abigail Church, as the daughter of Edward and Martha Church; but this is incorrect, as Abigail, daughter of Edward and Martha Church, was the wife of George Wanton of Newport on Nov. 13th, 1727, and also on March 16th, 1749-50, as per Bristol Deeds, 18, p. 85, and Newport Deeds, iii, p. 279. On the other hand Bristol County Deeds, 28, p. 432, gives deed from Samuel⁴ Howland of Bristol to son-in-law Benjamin Smith, cordwainer, on March 1st, 1740. On May 15th, 1748, Samuel⁴ Howland died and his will was probated June 11th, 1748; he left one-seventh part 'to my daughter Abigail Smith.' As he leaves other seventh parts to his daughters Phebe, Mary and Mehitable Wardwell, this conclusively identifies Abigail⁵ (Howland-Church) Smith." OUR SOCIETY'S BUILDING FUND.

By John R. Totten.

On March 26th, 1914, our Society reached the 45th mile-stone in the journey of its life,—a long period in the life of man; only, however, a short season in the life of a society such as ours, founded as it is upon the recognized needs of a community. During this season of its infant existence it has proved itself possessed of a vitality which promises well for a prolonged life; and, nursed as it has been through this critical period of its existence, it has now reached a time of life when it can, under proper guidance, be expected to contribute largely to its own support.

During this season of its infant existence, with congenital pertinacity, it has developed from an almost pauper child, guided by a few foster parents (all of whom have passed to their reward), until now it stands an orphan in its youth, but no longer dependent upon charity for its existence. With a precocity all its own it has, in advance of its maturity, shown itself to be, not only willing, but able to support itself and also to enlist in its interest many friends (in absence of its foster parents) who recognize and encourage its ambition and earnestness of purpose. Several times during its infant progress it has become necessary to enlarge its nursery. Its first home was at the residence of Dr. David Parsons Holton, in New York City whence it moved later to the home of Dr. Holcombe at No. 54 East 25th St., and subsequently to Mott Memorial Hall, at No. 64 Madison Ave.; whence it removed later to its first important surroundings in the Berkeley Lyceum in West 44th St., between 5th and 6th Avenues. Later, due to the generous gift of $20,000 made to the yet infant society by the late Mrs. Elizabeth Underhill Coles, its guardians at that time were enabled to secure for it by purchase its present home at No. 226 West 58th St. Shortly after moving into this home it was found necessary to build a fireproof addition to the rear of this building, which was accomplished by the aid of generous subscriptions for that purpose. In 1909 this fireproof addition was found inadequate to accommodate the library of the still infant society, and another full story was added thereto; the cost of the said addition ($5,000) being defrayed partly by subscription and partly by the growing society itself. At the completion of this additional addition, the Society found itself without any debt whatever and the full owner of its home with doubled library space. It congratulated itself and imagined that it had ample accommodations for many years to come. This complacent condition of mind continued until about 1912, when it was found that the Society's library had so increased that steps looking to a future enlargement of facilities were absolutely necessary.

The present administration of the society then recognized that its ward was no longer a child, and that they must bestir themselves to secure for it a fund to establish it properly at its then approaching maturity. To this end the Trustees initiated a campaign for a new building and started a subscription fund for that purpose. incipiency the primary idea of the Trustees was to acquire the property adjoining our Society's home on the east, thus securing a lot 40 by 100 feet for future building purposes. This lot was then estimated (in 1912) as being worth at a fair market valuation $65,000. Therefore, the sum of $65,000 was set as the amount we must first acquire. With this object in view work was commenced and by the spring of 1913 there had been subscribed to this fund about $19,000; $10,000 of this amount had been donated by the late J. Pierpont Morgan, Esq., on the condition that the Society raised the other necessary $55,000. Mr. Morgan's subscription was made on the very eve of his departure for Europe on what was to be his last trip, and where, to the great sorrow of all, death overtook him.

Thus matters stood until November of 1913, when our Society was notified by the Executors of Mr. Morgan's estate that it would be necessary for us to raise the necessary $55,000 on or before December 31st, 1913; as, in their capacity of executors, it was necessary for them to make final preparations for the settlement of Mr. Morgan's affairs.

This decision, while anticipated, and the justice of which was fully recognized by our Trustees, yet faced us at a time when the generosity of the community had been largely taxed by the raising of the $4,000,000 fund for the Young Men's and Women's Christian Associations; and also within one month of Christmas, a period of large demand on the individual purses of all. A more unfortunate time to solicit funds could not have been selected. The campaign was vigorously pursued during the 31 days at our disposal; and on the eve of New Year's, 1914, our President informed us that a total of $65,160 had been subscribed and that we had therefore secured Mr. Morgan's generous contribution.

The plan pursued was the sending out of circulars to all our members and to others of philanthropic tendencies asking for contributions. But it is easily understood that the mere mailing of a circular letter setting forth the merits of even the most worthy scheme does not of necessity produce satisfactory results. It is the personal call of a champion of the cause who, with eloquent appeal, unloosens the purse strings. To our President, Clarence Winthrop Bowen, was assigned the duty of making these calls; and the result shows the wisdom of the Trustees' selection. To Mr. Bowen's personality and to his untiring zeal during this strenuous month, the success of our campaign is entirely due; and to him in no measured terms is the thanks of the Society gratefully extended. May he live long to conduct our affairs which he has been so largely instrumental in advancing.

The foregoing explains the reason for starting the campaign with a definite object of raising a specific amount of $65,000; which was to place the Society in a position to secure the property adjoining us next door on the east; and, secondly, as matters progressed, to enable us to secure Mr. Morgan's conditional gift of $10,000.

However, since the beginning (1912) of our endeavors, it has developed that it is inexpedient to secure the property next door to add to our real estate holdings: First, because the owner has placed a price of $100,000 upon the property (a price absurdly out of proportion to its market value, as we would regard $70,000 a tempting offer for our own property of exactly similar dimensions and character); secondly, because during the past two years on account of recent building operations in our immediate vicinity the neighborhood has become the heart of the automobile industry and the fire risk has become such as to render the constructing of a building for our purposes most undesirable in this neighborhood.

We find ourselves therefore in the following position at the present time as regards building possibilities. The Society owns its own building valued at $60,000—conservative estimate; and has cash in its building fund of $65,160, making a total possible assets for building at this time of $125,160.

At the present condition of the real estate market, we find that a site such as the Trustees deem advisable (at least 50x100 feet), in an accessible and desirable location, will cost about $70,000; which would leave the Society after purchasing a site only $55,160 for building a new home.

This sum is entirely inadequate to construct a proper building for a permanent home for our Society—which building, besides housing our own Society, must have sufficient rentable space to support the building when completed. That is to say, it must produce a revenue from rental of not less than $12,000 a year.

In view of the above statement of facts the Board of Trustees have deemed it advisable to allow the Building Fund to remain at interest for the time being in a trust company (The Central Trust Company has been selected) until such time as the funds of the Society will permit of a better financial handling of the building proposition.

The attention of all members of the Society is called to the fact that on March 26th, 1919, our youthful society will celebrate its 50th anniversary, when it can be properly said to have reached its maturity. This date is but five years in the future; and it is the intention of the Board of Trustees to at once institute a supplemental campaign to raise an additional fund of $100,000 so that on the date of our semi-centennial anniversary we may be established in our proposed new home.

Such a plan, if successful, will, at the expiration of five years, place the Society in the possession of assets, to buy land and build with, equal to about $232,750 (including interest at 3 per cent on our present building fund of $65.160).

With such a fund in hand the proposed building could be financed without trouble.

It is to be hoped that this frank statement may reach the eyes of generous minded individuals and that we may reap over and above the measure of our hopes.

In the erection of the building which the present administration contemplate, it is their purpose to endeavor to rent all available space not needed for the uses of our own society to other societies of affiliated interests, so that the building will become the headquarters of genealogical endeavor in this community.

The gift by someone of a suitable site for our proposed building will materially advance the time of its erection.

HUTCHINSON ANCESTRY AND DESCENDANTS OF WILLIAM AND ANNE HUTCHINSON.

By John Denison Champlin.

ARMS:—Per pale gules and azure, a lion rampant, argent, between eight crosses crosslet argent.

Burke, General Armory.

This coat-of-arms, granted in 1581 to Edward Hutchinson of Yorkshire, was borne by the Hon. Elisha Hutchinson (b. 1641), Colonel of the First Regiment of Foot and Chief Justice of the Court of Common Pleas for Suffolk County, Mass., and later by his distinguished grandson, Thomas Hutchinson, the last Royal Governor of Massachusetts. It is borne to-day by the family of Hely-Hutchinson in Ireland, descendants of Richard Hutchinson, brother of William Hutchinson, of which the Earl of Donoughmore is the chief representative.

The genealogy of the Hutchinson family, as traced by Col. Joseph Lemuel Chester (New Eng. Gen. Reg., xx, 355), begins with the opening of the sixteenth century when — Hutchinson appears in the records of the city of Lincoln, Lincolnshire. Colonel Chester takes pains to assure the reader that "there is not the slightest authority for connecting him with the heraldic family of Yorkshire, either with the one settled at Wykeham Abbey in that county or that in Nottinghamshire from which descended the famous Colonel John Hutchinson," and that "he was evidently of a very humble rank in life." But, as he then proceeds to show that the children of this very humble Hutchinson were all of good estate, that the eldest son was a clergyman and two other sons were of civic prominence, both having served as Alderman, Sheriff, and Mayor of Lincoln, one is led to wonder on what he founded such an opinion. We can understand his "very humble rank in life" only by the supposition that he means by comparison with the more brilliant descent of his gifted wife.

Again, though Colonel Chester may have been technically correct in his assertion that this branch of the Hutchinsons was not a heraldic family, it is certain that the early descendants in New England bore the arms given above and that the same coat is borne to-day by their descendants in England, undoubtedly with the sanction of the College of Arms. It is said, too, that the family of Governor Hutchinson possessed an old painting of this blazon on vellum, adjudged by the authorities of the college to date from the reign of Elizabeth.

Whatever may have been Colonel Chester's reason for depreciating the social status of the Hutchinsons of Lincoln, we are indebted to him for the discovery of the link connecting them with the family of William Hutchinson of Alford, in which we are chiefly interested, and with this acknowledgment we will now give the line of descent, as proved by him:

of the compact at Portsmouth, March 7, 1638. His name appears in the roll of freeman at Newport in 1641, but he seems to have retained his connection with Boston, for all his children were baptized there from 1637 to 1658. He probably returned there after his father's death. The children of Edward and Catherine (Hamby) Hutchinson were:

William and Anne Hutchinson came to New England in the ship Griffin, landing at Boston, Sept. 18, 1634. The family consisted of his widowed mother, Mrs. Susanna Hutchinson; a younger sister of Mrs. Anne Hutchinson, Catherine Marbury, about twenty-four years old, and William and Anne's ten chil-William was made free with his sons Richard and Francis, March 4, 1635, and he was a Representative in the General Court in May, 1635. In consequence of the Antinomian controversy, which resulted in the banishment of Mrs. Hutchinson, he removed with most of his family in 1638 to Rhode Island. At first treasurer of the new colony, he succeeded Coddington as Judge (Governor) on the formation in 1639 of the Newport Colony. 1640, on the union of the two towns, when Coddington was elected Governor, William Hutchinson was chosen one of the Assistants. He died in Newport in 1642, and his widow removed soon after. with part of her family, to Eastchester, New York, where she met her fate the following summer in an Indian insurrection.

So many errors have crept into circulation in regard to the place and details of Mrs. Hutchinson's death that a brief account seems necessary. The Cyclopædia of American Biography and the International Cyclopædia makes the site of her house "near Stamford," and Woodrow Wilson's History of the American People calls it "a place on Long Island." Richman, the latest historian of Rhode Island, correctly follows Brodhead in his identification of the true site, but accepts the common error that "she and all her family save one daughter (sixteen persons) were murdered."

In regard to this daughter, too, who became Mrs. John Cole, he says: "She was the ancestress of Thomas Hutchinson, the last Royal Governor of Massachusetts." One is tempted to ask, on reading this, why was not Gov. Hutchinson's name Cole?

The Memorial History of Boston is alike inexact in describing Mrs. Hutchinson as "falling with all her family save one child in an Indian massacre." Brodhead too kills "all her family save one" and carelessly calls that one a "granddaughter," while the English Dictionary of National Biography makes the sole survivor a "son." Charles Francis Adams, usually exact, gives a more precise account in his Antinomianism, but, oddly enough, makes the date of the massacre "1642."

Other instances might be cited, but these are enough to show the general inexactness of many of our well known authorities on a subject easy of investigation. The truth is that only five of the ten children who accompanied Mrs. Hutchinson to New England perished with her and that she left numerous descendants besides the children of Susanna Cole.

The site of Mrs. Hutchinson's house and the scene of her murder is in what is now Pelham Bay Park, within the limits of New York City, less than a dozen miles from the City Hall. Not far from it, beside the road, is a large glacial bowlder, popularly called Split Rock from its division into two parts, probably by the action of frost aided by the growth of a large tree, the stump of which separates the parts. The line of vision of one looking through the split towards Hutchinson River at the foot of the hill will very nearly cross the site of the house.

In 1911 a bronze tablet* to the memory of Mrs. Hutchinson was placed on Split Rock by the Society of Colonial Dames of the State of New York, who recognized that the resting place of this most noted woman of her time was well worthy of such a memorial. The tablet bears the following inscription:

ANNE HUTCHINSON

Banished from the Massachusetts Bay Colony IN 1638

BECAUSE OF HER DEVOTION TO RELIGIOUS LIBERTY THIS COURAGEOUS WOMAN

> SOUGHT FREEDOM FROM PERSECUTION IN NEW NETHERLAND

NEAR THIS ROCK IN 1643 SHE AND HER HOUSEHOLD WERE MASSACRED BY INDIANS

This Tablet is placed here by the COLONIAL DAMES OF THE STATE OF NEW YORK Anno Domini MCMXI Virtutes Majorum Fillæ Conservant

^{*} According to the N. Y. Times of Feb, 3, 1914, this tablet has been wrenched from its place and stolen; probably by junk thieves. Let us hope, for the honor of our city, that it may be speedily replaced.

SOME DESCENDANTS OF ARTHUR SCOVIL OF BOSTON AND CONNECTICUT.

BY CHARLES R. EASTMAN, U. S. National Museum, Washington, D. C.

A partial account of the early history of the Scovil family in Connecticut, limited to the descendants of Arthur Scovil, of Boston, Middletown and Lyme, one of the two original Scovil colonists of New England, has already been published in pamphlet form.* The present article continues the genealogy in certain lines, the data for which has recently been collected from various sources. Some errors and omissions in the earlier brochures are herein corrected.

ARTHUR¹ Scovil and wife Joanna are supposed to have emigrated from England, probably Dorsetshire, about 1660, and settled at Boston, afterwards removing to Middletown, Conn. Boston Town Records give the dates of birth of five of their children, two of whom were sons, Arthur² and James.² Two other sons were born in Connecticut Colony, John² about 1672, and Stephen² at some time during the interval 1680-84.

2. ARTHUR² Scovil (Arthur¹), b. Jan. 24, 1663-4, at Boston, d. June 24, 1694, at Lyme, Conn.; he m. Sept. 17, 1690, Rachel ——; family name not found. Children born at Lyme:

AMERICAN EPITAPHS.

CONTRIBUTED BY HOPPER STRIKER MOTT.

The Rev. Timothy Alden issued in this city in 1814 five small volumes under the title of Collections of American Epitaphs and Inscriptions with Occasional Notes. These books, which are in the library of the New York Historical Society, contain such important information of early date that it has been suggested that a transcript giving some of the data be presented to the readers of the Record. A selection has accordingly been made from Vols. I, IV and V of all New York, New Jersey and Connecticut items, Vols. II and III being devoted largely to other parts of New England and to Pennsylvania. Many sketches of the lives of individuals mentioned are included, and these are worthy of examination.

CORRECTIONS AND ADDITIONS TO PUBLISHED GENEALOGICAL WORKS.

Every gleaner in the field of genealogical research has met with errors in printed volumes which, left by themselves, carry mistaken conclusions to the end of time. This department has been inaugurated in an endeavor to correct such spurious data. Readers are requested to forward for publication here every such error, and such further additions to printed genealogies as are found, that due correction may be made. The authority for the statement must be furnished, with name and address of contributor.

Churchill-Crossy—Addition. 4.

Churchill Genealogy, p. 42; list of the children of Jonathan and Mary (Churchill) Crosby, should include Ezra, named for his grandfather Churchill. This information is given by his daughter who knew three of her great-grandmothers and two of her great-NORMAN W. HALL, San Francisco, Cal. grandfathers.

CILLEY—CORRECTION. 5.

In Carter's History of Pembroke, New Hampshire, under the head of the Cilley Family, the error is made of making Horatio Gates Cilley the father of Daniel Cilley, whereas Horatio Gates Cilley and Daniel Cilley were brothers, both being children of Gen. Joseph Cilley and Sarah Longfellow, his wife; Daniel Cilley being the sixth child of Joseph, and Horatio Gates Cilley (born Dec. 23, 1777), the tenth and youngest son of Gen. Joseph Cilley. WILLIAM P. FOWLER, 18 Tremont St., Boston.

DUNNING—ADDITION.

7. GIFFIN-GRIFFIN—CORRECTIONS.

Simon Giffin, not Griffin, as stated in the New England Hist. and Gen. Register, vol. 19, p. 201, m. (2) Widow Jennet Brown, Jan. 5, 1758, at N. Bridgewater, Mass. His first wife was Jennet Leischman.

Simon Giffin (Jr.), son of Simon and Jennet (Leischman), not Griffin as stated in the N. E. Hist. and Gen. Register, vol. 18, p. 57, m. (2) Lydia Crane, Dec. 12, 1771, at Wethersfield, Conn. His first wife was Abigail Higgins.

The above is from Giffin MSS. in possession of their descendants, and partially published in Lewis' Northern N. Y. Genealogies.

Moulton—Correction.

The History of Hampton, vol. ii, p. 874, and Moulton Annals, p. 222, give to Josiah Moulton and his wife (Dorothy) Shackford (of Portsmouth, N. H.) no son John. In the settlement of the estate of her father John Shackford, John Moulton signs a deed at the head of the Moulton heirs, May 6, 1802. He is described as clothier of Winslow, Mass. The brothers Jonathan and Josiah sign as clothiers of Somersworth, N. H. (Rockingham Deeds, 163-86.)

8.

The above also assign to John Moulton, brother of Gen. Jonathan, two sons, John Salter, bap. Aug. 9, 1772, and John Schackford, bap. Feb. 14, 1773. According to the History of Carroll County, p. 404, John S. Moulton was born July 3, 1772, at Moultonboro, and died Dec. 1, 1821. The Moulton Annals further assert, that the second John S. was born in Moultonboro. It is somewhat doubtful if John, Sr., had a younger son ready for baptism seven months after the birth of the first John S. Though the baptism of Abigail, daughter of Josiah, is in the same year, 1773, as the second John S., I am inclined to think he was the son of Josiah.

As to John Moulton's wives, one was Dorothy Brown, daughter of Capt. Edward and Dorothy (Pike) Brown, b. Nov. 8, 1733, and d. June 2, 1770 (Genealogical Data Concerning the Family of Capt. Edward Brown). The other, as indicated in the last RECORD was Mehitable Salter, daughter of Richard Salter, and widow of Israel Tibbits. There were two children, by the latter marriage,

John and Nabby. John Salter, Mariner, p. 45.
A genealogist somewhat associated with Mr. Dow in the preparation of the History of Hampton informs me that the county records were not systematically searched. Persons interested in the Moulton and some other Hampton families can doubtless find much additional information by referring to State and County s. B. SHACKFORD, 53 State St., Boston. records.

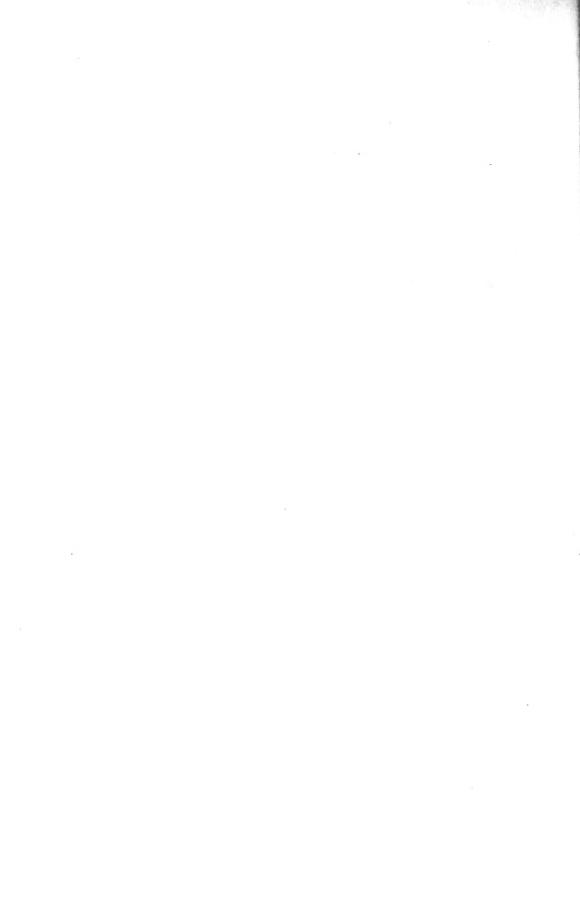

TOBEY-BABBITT-BARBER—CORRECTION.

Tobey Genealogy, p. 92. Jesse Tobey served in the Revolution as Quartermaster-Sergeant (Connecticut Rev. Records). The name of his daughter was Mandana, not Amanda as stated. She m. - Babbitt, and her sister Anna m. - Barber, as shown by the probate records of Columbia County, N. Y.; settlement of the estate of Benjamin Tobey, among whose heirs were Mandana Babbitt and Anna Barber.

"1634, February 20. George Giddings of Clapham, co. Bedford, yeoman, bachelor, and Jane Lawrence of St. Albans, maiden; at St. Albans or St. Peters. John Tuttell of St. Albans, draper, a surety."

The name Giddings, Gidding, Geddings, Gedding (Saxon Giddingas), is one of the oldest surnames in England. Kemble (Saxons in England, volume I, page 465) includes it in his list of Saxon Clan names. The manor of Geddinge in the parish of Wooton, Kent, which survives with unchanged name as a hamlet, was given in 800 by Cenulf, King of Mercia, with his wife Cengittia to Archbishop Attrelard. A part of this estate is still the property of Christ Church, Canterbury. Another part, granted by the prior and Convent to be held by suit and knight's service was in the 12th of King John in the possession of Robert de Geddinges, whose arms were. de Geddinges, whose arms were:

Parted per chevron argent and sable, three griffins' heads erased countercharged. [Halsted Kent, volume IX, pages 365, 369, 370.]

GIDDINGS (Continued)

The arms of Gedding of Icklingham, Co. Suffolk, at the visitation of 1561, were: Gules a chevron ermine, between three eagles' heads erased or.

Those of Gedding, Co. Norfolk, were: Gules a chevron argent between three griffin's heads erased or. [Burke, General Armory, 1883, page 392.]

The Gittins family of Shropshire was another stock, of Welsh descent.

[Pub. Harleian, vol. XXVIII, Visitation of Shropshire, pages 199, 200, 201.]

The crest—a griffin segreant—with which John? Giddings (George!) of Ipswich, Mass., signed his will [The Giddings Family, page 11], and the middle-name—in those days unusual—of Joseph Collins? Giddings (George!), perhaps indicate descent from the Suffolk line, whose crest [Burke, General Armory, 1833, page 392] was: a demi-savage holding a scimitar proper. For it appears that one of the Collins families (Hereford) had arms: Vert, a griffin segreant and a crescent or: and two crests, namely:

- 1. A demi-griffin or, collared ermine.
- 2. A dexter arm embowed, habited argent; the hand proper holding a scimitar or. [Burke, General Armory, 1883, page 216.]

During the past year our President, Clarence Winthrop Bowen, took up energetically the Building Fund proposition which resulted early in the year in the securing of a check for $5,000.00 from Mrs. Frederick Ferris Thompson and a promise from the late J. Pierpont Morgan to contribute $10,000.00 provided additional subscriptions amounting to $55,000.00 be obtained. Through his strenuous work on behalf of the Society this fund of $65,000.00 has been successfully completed by obtaining the necessary subscriptions now amounting to a grand total of $65,160.00.

articles contained therein, particularly to the long continued Thacher articles which had been very profitable to the Society. He solicited from the members the correction of published errors which would be of great value, and requested that they be sent in under the signature of the informer.

The report of the Archivist, Mr. Vosburgh, was read by Mr. Hatfield. He stated that the purpose of the Archivist was to secure and prepare certified copies of New York Church Records of which typewritten copies were made, that at the present time the New York State Library, the Library of Congress and the New York Historical Society were subscribers and gave a list of the records that had been transcribed since March 15, 1913, amounting to about 2030 pages.

The President then introduced Mr. Josiah Collins Pumpelly, who presented the following Resolution on the death of Gen. James Grant Wilson, D. C. L .:

RESOLVED, That in the death of General James Grant Wilson, D. C. L., which occurred on February 1st, this Society would here express its sorrow and its grateful appreciation of valued services of a President who filled this office for fifteen years and acted as Trustee up to the time of his decease, altogether a period of twenty-one years.

Our late associate had a varied and interesting experience as a soldier, journalist, author of many books, and the editor of valuable historic and biographical data.

To this Society as its President he brought a rare talent as a presiding officer and in recounting in a happy and witty way incidents of his many friendships with distinguished soldiers, authors and poets, as well as numerous historic incidents, many of them having a direct connection with present day affairs. He was also the means of often bringing men of note as writers and statesmen to speak at our meetings.

General Wilson had been in the public eye for more than half a century, having been prominently identified with many movements of a patriotic, historic, philanthropic and civic character, and his last appearance in public was as presiding officer at the unveiling of the beautiful Maine monument at 8th Avenue and Central Park.

We mourn the loss of this loyal member of the Society, enthusiastic patriot and chivalrous friend, and it is ordered that this Resolution be spread upon our minutes and a copy of the same sent with expressions of sympathy to his widow.

Which was duly seconded and unanimously adopted by a rising vote.

Mr. Bowen then introduced Mr. Charles Henry Hart, the lecturer of the evening, who addressed the Society on "Frauds in Historical Portraiture; or, Spurious Portraiture of Historical Personages."

It also solicits the donation to the manuscript collections of its library any and all manuscript compilations which bear upon the above mentioned topics.

In consideration of such donations the works so presented to the Society will be at once placed upon the shelves of its library and will be reviewed in the next subsequent issue of The New York General Call And Biographical Record, each donation of such character, whether in printed or manuscript form, will be reviewed under the head of "Book Notices" and a copy of The Record containing the review will be sent to the donor.

The Society does not solicit donations of publications or manuscripts on topics foreign to the above mentioned subjects, as its library is specialized and cannot accommodate material which does not bear directly upon its recognized sphere of usefulness.

Donations for review in the January issue of The Record should be delivered to the Society before December 1st of the previous year; for the April issue, before March 1st; for the July issue before June 1st; and for the October issue, before September 1st.

All donations will be generously reviewed with a view of calling the attention of the public to their good points; but, while generous, reviewed with a view of calling the attention of the public to their good points; but, while generous reviewed with a view of calling the attention of as the interest of the genealogical student would expect from the editorial staff of The Record.

The "Book Notices" of The Record are carefully read by all librarians as well as genealogical students, and the review of a work in The Record is equivalent to a special advertisement of such work.

HISTORICAL COLLECTIONS relating to the Town of Salisbury, Litchfield County, Conn. Vol. I. Arranged and published by the Salisbury Association, Inc., 1913. 8vo, cloth, pp. 154, including index. Price, paper $1.50, cloth, $2.00, delivery free on receipt of cash with order. Address M. D. Rudd, Lakeville, Conn.

The Salisbury Association is a body of some 477 members, some 262 of whom are residents of the town and 215 dwelling in 22 other states of the Union, but with interest centered in the old Connecticut town. This volume is the result of the Association's endeavors in one of many directions, and if all others are equally praiseworthy the organization is one whose example other towns of Connecticut would do well to emulate. It contains the Vital Records of the town to about 1770, the gravestone records of four local cemeteries and five other small graveyards; and a brief military history of the town. Recommended emphatically to all genealogical and historical libraries.

Fox Family News, Vol. II, 1913. Edited by Howard Fox, M. D., No. 616 Madison Avenue, New York City, 8vo, cloth, pp. 28, with index to Vols. I and II. Price, $2.00. Address Editor.

Contains much material of family interest.

Gouldtown, a very remarkable settlement of ancient date. Studies of some sturdy examples of the simple life, together with sketches of early colonial history of Cumberland County and southern New Jersey and some early genealogical records, by Wm. Steward, A. M., and Rev. Theophilus G. Steward, D. D. 8vo, cloth, pp. 237, including index and 35 illustrations. Press of J. B. Lippincott Co., Philadelphia, Pa., 1913. Price $2.50, postage 24 cents extra. Address William Steward, Bridgeton, N. J.

A most comprehensive and interesting history of this unique colored settlement some 200 years old. It is replete with genealogical information concerning the old families of that section of New Jersey. It is recommended to all historical, genealogical and general reference libraries.

YEAR BOOK OF THE AMERICAN CLAN GREGOR SOCIETY, containing the proceedings of the gatherings of 1911 and 1912. Edited by Caleb Clarke Magruder, Jr., No. 820 Riggs Building, Washington, D. C. Paper, pp. 132, including index, portrait illustrations and facsimiles. Address editor, price not stated

A more than usually interesting report of a family association containing much of value to those of kindred blood and furnishing a good foundation for a future sequential history and genealogy of this Scottish clan.

VITAL RECORDS OF NORWICH, 1659-1848, Part II, being the third volume of Series I of the Vital Records of Connecticut published by the Society of Colonial Wars in the State of Connecticut. 8vo, buckram, pp. 573 to 1180, inclusive and containing a full name and place index to Parts I and II. Price for the two volumes $12.50.

We had the pleasure of calling the attention of the public to the value of this work in our review of Part I which appears in the April, 1913 Record. The issuing of this Part II completes this most valuable work and the index which is most complete renders the vast amount of material now easily available. No genealogical library will be complete without this work. We venture to suggest that the excellent work of the Society be next supplemented by a similar publication of the Vital Records of New London, Conn., one of the oldest and most important towns in the State. Why do not some of the Patriotic Societies of New York emulate the example of the Society of Colonial Wars in Connecticut and publish memorial volumes of New York records?

BOWMAN GENEALOGY. Fragmentary Annals of a branch of the Bowman Family to which is appended data relating to other Bowmans and Spencers, by Charles W. Bowman, No. 300 C. Street, N. W., Washington, D. C. 8vo, cloth, pp. 104-iv including index, portrait illustrations. 1912. Price $2.50, address author.

The volume contains records of the descendants of George Bowman of Shenandoah County, Virginia; the names of Virginia field officers in the Revolution; a list of Bowmans, Spencers and Morgans who were officers in the Continental Army and much other material of interest to the Bowman Family. It is heartily recommended to all genealogical libraries.

A HISTORY OF PENDLETON COUNTY, W. VA., by Oren F. Morton. 8vo, cloth, pp. 493, illustrated. Price $3.50. Address Ruebush-Elkins Co., Dayton, Va.

This volume is, from a historical standpoint, replete with information regarding the origin and growth of civilization in this section of West Virginia. It contains also much statistical matter of the greatest value; but to us the wealth of genealogical information it contains is sufficient to assure it a hearty welcome. From page 143 to page 337 inclusive, the subject matter is purely genealogical and will prove itself a mine of wealth to genealogical searchers in this particular field. Recommended heartily to all genealogical and historical libraries.

YEAR BOOK, 1913, OF THE KENTUCKY SOCIETY SONS OF THE REVOLUTION and Catalogue of Virginia Military Land Warrants granted to Soldiers and Sailors of the Revolution, compiled by Samuel M. Wilson from Records in the State Land Office of Kentucky. 8vo, cloth, pp. 363, illustrated. Price $5.00. Address Samuel M. Wilson, Security and Trust Building, Lexington, Ky.

This is one of the best Sons of the Revolution year books we have seen for some time. Aside from the interesting records of its active and deceased members, the section devoted to abstracts of Virginia land grants is sufficient to render it a valuable book of reference in genealogical libraries and for Patriotic Societies. It is recommended to all Historical, Genealogical Libraries and to Registrars of Revolutionary Societies as a book of reference.

RICHMOND, HER PAST AND PRESENT, by W. Asbury Christian, D. D. 8vo, cloth, pp. 618, including a good 42 page name index and 13 illustrations. Copyrighted 1912. Price not stated. Address author, No. 1009 West Grace Street, Richmond, Va.

This is a most welcome addition to our library as it is the first history of this capital of the South that we have secured. The work is an excellent chronicle of the events in the history of Richmond and besides the narrative portions of the volume it is enriched with Rosters of the various Regiments and Companies which were Richmond's contribution to the War of the Rebellion. Dr. Christian is to be highly congratulated on the successful completion of this valuable work which is heartily recommended to all historical, genealogical and general reference libraries.

HISTORICAL NOTES OF ST. JAMES PARISH, HYDE PARK-ON-HUDSON, New York. Edited (and apparently compiled) by the Rev. Edward Pearson, Newton, Rector of the Parish. 8vo, cloth, pp. 88, and numerous illustrations in the shape of portraits of parishioners, views of church, etc. Price $1.00 (postage 12 cents). Address Rector of the Parish, Hyde Park-on-Hudson, N. Y.

A most valuable and interesting history of this parish and as such is to be recommended to all historical libraries. Within its normal historical scope it embraces much genealogical information embodied in the biographical sketches of members of the parish (past and present) also in the reproduction of memorial tablets to individual parishioners. The appendix also contains genealogical information. It is therefore heartily recommended to all genealogical libraries. Now that the historical record of this parish is an accomplished fact, the good work thus well begun would be suitably concluded, if a second volume should be issued recording the vital facts of the parish (births, baptisms, confirmations, marriages, deaths and burials). This parish has embraced within its limits so many of the honored names in New York that the publication of its vital records would be genealogically most valuable.

HISTORY AND GENEALOGY OF THE BICKNELL FAMILY and some collateral lines of Normandy, Great Britain and America; comprising some ancestors and many descendants of Zachary Bicknell from Barrington, Somersetshire, England, 1635. I. 8vo, cloth, pp. 584, including complete index profusely illustrated with portraits and other reproductions of family historic interest. Price $10.00. Address George A. Bicknell, 13 So. William Street, New York City.

This is an exhaustive genealogical record of the Bicknell Family in America and has all of the indications of painstaking and accurate compilation; the book is presented to the public in a most attractive form, paper being excellent, press work beyond criticism, type being bold and of easily read character. The compiler is to be congratulated upon the finished production which should find its place on the shelves of all libraries maintaining a genealogical section.

HARRISON, WAPLES AND ALLIED FAMILIES: Being the ancestry of George Leib Harrison of Philadelphia and of his wife Sarah Ann Waples; by his son William Welsh Harrison, LL. D., member of the Historical Society of Pennsylvania. Limited edition of 101 copies. Philadelphia, Pa., 1910. Printed for private circulation only. Quarto, ½ morocco printed on Wharton handmade paper, pp. 176, including excellent name, place and subject index and about 83 full page portraits, family homesteads and armorial illustrations. No price stated. Address author, No. 119 North 11th Street, Philadelphia, Pa.

This beautiful volume, as the author states, contains all that has been found of the ancestry of his parents, George Leib Harrison and Sarah Ann Waples. No attempt has been made to prepare a record of descendants or of collateral lines. The author's object having been to preserve the data collected and to present it to members of the family in convenient form. It contains chapters on the following subjects, viz.: Harrison of Greystock, England; Harrison of Thurstonfield, England; Harrison of Philadelphia; Leib of Philadelphia; Richards of Merion, Pennsylvania; Jones, of Plymouth, Pennsylvania; Benson of Holm Cultram, England; Gill of Greysouthen, England; Waples of Sussex on Delaware; Riley of Philadelphia; Burton of Sussex on Delaware; Trendall of Northampton County, Virginia; Custis of "Arlington" and "Wilsonia," Virginia; Custis of Deep Creek, Virginia; Wise of Accomac County, Virginia; Robinson of Deep Creek, Virginia; West of Accomac County, Virginia; Scarburgh of London and Virginia; Whittington of Northampton County, Virginia; Smart of Virginia; Michael of Holland and Virginia; Thorogood of England and Virginia; Offley of Staffordshire and London; Osborne of Kent and London; Hewett of Yorkshire and London; Leveson of Staffordshire; Bodley of Devonshire; Prestwood of Staffordshire.

This work was evidently a labor of love and likewise the fruit of a most praiseworthy ambition to perpetuate the valuable information contained therein for the benefit of posterity. In both endeavors the author has accomplished most enviable results. The subject matter is beyond question, and it is presented to the public in an artistic form that defies criticism. It is a source of regret that the edition was so limited, for the reason that all first class libraries of the country cannot be sure of securing a copy. We congratulate ourselves that we are among the lucky few.

By Josiah Collins Pumpelly.

On February 1st of this year, there passed away at the age of 81 at St. Luke's Hospital in New York, General James Grant Wilson, a man of genuine sympathy and acknowledged learning, whose death was greatly regretted by this Society and his numerous friends. Born in Edinburgh, Scotland, April 28, 1832, he was the son of William W. and Jane Sibald Wilson.

His father was a poet and publisher and with his wife and child emigrated from Scotland to Poughkeepsie, N. Y., where he was a book-seller and publisher for many years.

Young Wilson was educated at College Hill, Poughkeepsie, N. Y., and by private tutors. After completing his studies he travelled in Europe with ex-President Fillmore, and later, for a time, was associated with his father in business in Poughkeepsie. In 1857 he moved to Chicago and established and became editor and proprietor of the Chicago Record, the first literary journal of the Northwest.

In 1862 he raised a battalion, of which he was commissioned major, that formed a part of the Fifteenth Illinois Cavalry, commanded by Col. Warren Stewart, and which saw much active service in the Mississippi valley. By the death of Stewart, Major Wilson became commander of the regiment, taking part in many engagements and constantly skirmishing with the Confederates. He was active in the Vicksburg campaign, frequently scouting in the direction of the enemy, with a view to sending in early intelligence of the expected advance of Johnston to break up the siege.

^{*} The portrait of General James Grant Wilson, a former president of the New York Genealogical and Biographical Society, was painted three years ago by the well-known artist, George Rufus Boynton, and through the generosity of a few friends of General Wilson, was presented to the Society at its meeting on April 10th. The subscribers included: Henry Clews, John G. Hilliard, Lloyd Phoenix, William C. Fargo, John M. Gardner, Alfred B. Merriam, Abraham Hatfield, Jr., and Frederick K. Gaston. The portrait is a ¾ length and is painted by the same artist, Mr. Boynton, who painted portraits of Gen. Frederick D. Grant, Gen. Stewart L. Woodford and Gen. Alexander S. Webb. The portrait of Admiral Coghlan which Mr. Boynton also painted was recently acquired by the Union League Club. It is hoped that when the Society gets into its new building, it will have a gallery for portraits of distinguished New Yorkers. The existence of the Gen. Wilson portrait was not known to the members of the Society until a few weeks before our April meeting.

In August, 1863, he accompanied Gen. Grant to New Orleans, and there accepted, by his advice, the colonelcy of the Fourth Regiment, United States Colored Cavalry, and was assigned to duty as aide-de-camp to the commanding general of the Department of the Gulf, with whom he remained until April, 1865, taking part in the Teche, Texas, and Red River campaigns.

His duties also included those of military agent in Louisiana for the State of New York.

Gen. Wilson when employed in the Red River campaign was instrumental in furthering the building of the great Red River Dam, an affair which he himself deemed the most memorable in his career as a soldier.

Admiral Porter, in his report to the Secretary of the Navy, said:

"This is, without doubt, the best engineering feat ever performed. Under the best circumstances, a private company would not have completed it under a year, and to an ordinary mind the the whole thing would have appeared an utter impossibility."

When Gen. Banks was relieved, Col. Wilson was brevetted brigadier-general, March 13, 1865, and sent to Port Hudson, where, for a time he was in command. In July of the same year he resigned, declining the offer of a commission in the regular army, and returned to New York City, where he continued to reside pursuing a literary career, with the exception of several years spent with his family in foreign travel. In 1869 he married Jane Emily Searle Cogswell of New Brunswick, N. J., who died in 1904. His second wife, Mrs. Mary H. Nicholson, widow of Admiral J. W. A. Nicholson, he married in 1907.

In 1879 the General was appointed by the President a member of the Board of Visitors to the United States Naval Academy, and the next year he was a visitor to the Military Academy at West Point, delivering the address to the cadets and preparing the reports of both boards.

He was President of the New York Genealogical and Biographical Society from 1886 to 1900; editor of the Society's RECORD in 1886, and Trustee from 1887 to the time of his death, thus serving the Society for a total of twenty-one years.

As Vice-President of the Association for the Reform and Codification of the Law of Nations, a member of the Executive Committee of the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals, and the President of the Association for American Authors, 1893–9, his interest never flagged. He was a member of the New York Historical and Geographical Societies, President of the American Ethnological Society since 1900, and one of the trustees of the Protestant Episcopal Church Fund of one million dollars. He was also an honorary member of many American and foreign historical associations, and of the Hudson-Fulton Commission. The degrees of D. C. L. from St. Stephen's College in 1894, and of L. H. D. from Hobart in 1895, were conferred upon him.

Gen. Wilson was instrumental in raising an obelisk over the grave of Fitz-Greene Halleck, and a statue to Columbus in New York City. For the latter he was knighted by the Queen Regent of Spain. He published numerous addresses, including those on Millard Fillmore, Bishop Provost, "The Authors of New York," and one on his wife's ancestor, Col. John Bayard, and he contributed upwards of a hundred historical and biographical articles to Harper's and other magazines.

General Wilson was a prolific and interesting writer. A mere list of the works of which he was either the author or editor would occupy more space than is at my command.

Gen. Wilson was Chairman of the Maine Monument Committee and his last appearance in public was at the unveiling of that splendid monument at the entrance of the Central Park and 8th Avenue.

His home at 143 West 79th Street, is full of mementoes and relics belonging to both himself and Mrs. Wilson, and the time allotted for a call was always all too short to hear all that one wished to about the pictures on the walls of distinguished views and places. The different articles of historic interest connected with his career his first wife kept carefully in glass cases.

Gen. Wilson was especially fond of a certain wonderful ring he wore containing a lock of hair from the heads of Washington, Lincoln, Hamilton, Wellington, Napoleon and Gen. Grant, which he told me his relic-admiring lady friends had often kissed very reverently.

He possessed and often wore a pair of gold cuff links which as he told me George Washington gave to Benedict Arnold for gallantry at the Battle of Saratoga, in which Arnold lost his own links. Later, when Arnold came to hate Washington, he passed the links on to Col. Tarleton, who gave them to Fitz-Greene Halleck, who in turn presented them to his biographer, James Grant Wilson.

Another treasure was a copy of "The Sketch Book" inscribed "To James Grant Wilson, Esq., from Washington Irving, Sunnyside, September 18, 1857." Still another was a photograph of Lincoln taken by Brady, the famous wartime photographer, ten days before the assassination. In autographing it the President signed his full name instead of "A. Lincoln"—an unusual occurrence.

It was on the doorsteps of the General's house that his friend Bryant, on coming from the unveiling of the bust of Mazzini, fell in a faint, to pass away a few days thereafter. General Wilson had but one child, a daughter and by his first wife. She married Frank Sylvester Henry and is now a widow. She is a lady of an attractive personality and like her father is a pleasing and well versed conversationalist.

Mr. Clarence W. Bowen, the President of the New York Genealogical and Biographical Society, writes me as to General Wilson as follows:

"General James Grant Wilson had a great love not only for the history of the United States but for history in general; and also the lives of celebrated men interested him, and he delighted to speak of the characteristics of each of all the distinguished men he had himself known personally.

When but a boy he met Henry Clay, and as a young man he went to Europe with Millard Fillmore, at the time an ex-president of the United States, and introduced by him, young Wilson had the opportunity of meeting there many people of distinction.

He visited George Washington Parke Custis, the grandson of Martha Washington, at Arlington, Va., who told him interesting incidents in the life of George and Martha Washington. Also in the city of Washington he met and conversed with Mrs. Hamilton, the aged widow of Alexander Hamilton. Thus it was that any one having occasion to talk intimately with General Wilson would feel that he was being carried back to the very beginnings of our national life. And this was my own experience when I met him alone, as I did frequently, at my father's house in the country, or at my own residence in New York.

While he wrote many articles and books of biography and history, his most notable production was his history of the City of New York.

The money to pay for the statue of Christopher Columbus was raised by General Wilson and he was also prominent officially in the Hudson-Fulton Celebration. In fact, for more than a generation he served frequently on Committees which not only commenorated historic events but were striving to improve the conditions of the political and social life of the City of New York.

I visited General Wilson several times during his last illness at St. Luke's Hospital and he then expressed great interest in the affairs of the Genealogical and Biographical Society of which he was the honored president so many years. Two of General Wilson's prominent characteristics were his courtesy of manner and his kindness of heart. He was a thorough gentleman.

In his death New York has lost a public spirited citizen.

When Gen. Wilson was president of the American Authors' Guild he invited me to become a member and the night of my election I recall my feeling of modest hesitancy when I found myself elected in company with such delightful and well beloved authors as Donald G. Mitchell (Ike Marvel), whose books were among the library treasures of my youth, Henry S. Stoddard, Susan Hays Ward and Kate Douglas Wiggin. And this feeling was foremost in the Ethnological Society where my old friend Henry R. Drowne as well as Alexander J. Cotheal and Gen. Wilson were so deservedly prominent.

panionship and literary enjoyment which could not be found anywhere else."

Rossiter Johnson, one of the General's staunch literary coworkers, writes me thus:

"I was associated with Gen. Wilson nearly three years in the preparation of the six volumes of the Cyclopædia of American Biography of which I was the managing editor. Our relations were always pleasant and with his cooperation I was able to make the staff work harmoniously and the task move steadily on to completion which it reached somewhat earlier than the date anticipated. Gen. Wilson was a careful editor and an accurate writer.

It gives me much satisfaction to include the following letter from an esteemed friend of both Gen. Wilson and myself:

My dear Sir:-

It is with deep regret that I learn of the death of General James Grant Wilson, as his death is a loss to the country, to the community and to his

He was indeed a most accomplished gentleman and a man of high literary attainments, intensely patriotic, and left behind him a splendid record which was inspiring to his associates and all those who were fortunate enough to know him, and will be an example for others to follow.

Such men are a treasure to their country and a benefit to the age in which they live.

I remain,

Very truly yours,

(Signed) Nelson A. Miles,

Lieut.-General U. S. Army.

As president for years of the New York Genealogical and Biographical Society General Wilson's facilities as a presiding officer and ease of address as well as acquaintance with well known publicists, historians and travellers enabled him to obtain for our monthly meetings able and interesting speakers and he himself always introduced them in a way which assured them an appreciative hearing. And in case of the unexpected absence of a promised speaker the General was always ready to fill the gap with some of his personal experiences. At these meetings and at the social entertainments thereafter in the library, Mrs. Wilson was her husband's loyal and admiring aid, always in that spirit of kindliness that had been so characteristic of her as I knew her when I was a Sophomore at Rutgers College in her native town.

The General was interested in many things but only slightly in politics. His usual reply to inquiries was "I always kept out of politics, but I always vote and haven't missed casting my ballot for president since I voted the first time and for Lincoln." But he had, as our esteemed president of Columbia describes it, "an international mind, being always interested in matters pertaining to our relations with all foreign governments." This world patriotic spirit helped him wherever he was travelling in other countries to put himself in cordial relations to their rulers and diplomatic officials.

A handsome three-quarter length portrait in oil of the General was presented to this Society by President Bowen which now hangs in the Trustees' Room and was painted by George R. Boynton, a well known and successful artist and personal friend of the General, who has sent me the following interesting statement:

"The pleasant suggestion has been made that I recall such part of the personality of our beloved and lamented fellow member, General James Grant Wilson, as came under my observation while he was sitting to me for his portrait; and I am happy, indeed to contribute however slightly, any reminiscence which may add to the general knowledge of his singularly rare and beautiful character. A life so rich in experiences endowed him with a genial philosophy, a tolerant apprehension of life and a vast fund of anecdote all highly desirable in a gentleman constrained to sit for a portrait.

The painter must seize, out of many the most characteristic pose and expression of his subject; and these he suggests and develops by divers devices. General Wilson, by intent and unconsciously, greatly assisted in my present-

General Wilson, by intent and unconsciously, greatly assisted in my presentment of him, and while I have suggested his lofty intellectuality, the urbanity and polish of his manner, the gracious dignity of his carriage and address, I should still have failed to show the whole man were kindly humor and a generous, warm blooded temperament unillumined on the canvas. Never, surely, had portrait painter a more grateful and engaging subject.

Having arranged for the first sitting, the discussion turned upon which of the General's characters—for he was a man who, in his time played many parts—would best be perpetuated for posterity. We decided that the civilian of his present, the man of letters and of the world, in evening dress, represented as sitting at his library table, penning a note, perhaps, before rising to dine out (this to permit the richness and volume of a fur-lined overcoat) would best represent the General as a contemporary as well as afford scope for values to the painter.

During the six sittings necessary to complete the portrait the General never was restless, or impatient or distraught;—as often happens with men of active brain and wide interests. He preserved his easy, graceful pose, natural, in truth, to one who never sat with crossed legs; and kept warmly alive the expression of cheerful benignancy, so habitual and characteristic; reflected in the portrait.

The gospel of art is to enhance the beauties of truth and that artist is the most successful who most boldly and simply eliminates details, emphasizing the supreme motive underlying all art. Reticence is the soul of style in art or letters and a painting is like a poem in its evolution and development. In both are to be presented the characteristic psychical as well as the physical attributes of a subject, and whether a Grecian urn is painted by Phidias or invoked by Keats their mental processes are not dissimilar, or as Reynolds remarked:—'It takes a gentleman to paint the portrait of one.'

Hence to present the very finest aspect of a sitter, physically, mentally, morally and spiritually, demands on the part of the painter, highly cultivated discernment and discrimination.

Finally, if I have in truth been successful in the portrait it is due quite as certainly to the inspirational qualities of the sitter as to the virtuosity of the artist."

As an illustration of our friend's chivalrous treatment of persons whom he met in foreign lands I quote the following from a letter written me by my sister, Mrs. A. Wordsworth Thompson of Summit, N. J. She says referring to General Wilson:

"How much you must miss him at your meetings, he was ever so full of information and thoughtfulness for all.

When in Tangiers at Christmas time, 1882, I was overwhelmed with anxiety about my good husband who had pneumonia and was delirious and General Wilson who was there in our hotel, though a stranger to me, hearing of my husband's illness came to our room and tapping on the door said: 'A fellow American is near and ready at your command at any hour, night or day.' And when my husband recovered and our circle was made most pleasant by the hospitality of the English and Swedish Consuls, words fail to tell all of the value of General Wilson's gentle and charming courtesy. That his memory may be long honored is the wish of his friend,

MARY PUMPELLY THOMPSON."

I deem it well to here present an account of his will which was probated March 17, 1914, because it refers to the New York Genealogical and Biographical Society. The will reads as follows:

"I give and bequeath to the Metropolitan Museum of Art of the City of New York my Washington gold sleeve links; my Bayard gold ring brought from Holland in 1647; my ring, containing the hair of Washington, Hamilton, Wellington, Napoleon, Lincoln and Grant; my large lock of Lincoln's blood-stained hair; gold medal given to me by the City of New York in May, 1903; three silver medals issued by Holland to commemorate the recognition of American Independence and the Treaty of Commerce between that country and this; a Waterloo medal, bequeathed to me by Capt. Frederick Lehrbush of the British Army; the Edward VII silver medal issued by the Inter-Parliamentary Congress of 1906 held in London; my large silver Hudson-Fulton Celebration medal; the army sleeve links worn by Grant at the surrender of Vicksburg; minature of Fitz-Greene Halleck, received from the poet's sister; also autographed and framed portraits presented to me by President Lincoln and King Edward VII, and signed photographs of Gen. Grant and If not accepted by the Museum, the collection to be offered to the New York Genealogical and Biographical Society."

In concluding this simple tribute to my friend's memory I would lay stress upon his helpful sense of humor. He was in the words of John Kendrick Bangs a real "Salubrity." He had, as I know, his own disappointments but he did not allow them to "drive sentiment 'a begging or cares to take the place of smiles." He knew thoroughly the value of spiritual and mental sunshine and the cheer in a good story, and his friends in many homes will miss his genial presence at their hospitable tables.

They feel now the force of the old saying; "A good name is rather to be chosen than great riches and loving favor than silver and gold." To his country's service in a great civil war and to literature, to philanthropic service and to the claims of friendship in the years of peace General Wilson gave the best he had to give and without stint and for this we honor his memory.

I can here say as I did in my words to the press two days after his death: "We shall know our friend's hearty greetings no more but we all feel that he has left to us an excellent example of the chivalrous friend, the kindly literary critic and the patriotic American citizen."

IVA. GYSBRECHT ADRIAENSZ TROMPER was councillor of Rotter-dam from 1575 to 1613. He was a trustee of several public and private institutions, and also treasurer of "The Great Fishery Trust."† He is also mentioned in a letter of Nicolaes Lord Van Assendelft on Dec. 20, 1559 (see Leenregister, Kralingen, folio 151), and transferred a house on Middledam on June 20, 1562. He married Maria Elants van Hogendorp.‡ Her will bears date Feb. 17, 1592 (see Notarial Archives, not. pub., Symons). She died on March 13, 1595. The children of Gysbert Adriaensz Tromper and Maria Elants Van Hogendorp were:

- 1. Jan Tromper. He lived in "het Huys de Spieghel" or "the House the Mirror," on the Middledam at the north side near the "Hooghstraet." There he made his will on Nov. 3, 1620 (see Notarial Archives, not. pub., Symons). He must have died within the next four years, for the house, mentioned above, was sold by his heirs on Oct. 5, 1624 (see Giftboek, No. 19).
- 2. Ingeltje Tromper, married Jan Clementz vanGoor. On May 3, 1590, he had bought "The House the Mirror" which later became property of Jan Tromper. He died before July 4, 1611, and his widow before Feb., 1619.
- 3. Elandt Tromper, married Maertje Severyns van Beveren. They appear in deeds of June 28, 1597, May 22, 1600, and Nov., 12 and 22, 1602. Their children, who were of full age on Feb. 23, 1619, were:

^{*} There are several notes on the branch of the Tromper or Tromp family at Brielle, to which also the great naval hero, Maerten Harpertsz Tromp, admiral of the Dutch Republic belonged. (Admiral Tromp's statue, as is well known, appears among those ornamenting the United States Custom House at Battery Place, New York.)

[†] This was the herring fishery trust; the whale fishery trust was called "the small fishery trust."

[‡] Gysbert Carel Van Hogendorp, the statesman who in 1813 aided in the restoration of the princes of Orange in the Netherlands, belonged to the same family.

 - v. Reynier Pietersz Tromper, who follows under Vb.
 This line became extinct in the third generation.

IVB. PIETER ADRIAENSZ TROMPER, Jan. 5, 1590, was a trustee of many private institutions at Rotterdam. He married there in March, 1575, Aeltgen Adriaens, which marriage was not published before March 28, 1576. At that date it was confirmed (see Public Marriage Register, Rotterdam, folio 106, verso). Issue:

- 1. Arent Pietersz Tromper, born, as his mother stated at the date of the confirmation of the marriage, in 1575. He married (1) Jan. 25, 1605, Aefje van der Stock, who died in 1616; he married (2) Meynsge Adriaens van Hoogeveen. He himself died before Sept. 30, 1626, on which date were appointed guardians over his minor orphan children by the first marriage, their maternal grandfather, Eewout Jansz van der Stock and Claes Cornelis Kievit (see Register of Guardians, II, p. 620). Only one of the children is named, viz.:
 - i. Alida Tromper.
- 2. Annitgen Tromper, married Huybert van der Meer.
- 3. Adriaen Pietersz Tromper, who follows under Va.
- 4. Catherina Tromper, married Oct. 14, 1609, Jan Joppe Quackerneck, son of Job Jansz Quackerneck, burgomaster of Rotterdam (see Contractbook, p. 74).

As widower of Aeltgen Adriaens, Pieter Adriaensz Tromper(?) remarried Katryn, daughter of Daem Allewynsz van Nideck. Ofthis marriage one son was born.

VA. ADRIAEN PIETERSZ TROMPER is mentioned on Nov. 23, 1600, Nov. 17, 1617, and on June 15, 1621, in the contract book of the Schepens of Rotterdam. He must have died before Sept. 23, 1626. On that date are mentioned in "Giftbook" No. 20, his nephew and his brother, Simon Reyniersz Tromper, who with Arent Pietersz Tromper, were appointed guardians of the children left by the late Adriaen Pietersz Tromper, during his life Public Attorney of Rotterdam, to wit of the orphans Daem Adriaensz Tromper and Jacob Adriaensz Tromper, sons of the aforesaid Adriaen Tromper, Sept. 23, 1626. These guardians conveyed on behalf of the orphans on July II, 1627, a house on the east side of the Botersloot (the butter harbor). This was very likely the ancestral house known as "The Golden Head."

Adriaen Pietersz Tromper and his wife Cornelia Claes van Driel, therefore had the following children:

1. Daem Tromper, married Maria Jans van der Speck.

2. Jacob Tromper. The Rotterdam archives simply state that he was an orphan child in 1626. Only through them was the direct male line from their grandfather Pieter Adriaensz Tromper continued, as is shown further on.

VB. REYNIER PIETERSZ TROMPER was councillor of the city of Rotterdam from 1615 to 1618, burgomaster in 1616 and 1617. In 1617 he was deputy of the High Mighty Lords, the States of Holland and West Friesland. He died at Rotterdam on May I, 1618, in the house opposite the City Hall. His first wife Maritge Simons van Neck left him one child:

1. Simon Reyniersz Tromper, who follows under VIa.

His second wife was Adriana van Kels, called Post, born in 1574; died March 12, 1646; married Aug. 16, 1613. Issue:

- 1. Pieter Reyniersz Tromper, who died Oct. 22, 1647.
- 2. Johan Reyniersz Tromper, who died in 1667.

VIA. SIMON REYNIERSZ TROMPER is mentioned several times between 1621 and 1632. In 1626 he appears as one of the two guardians of his two minor cousins Daem Adriaensz Tromper and Jacob Adriaensz Tromper. He married, at Rotterdam, on Feb. 4, 1624, Catharina Ysbrants Kievit.* Simon Reyniersz Tromper died Aug. 7, 1637, and his wife, April 8, 1656. Issue:

1. Gertruyd Tromper, who married Arnold van Os.

2. Maria Tromper, who married on Jan. 18, 1654, Dirck de Raet, Lord van Stelt.

3. Reynier Tromper, who died in 1628; at his death this line became extinct.

4. Margaretha Tromper, who died in 1621.

5. Anna Tromper, who died in 1653.

6. Catharina Tromper, who married Ferdinand Erlewyn.

That the two orphan boys of 1626, Daem Adriaensz Tromper and Jacob Adriaensz Tromper, were the only male persons to continue the direct line of their grandfather, Pieter Adriaensz Tromper (IVb), is proven by the following fact:

The line of the third and only remaining (married) grandson, Simon Reyniersz Tromper (VIa) died out with his only son Reynier Simonsz Tromper in 1628.

The line of Pieter Adriaensz Tromper's brother, Gysbert Adriaensz Tromper (IVa), was extinguished in the third following generation.

^{*} She was very likely a sister of Willem Ysbrantz Kieft (or Kievit), the late governor of New Netherland.

The line of Pieter Adriaensz Tromper's only other brother, Jacob Adriaensz Tromper, from which the naval hero Maerten Harpertsz Tromp probably sprang, continued at Brielle.

Thus conclusively showing that this latter line and that of the two orphan boys of 1626 were the only ones to continue the direct male line of Adriaen Jacobsz Tromper, councillor of Rotterdam from 1542 to 1558.

The only four possible continuers of the line of Adrian Jacobsz Tromper's father, Jacob Pietersz Tromper (II) are:

Pieter Albrechtsz Tromper (II, 5). Egbert Huybrechtsz Tromper (II, 6). Pieter Huybrechtsz Trumper (III, ii). William Jacobsz Tromper (II, 7).

Jacob Tromper, the orphan boy of 1626, is probably the first American ancestor of the Tromper family.

Although the notes concerning the branches in the Netherlands reach to the beginning of the 18th century, it seemed to be useless to extend the search much beyond the possible date of the first American ancestor's emigration.

The direct line of Jacob Tromper:

I. Pietir Tromper, born 1460.

II. Son: Jacob Pietersz Tromper, died 1540-1541; married Adriana Aubrechts (Van Duyn?).

III. Oldest son (oldest child): Adriaen Jacobsz Tromper, died 1559; married Catharina Jans Van Soelen.

IVb. Second son (second child): Pieter Adriaensz Tromper, died after 1590; married 1575, Aeltgen Adriaens ——.

Va. Second son (third child): Adriaen Pietersz Tromper, died 1626; married Cornelia Claes Van Driel.

Second son (second child) Jacob Adriaensz Tromper, an orphan boy in 1626.

ABEL* BRISTOL (Aaron, Eliphalet, Henry), said to have been b. 1755, "at Canaan, Ct.," evidently lived with his father at Harwinton, Ct., until he m. Lois Norton of Goshen, and settled at Canaan. He served in the Revolution, enlisting at Albany, and later in the Columbia Co. Militia, in which he was appointed Lieutenant in 1793 and Captain in 1800. As he "resigned regularly" in 1800, this is probably the date of the settlement of this family in Lima, N. Y. He d. in Lima, May 11, 1827. Children:

- i. Lois, b. Dec. 5, 1775; m. Jan. 24, 1796, at Canaan, William, son of William Warner; settled at Lima.

- iv. Miles, Cornet in Ontario Co. Militia, 1803. Probably the Miles Bristol who d. at Little Silver, near Vicksburg, Miss., 1865, whose estate was advertised and an unsuccessful attempt made to find his heirs. In 1880, (the late) Jonathan Bristol of Pittsfield, Mass., and (the late) John Bristol, of Cuba, N. Y., confusing him with Miles Bristol of the Newtown Branch, made a very successful attempt to trace the heirs of the latter, and so discovered their error.

ASHUR' BRISTOL (Eliphalet, Eliphalet, Henry') had land "set off" to him in Canaan. This seems to have been part in Chatham and part in Austerlitz (all once included Canaan) as per two identures made between two of his sons, Eliphalet and Ashur, when Eliphalet quitclaimed land in Chatham, in 1818, whereof Ashur Bristol died seized. This was recorded in 1832. In 1831, Ashur Bristol and Olive, his wife, sold the land "in Austerlitz" formerly owned by Ashur Bristol (deceased). This land was bounded on the north by the highway leading from Hudson to Stockbridge and "next the land now in the possession of the widow of Israel Bristol." Children:

i. Eliphalet.* In 1818, he was living in Oxford, Chenango Co., N. Y.

THACHER-THATCHER GENEALOGY.

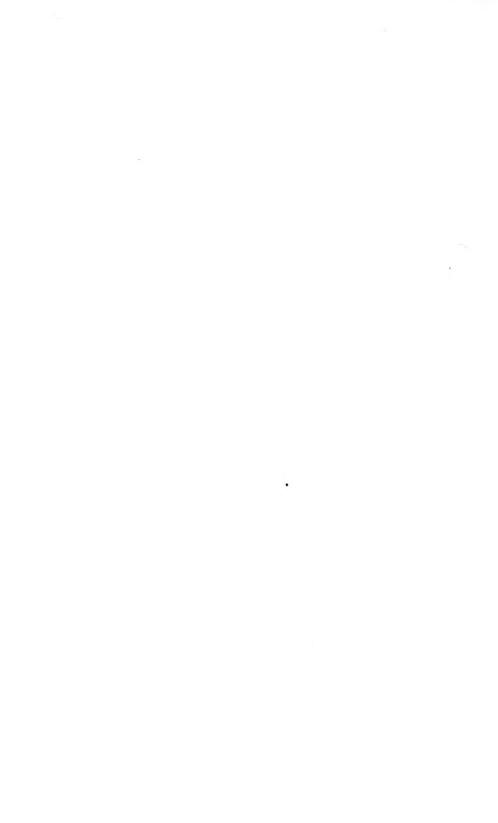

By John R. Totten,

Member of the New York Genealogical and Biographical Society and New England Historic-Genealogical Society.

- +1332 iii. Anna Savage, born May 22nd, 1823; died April 19th, 1861; married Dr. Joseph Brown Cutts.
- +1333 iv. George⁸ (or George Henry), born May 23rd, 1825; died ——; married, first, to Caroline Matilda Livingston; married, second, to Elizabeth ——, a widow with one daughter.
 - v. Amelia Hepsibah, born November 30th, 1826; died May 15th, 1899, at Ayer, Mass.; not married.
 - vi. James Francis, born September 26th, 1828; died December 29th, 1831, at Saco, Maine, and was probably buried there; a child of George Thacher, Jr., died at Saco, Maine, December 29th, 1831, according to Saco published Vital Records, and it is assumed by me that it was this child, No. 1335, as all the others were alive at that time.

George⁷ Thacher was partly fitted for college by Joseph Adams (H. C., 1805), who was a private tutor in his father's family (I imagine he was the same Joseph Adams who married George Thacher's sister, see Record No. 772); he completed his preparatory studies at Gorham, Maine, Academy under the instruction of Rev. Reuben Nason (H. C., 1802). He studied law with Hon. Cyrus King of Saco, Maine, and began practice in that place in 1815, where he continued until 1835. For five (5) years he was senior partner in the law firm of Gov. Fairchild and for several years he was Registrar of Probate of York Co., Maine. In 1835 he left Saco for Monroe, Maine, where he remained until 1841, where he was appointed by President Tyler, Collector of the Port of Belfast, Maine, and removed to that place. After the expiration of his commission he returned to Monroe, where he resumed the practice of his profession and remained there until 1853, when he removed to Westford, Mass. Mr. Thacher was a gentleman of most pleasing address and distinguished for his generous qualities. He had a deep sense of the importance of truth and justice, and discharged every duty with conscientious integrity. Believing the truth and importance of Christian religion, he was a firm supporter of public worship, a communicant and constant attendant in the ordinances of the gospel.

I have been singularly unsuccessful in obtaining a complete and satisfactory record of the above Lewis¹ Thacher and his descendants. Under date of January 4th, 1905, Mrs. Lucy Savage (Thacher) Van Antwerp wrote me that on that date the children, Nos. 1348, 1350 and 1351 were dead and had been dead for some time, but could give no dates or information as to whether they had married or not. She stated that about 1865 she remembers that No. 1349, Catherine De Wolfe³ (Thacher) Jones, came to her house in Schenectady, N. Y., with a child, a daughter about 10 or 12 years of age. She had no further recollections of her and knew of the post office address of none of her descendants.

A Joshua Hinckley (son of Jabez and Deborah (Wing) Hinckley of Barnstable, Mass.), was born at Barnstable, March 2nd, 1779. He may have been the Joshua Hinckley who married the above Elizabeth Thacher, as at the time of her marriage in 1802 he was 23 years of age and hence of a suitable marriageable age, and, moreover, about the age of No. 833, who was probably born subsequent to 1780. This is a surmise only, not a positive statement. The above Joshua Hinckley's father, Jabez Hinckley, was born at Barnstable, October 24th, 1741, and died there February —, 1817, and married ——, 1764, to Deborah Wing.

834. Mary Thacher (Josiah, Capt. Josiah, Deacon Josiah, Hon. Col. John, Antony, Rev. Peter, born December 3rd, 1753, "12 o'clock at night," at Norwalk, Conn.; died August 30th, 1796, at —; married May 19th, 1785, at — (Norwalk, Conn., probably), to Peter Hendricks (or Hendrick), born —, at —; died —, at —. He was a son of — Hendrick by his wife —, who resided at —.

Child: I (Hendricks), son.

+1438 i. Burr, born —; died —.

The above Peter Hendricks bought land in Norwalk, house and homestead, with mill and dam at Dry Hill, in 1786, he being then of Norwalk, late of Fairfield. In 1787 he bought a small piece of adjoining land. He sold house on Dry Hill in 1792 and disappears from records. He either died or moved away. Burr Hendricks, a grandson of Josiah⁶ Thacher, is mentioned in the will of Josiah⁶ Thacher, July 15th, 1806; see Vol. I., p. 171, Norwalk, Conn., Probate Records.

Selleck's Norwalk, p. 452, is in error in stating that Mary⁷ Thacher married —— Betts; it was her sister Hannah⁷ Thacher who married Isaiah Betts (see No. 835).

C. E. Durkee (of Saratoga, N. Y.), and Edward Doubleday Harris in their copy of Sadler Cemetery Inscriptions, Saratoga Springs, N. Y., gives the following item: "Burr Hendrick, died April 7th, 1829." It is possible that this is the above Burr[®] Hendrick (No. 1438).

Schenck's History of Fairfield, Conn., Vol. I., page 490, gives the following item: "Peter, son of John and Phebe Hendrick, baptized at Fairfield, Conn., May 22nd, 1737." This may be the record of the baptism of Peter Hendricks who married Mary' Thacher.

If so, he was 48 years old at date of his marriage to her.

Bailey's Early Conn. Marriages, Vol. VI, p. 40, gives the following item: "Peter Hendrick and Sarah Allen were married at Fairfield, Ct., July 11th, 1776. It is possible that this may be the Peter Hendricks who married Mary' Thacher and that he married first as above to Sarah Allen, and she died, and he may have on May 19th, 1785, taken Mary' Thacher as his second wife. This seems not improbable, as 48 years old was rather late in life for a first marriage. These notes are, however, simply suggestions to future genealogists, as I have not absolute evidence except what I have given above, except the statement made by Miss Caroline Parmelia Pulling in August, 1882, to Miss Julia Redfield of Pittsfield, Mass., to the effect that Hannah' (Thacher) Betts, her grandmother, had a sister who left descendants that lived near Saratoga, which would seem to point to Burr Hendrick and possibly also his father, Peter Hendrick.

From the Roster of Pensioners of the U. S., in 1841, we find on page 81, that Isaiah Betts was 82 years old June 1st, 1840, and was a U. S. Pensioner then living at his home at Broadalbin, Fulton Co., N. Y. He was an ensign in the Revolutionary War from Connecticut. He removed to Galway, N. Y., and kept a public house there. Isaiah Betts was of the 5th generation in the line from the emigrant ancestor, viz., Thomas, Thomas, Thomas, Isaac, Isaiah.

He made his will July 12th, 1830. He was a blacksmith. He married at Norwalk, Conn., March 28th, 1790, to Susannah Lockwood, born Norwalk, Conn., January 2nd, 1752; died at Norwalk, Conn., — (between 1835 and 1840), aged about 88 years, and was buried in Town House Hill Burying Ground; no gravestone. She was a daughter of John Lockwood (born July 1st, 1713, in Fairfield, Conn.; died ——; married February 8th, 1730-1), and his wife, Abigail Morehouse (born ——; died ——), of Norwalk, Conn.

Children: none.

In Town House Hill Burying Ground, Norwalk, Conn., we find a stone over the grave of No. 836 thus inscribed, viz., "Thomas F. Thacher, died October 9th, 1832, aged 63."

Thomas Fitch' Thacher lived on "Drye Hill," Norwalk, Conn. His wife, Susannah (Lockwood) Thacher, was a woman of great force. In her later life she was well known for the excellence of her dairy products. Her milk, cream and butter were of superior quality and the latter brought the highest price in the market. She did her own milking after night-fall and made her butter at midnight. All her work was done in the cool of the day, and her well was her refrigerator.

Children: 5 (Lewis), 4 sons and 1 daughter, all probably born in Salem, Conn.

- i. Charles, born —; died —; he married and settled in Dewitt, N. Y. I have no further record of him.
- ii. Samuel Brooker, born —; died —; he married and lived in Ohio. He may possibly have been the Samuel Lewis of Lowell, Ohio, who was married July 6th, 1844, at Lowell, Ohio, by the Rev. E. Rector to Mary Ann Buell, born Lowell, Ohio, August 3rd, 1822 (daughter of Percy Barnum and Elizabeth (Rector) Buell of Lowell, Ohio), by whom he had 9 children. (See Buell Genealogy, pp. 256-57.)

John Lewis was a man of much prominence in New York City and in his native town of Salem. He was a public benefactor of Salem, N. Y., and in his honor the name of the place was changed to Lewisboro. A monument to his memory, as well as to that of his mother, Margaret (Hayes) Lewis, is to be found in the Lewisboro Cemetery.
- iv. Isaac Hayes, born —; died —; married Elizabeth Greenly (or Greely), daughter of Thomas Greenly of New Canaan, Conn., and left issue, amongst whom was a son, William Isaac Lewis, who was executor of his uncle, John Lewis will.

v. Margaret,8 born May 4th, 1796, at South Salem, N. Y.; died January 13th, 1869, at Norwalk, Ohio, and was there buried in Woodlawn Cemetery; married at South Salem, N. Y., December 28th, 1815, to James Whitney, born Kent, Conn., March 20th, 1793; he was a farmer and settled in New Canaan, Conn., removing after marriage to Poundridge, N. Y., where he died April 16th, 1855, aged 63 years, and was buried in St. Mark's Cemetery, New Canaan, Conn. Margaret⁸ (Lewis) Whitney removed in 1829 with her children to Dewitt, N. Y., where she lived with her brother, Charles⁸ Lewis, until 1841, when with her youngest son, Augustus Waters Whitney, she moved to Norwalk, Ohio, dwelling there with her brother, Samuel Brooker⁸ Lewis, until 1845. She then bought a tract of land upon which she settled with her son, and built a comfortable home, where she died. James Whitney, her husband, was a son of Stephen Whitney of Kent, Conn. (born Norwalk, Conn., January 20th, 1754; died Kent, Conn., September 25th, 1830), and his wife, Esther Jarvis (born Norwalk, Conn., September 4th, 1759; died Poundridge, N. Y., August 10th, 1840).

Children: 5 (Whitney), 3 sons and 2 daughters, all born at Poundridge, N. Y. (See Whitney Genealogy, Vol. I, pp. 156, 423.)

John Lewis (father of John Lewis), who married Margaret Hayes, was a son of Moses Lewis of New London, Conn., and was baptized at New London, Conn., July 17th, 1720. I am informed by Carl A. Lewis, the compiler of Lewisiana (P. O. address, Hampton, Conn.), that descendants of Isaac Hayes Lewis claim that John Lewis (father of John Lewis who married Margaret Hayes) was a son of John Lewis by his wife, Elizabeth Huntley, who lived and died at Lyme, Conn. Both Carl A. Lewis and I find this statement inconsistent with known facts relative to John Lewis of Lyme and his descendants. He was a son of Moses Lewis of New London, Conn., and was baptized at New London, July 17th, 1720 (see Hempstead's Diary, p. 99). Moses Lewis of New London, Conn., was a son of John Lewis of New London, Conn., by his wife, Elizabeth Huntley. This John Lewis was born in —, England, and came over to this country in 1635 with his father, John Lewis, on the ship Hercules, and finally settled in New London, Conn.; he was a young man in 1670 and was over 30 years old in 1685; he was constable in New London in 1681 and was sergeant of the train band after 1700. He died at New London, May 8th, 1717, being killed by being hit on the head by the limb of a tree that he was having felled for the bark thereof, while he sat on horseback under the tree, and was buried in New London, May 9th, 1717 (see Hempstead's Diary, p. 66); he married at New London, Conn., May 24th, 1677, to Elizabeth Huntley (daughter of John and Jane (----) Huntley of Lyme, Conn.), born at ----; died December 26th, 1741, at Groton, Conn. (a very aged woman), at the home of her daughter, Mrs. William Latham.

John Lewis, who married Elizabeth Huntley, was a son of John Lewis, the emigrant ancestor to this country, who came over to Scituate, Mass., in 1635, arriving on the ship Hercules with his wife, Sarah —— (?) and I child (John² Lewis of New London). John Lewis the emigrant had settled in New London, Conn., by 1648, and was a freeman there before 1669; he died at New London, Conn., December 8th, 1676. His wife, Sarah —— Lewis, died at Boston, Mass., July 12th, 1657 (12th of 5th month, 1757). So the line of John Lewis, who married Margaret Hayes, was: John, the emigrant, who died in New London, December 8th, 1676; John, 2 who died in New London, May 8th, 1717; Moses³ (whose son, John, was baptized at New London, July 17th, 1720); John,4 baptized New London, July 17th, 1720; died at Killingworth, Conn., August 24th, A. D. 1786, in 67th year of her age (hence born after August 24th, 1719); John,5 born Killingworth, Conn., July 27th, 1760, who married Margaret Hayes.

In the distribution of the estate of Sergeant John Lewis, Elizabeth Lewis, administratrix, among the signatures of children who receipted for their shares is that Moses³ Lewis.

Mrs. E. S. Upham, grand-daughter of Rev. William⁷ Thacher (brother of Josiah⁷ Thacher), says that Josiah⁷ Thacher, her uncle, was 4 years and 8 months older than her father; hence as Rev. Wm.⁷ Thacher was born April 3rd, 1769, Josiah⁷ Thacher was born August —, 1764; which date of birth agrees with his age in 1833, as given in his pension record above.

Rev. Wm.⁷ Thacher, in his diary, says: "On the 22nd of August, 1845. I was visited by my aged brother, Josiah Thacher, on his way from Sidney, Delaware Co., N. QUAKER RECORDS IN NEW YORK.

By John Cox, Jr.

The records of the Society of Friends in New York State and parts adjacent, are at Fifteenth Street Meeting House, corner Rutherfurd Place. The Society separated in 1828, and the records, now numbering over 1300 volumes, include those of both branches, one called "Hicksite" and the other "Orthodox". The territory covered by our records extends from Montpelier, Vt., and Hartford, Conn., to Battle Creek, Mich., and from Farnham, Quebec, to Hardwick, N. J., and Deerfield, Pa. Genesee Yearly Meeting (H), in Ontario and Western New York, has made our Joint Committee on Records the custodian of its records, and has been invited to add a member to our committee.

The records of the Yearly Meeting, and of the Quarterly Meetings are not of genealogical importance. Preparative Meeting records are of little importance except in the absence of Monthly Meeting records. The Yearly Meeting is the legislative body, and court of last resort, independent of all other Yearly Meetings, but maintaining with them all (of its own branch) friendly correspondence by annual Epistles. The monthly Meeting is the executive body, and its records are of greater importance than those of any other religious organization, owing to our system of birthright membership, and the peculiar care in recording births, deaths and marriages.

George Fox was a great organizer, and early began to advise the growing meetings to record their vital data, and other matter, in a book. In 1668 he had copies made for the various Monthly Meetings of his "Paper of Advice", the basis of the Discipline of the Society, and one of these copies, in an unbound book, about 11x7 inches, he sent by the hand of John Burnyeat, a traveling minister, who delivered it to the "Half Years Meeting" at Oyster Bay, L. I., the 23d of the 3rd Month (May) 1671. The earliest extant minute, and doubtless the earliest written minute, of an American Quaker Meeting, was that day recorded in this Book. The book as it came from England, contained an epistle from "G. ff". to the following friends "In New England".

"Daniell Gold
William Coddington
Nicholas Easton
Thomas Clifton
Richard Burden
Richard Scott
Nathaniel Silvester
Edward Perry
William Howland
Ralph Allen
William Allen

Nicholas Davis
Henery Howland
Edward Wharton
Nicholas Sharpley
John Hussey
James Heard
John Bowne
John Tilton
Samuell Spicer
Samuell Andrews"

This map, made by Dr. Shadrach Ricketson, 1821, shows 162 meetings, and the mileage distances between them. Copies are very rare. He also published, 1866, "Means of Preserving Health and Preventing Diseases."

The last four named were prominent Long Island Friends. He adds, "you may keepe coppies of these Papers in a booke, & send Coppies of them to New England and Mary Land yt mens meeting may be set up in all places", which seems to have been done. This original volume, used for minutes till 1703, was discovered half a century ago in a Flushing Quaker garret. The "Book of Records" in which Isaac Horner copied the "Paper of Advice" and other special papers, after being lost for a century and a half, turned up a few years ago. Although no minutes had been written before 1671, a record of marriages, births and deaths had been kept.

When Isaac Horner (bless his memory, O Genealogists) copied in 1685 these records into a substantial parchment bound book, he did a thorough job, recording births as early as 1640, deaths from 1669, and marriages from 1663, prefacing the latter with the celebrated case of the marriage of John Ashwell and Ann Ridge, 1658, which being challenged by next of kin in 1661, established our form of marriage, on the ground that it is the consent of the parties that make a marriage, not what some one else says to or about them.

Quakers first appeared in this province August 1, 1657, on the arrival of the little ship, Woodhouse, 24 tons, bringing no cargo, but eleven Quaker preachers, who at once spread into Long Island and New England.

Meetings were maintained at Flushing, Oyster Bay, and perhaps other places, from 1657, and Friends increased, but of their marriages and other vital happenings, no record was kept for some years.

When in 1685, Isaac Horner gave the matter of vital records such impetus that his influence lasted a century, Westbury Monthly had already (1684) become separated and distinct from Flushing, but no minutes are extant earlier than 1697, and no vital data (other than shown in the minutes) until 1730, when a large book was begun, and continued. Curiously this book contains one or two entries of births, and marriages of 1685. The book begins with a statement so worded as to preclude the existence of an earlier record.

That there were more Quakers in the Province than our early records name is shown by wills and other data.

What makes our records so important for genealogical, biographical, or sociological study is our system of minutes. Quakerism has always been a very practical religion, putting emphasis more on conduct than on belief, and the lives of the members have been looked after to a degree not approached in any other religious organization. Marrying "out," which included marrying a non-member, or too soon after the decease of a former partner, or by a "priest" i. e., minister of another denomination, or marrying too near akin, or without consent of parents, was the most common offense dealt with. Other offenses were, starting a lawsuit or maintaining a quarrel instead of asking for arbitrators, failing in business, neglect of meeting, and any form of social disorder. These were the more common offenses. Dealings regarding doctrine were practically unknown. In the "dealings" with offenders, we often find a humor which the early Quakers never intended, as they labored to bring back wayward ones to the Godfearing sobriety of "the Truth."

The committee thereto appointed by Flushing M. M. in 1699, having spoken to Daniel Dean about his disorderly marriage, "he replyed for answer yt he could give ffriends satisfaction & allsoe Said if it ware to doe againe he would not doe it." Being further dealt with for "going from the truth for a wife", he states "yt he hoops to be more Careful on all occations for ye time to come," which seemed to be all that reasonably could be expected.

6th of 10 mo 1705. The disorderly and Evil action of William Thorne in accompanying William fford and Mary Hait in their Rebellious indeavour to accomplish a marriage with out and alltogether against ye Consent of ye parents of ye Younge woman ye Said william Thorne hath this day Considered by answer under his hand. The meeting hath advised him to give Samuel Hait Satisfaction by desiring his forgiveness and allsoe make his paper of Condemnation publick as far as it wass known.

5th ye 7 mo 1706. "The friends apointed to take Care to speake to Such as may have misbehaved themselves did speak to Thomas Hodger about his drinking to excess at ye Court time in Jameco wenthing he ye Said Thomas did Condemn by a writing signed by himself and sent to the meeting went paper this meeting desires may be made as public as the offense & that James Jackson assist him therein."

In 1730 as a couple stood up for the second time in M. M., another young man objected, claiming that Hannah was promised to him. The meeting denied the marriage "at present", and the record does not show which swain got the fickle maid. In 1705, "it was this day Considered the hurtfulness of Henry ffranklin's neglecting meeting of Late Knowing that Such his practice is Hurtful to him & therefore ye meeting hath apointed Horsman Mullenex, Thomas Stevens & Benjamin Heverland to inform him and indever to help him."

"Whereas I have some Time past Contrary To freinds Principles Been Concerned in the Importation of Negroes From Africa, which has Caused some uneasiness in my mind, I think I can now say I am Sorry I Ever had any Concern in that Trade, and hope For the future I Shall Conduct my Self more Agreeable

To friends principles in any such matter.

Sam1 Underhill."

"Dear Friends: Whereas I have through unwatchfulness gone astray to the Principles of Truth so far as to take up arms and assist in taking Prisoners several of the Inhabitants of New Jersey which conduct I do sincerely condemn, and hope for the future I shall be enabled to lead my life so as to make full satisfaction for my past conduct.

Richard Shotwell."

Purchase M. M. disowned a young man in 1786, for keeping company with a young woman not of our Society and carrying a pistol by way of defence. Here is material for a romance condensed into two lines. Another was disowned in 1792 for marrying "his first and second cousin and unkles Widdow." The context does not indicate polygamy, but rather such a multiple personality as appears in the "Mikado." In Le Ray M. M., 1815, the intentions of a couple were referred to the Q. M., which decided that the degree of kindred was too close, "the sd. Eunice being the sd. Darius's deceased wife's brother's daughter".

Thus it will be seen that our minutes are a mine of data about the member who offended, and most of those in good standing frequently appear, on the numerous committees, etc. When a member or a family removed to or from another locality, the certificate is duly mentioned, generally with all the children's names. In some meetings the minutes were laxly written but in the main they are clear and explicit.

The records of births, deaths and marriage certificates of a number of the Monthly Meetings have been copied, and are being sold in typewritten form by parties having no connection with the Society of Friends, to many libraries. These copies are, I believe, complete for only a few Monthly Meetings, in other cases containing only a part of the record. The cause of this is that when, some ten years ago, a person was, unofficially allowed to copy such data as he wished, the number of records was about half what we now have. It was understood that the data was not to be published, and this person made no sale of the copies. Recently, in other hands, they have been offered to various libraries.

The writer has, as he could find time, made digests of marriage intentions and dealings relating to marriage in the men's and women's minutes of many Monthly Meetings, down to 1850, after which date, owing to the reform in discipline and other causes, disownment for marrying out practically ceased. These digests have been completed for about half the whole body of records we have. None have been published, though the writer has looked forward to a publication of all the marriage data of the whole Yearly Meeting, but the enormous cost seems prohibitive. It will be seen that the marriage certificates, even where covering a given period, so as to be called complete for that period, are indeed far from complete. An occasional certificate, by carelessness, fails of record; or if recorded the certificate always fails to show if a committee had been appointed to see to the rights of the bride's children by a former husband; or the man married a maid of another Monthly Meeting (the division line might be between their very farms) and the certificate, if recorded, was recorded in her Monthly Meeting, he producing a certificate from his own Monthly Meeting of his "clearness from other like engagements"; or the young couple, dreading the ordeal of "appearing" in the men's and the women's meeting for two successive months, and then the very public marriage, would be quietly joined by a magistrate, make a suitable acknowledgment, and remain in good standing; or a member would marry a non-member and be dealt with therefor. All these matters pertaining to marriage are marriage certificates.

The records are labeled, catalogued and shelved in a convenient manner, and many volumes have been re-bound. My "Catalogue of Records and History of the Meetings," about 540 legal pages of typewriting, has been a matter of slow upbuilding since 1897. It should be published, but funds are not available. If some individual, or society, would undertake the cost, it would be a valuable addition to our sources of historical and genealogical material.

The only other large collections of Quaker records in America are at 142 North Sixteenth Street, Philadelphia, where there are 975 volumes and packages, a small number at Fifteenth and Race Streets, Philadelphia, at Baltimore, where they have 300 volumes, at Richmond, Ind., a few, and those of New England Yearly Meeting being collected at Providence, R. I. In England, the Quaker records are in the Friends' Reference Library, 136 Bishopsgate, London, E. C., Norman Penney, Custodian.

In all these repositories the records are more or less carefully guarded—that is, it is not intended that the records should be examined by curiosity hunters or that the "Dealings" should be exploited in the press.

The following is a list of the Monthly Meetings that have been at any time part of either New York Yearly Meeting, giving in very condensed form the locality, the date of establishment, from what M. M. set off, and what vital records are in existence. The M. Ms. are taken in the following geographical order: First those on Long Island; then those in Northern New Jersey; then those east of the Hudson, up into Quebec; then those west of the Hudson, including Saratoga County; then those out through central and western New York; then those along the St. Lawrence; then those through Canada, going west; finally those in Michigan. Following the name of the M. M., are the names of P. Ms. (except that of same name as the M. M.) that have been at any time under its jurisdiction. It will be noticed that some of these P. Ms., have belonged at different times to two or more M.Ms. This arrangement helps to show the territory covered by each M. M., at any given time.

It should be borne in mind that the date of establishment indicates the period when a considerable number of Quaker families had been settled in the locality for some time, and Preparative Meetings established—frequently a matter of ten years or more. This was the rule. As exceptions, may be mentioned, the P. M. of Adolphus in Ontario, and that of Farmington in Ontario County, which owing to the pioneer conditions and distance from the M. M., were established with the powers of an M. M., as to marriages.

The letters (H) and (O) indicate to which branch, after 1828, the meeting belonged. There was always a P. M. of same name as the M. M.

Flushing (later called New York). The original nucleus of the Society in this Province. No definite date of establishment can be fixed. Has included Westbury, Jericho, Matinecock, Oyster Bay, Gravesend, New York, Maspeth, Newton, Westchester and other points. B. from 1640, D. from 1669. M. Certs. from 1663, all to date, both branches. Rem. Certs. 1787 to date, both branches, and a digest of those from 1671 to 1787. Minutes, men's from 1671, women's from 1720, to date, both branches.

Flushing (second of that name). Set off 1805 from New York M. M. Included no other P. M. Laid down (O) 1830. B. and D.

and M. Certs., also minutes, complete.

Westbury. Established 1684, when the Friends at "Yorke, Gravesend and Flushing and Westchester, Ye Kills and Newtoun" were retained as parts of Flushing M. M., and those at Oyster Bay, "ye farmes" (Jericho) and "Woodedge" (Westbury) became parts of Westbury M. M. Has included Matinecock and Cow Neck (now Manhasset). B. & D. and M. Certs. complete from 1730. Minutes, men's from 1697, women's from 1704, complete for both branches. Records (H) not yet sent in.

JERICHO. Set off 1789 from Westbury M. M. Laid down (O) 1828. Has included Bethpage and Jerusalem. B. and D. and M. Certs. (H) to date. Minutes, men's from 1789, women's from 1817

NANTUCKET (H). Established 1831 as part of Westbury Q. M. Laid down 1845. Records not collected, probably on the Island of Nantucket.

Shrewsbury. Established by Westbury Q. M. 6. 15. 1672, for Shrewsbury and Middletown, N. J. Has included Squan., Squancome and Topanemus. At the latter place, near Freehold, George Keith in 1704 carried away the whole meeting to form the First Episcopal church of Freehold, tearing down the meeting house for material with which to build the church, which is still standing. B. D. and M. Certs., 1670 to date. Minutes men's, 1732 to date. The Men's 1756-1786, and women's 1680-1732, and 1738-1828, also deaths, disownments and removal certs. 1768-1828, are at 142 North 16th Street, Phila., as well as all (O) records after 1828. All other records of this M. M., are to be placed this year with our collection.

RAHWAY and PLAINFIELD. Established 1686 as Woodbridge M. M. Laid down 1689 to 1704 "by reason of George Keith's Separation." Held first at Amboy and Woodbridge. Has included the territory named, and no other P. Ms. B. and D. 1705 to date. M. Certs. 1713 to date. Rem. Certs. 1770 to date. Minutes (H) men's 1686, and women's 1723, to date, except men's 1802-1828, which together with (O) records from 1827 and copies of B. and D. and M. Certs. 1787-1871 (O), are at 142 North 16th Street, Phila. Other records of this M. M. are at present at Plainfield, N. J., meeting house.

HARDWICK and MENDHAM (the latter name being changed 1811, to RANDOLPH). Set off 1797 from Kingwood M. M. (in Hunterdon Co., N. J.) In the Towns of Hardwick in Warren Co., and in what is the present Town of Randolph in Morris Co., N. J. Laid down (H) 1855, and the members attached to Rahway and Plainfield, M. M. B. 1715 and D. 1807 (H), to 1861. M. Certs. (H) 1714-1855.

Rem. Certs. (H) 1792-1847. being those of Kingwood M. M. down to 1797, and the M. Certs. prior to 1797 seem to have been then copied from the Kingwood records. The first five Certs. antedate the establishment of Kingwood (1744), but all relate to families resident in the Hardwick vicinity. Minutes, men's 1797-1844; women's, 1803-1849. All records here, except women's minutes 1803-1822, at present in possession of William Clinton Armstrong, Nutley, N. J. Records (O) if collected, may be at 142 North 16th Street, Phila.

The Kingwood records have been published.

Purchase. Established 1725, in central Westchester Co., N. Y. The first M. M. "on the Main." Has included Mamaroneck, Chappaqua, Amawalk, and Middlesex, the latter in Conn. B. and D., both branches (begun 1742, but containing earlier births) to date. M. Certs. both branches, 1736 to date. Minutes, complete from 1725 to date, both branches, except men's 1748-1765 and women's 1725-1828.

EARLY SETTLERS OF WEST FARMS, WESTCHESTER COUNTY, N. Y.

10. GABRIEL LEGGETT (Gabriel'), borr at West Farms, 1697 or 1698; resided at West Farms, and in latter years of his life at West Patent of North Castle, Westchester Co.; was a landowner and an Alderman of the Borough of Westchester; died at West Farms, April, 1786, and was probably buried at West Farms. He was married, presumably at West Farms, first, to Bridget(?) (Nothing is known of her parentage, and her given name is taken from the statement of a decendant, William L. Corse, son of Barney Corse and Mary E. Leggett (Samuel, Thomas, Thomas', Gabriel'.) He married, second, July 9, 1765, Mary Wiggins. The date of her birth is not known, and she was dead before 1781, as she is not mentioned in Gabriel's will of that date. He married, third (?), Aug. 7, 1782, Sarah Brown.

Children 9(?) (Leggett), 4 sons and 5 daughters, all born presumably at West Farms:

- i. Thomas, b. June 3, 1721; d. —; m. Mary Embree. +23
- +24
- +25
- ii. Isaac, b. —; d. before 1781; m. Hannah Wiggins. iii. James, b. —; d. —— 1800; m. ——. iv. Gabriel, b. ——; d. before April 10, 1760; m. Cather-+26 ine Ash.
- +27
- v. Mary, b. —; d.—; m. John Archer. vi. Martha, b. —; d. —; m. Hezekiah Forgason. vii. Phebe, b. —; d. —; m. Isaac Meiers. +28
- - 30 viii. Catherine, b. —; d. —; m. —. 31 ix. Elizabeth, b. —; d. —. m. —.
 - And possibly other children by third marriage.

Gabriel' Leggett was the youngest child of Gabriel' and Eliza-. beth (Richardson) Leggett, and, as has already been stated, was probably born after his father's will was made, that is, 1697 or 98. The record of his death is found in a West Farms paper of April, 1786, which was given in a previous number (see page 76 of Jan., 1914, RECORD). The statement that he was 90 years of age at his death can be taken as approximate, as a year or so would not be likely to be regarded by the person who noted the fact of the long life, and other known facts would indicate 1698 as being nearer the correct date of birth than 1696, as this article would make it. If the other statement that there was 65 years difference in age between his eldest and youngest daughter be true, then it must have been that he married a third time between the writing of his will, June, 1781, and his death in 1786, and had at least one other daughter, for assuming Mary, who is named first of his daughters in his will, to have been born before his eldest son, Thomas—that is, in 1719-20, this would put the date of birth of the youngest daughter at 1784. No records have been found in proof of this statement, however, and perhaps even in those early days newspaper accounts were not noted for their accuracy.

There is a difference of opinion in the family as to the name of Gabriel's' first wife, but it is claimed that the name of Bridget is taken from an old family record, and it is probable that she was the mother of at least the first seven named children. The last two daughters, Catherine and Elizabeth, not being married in 1781, may have been children of the second wife, Mary Wiggins. A marriage record from Christ Church, Salem, Westchester Co., Aug. 7, 1782, of Gabriel Leggett and Sarah Brown may have been the third marriage of Gabriel'.

There are several unimportant references to Gabriel² Leggett in the Westchester Court records. He was an Alderman at different times from 1730 onward. In the records of the Mayor's court, Aug. 4, 1730, is the following: Miles Oakley, Mayor. William Leggett et al, Alderman. Jury not agreed; James Langley and Gabriel Leggett dissenting from the rest, gave their reasons to the court, and these being adjudged insufficient, they were fined forty shillings each (!) and a new trial ordered.

In Jones' History of New York During the Revolutionary War, the following incident is related: "John de Lancey of Westchester County, a Tory, boasted that in the fall of '76 he went to the home of Mr. Leggett and drove home twelve fat hogs, killed and appropriated them to his own use. Leggett was at least 80 years old. . . ." This undoubtedly refers to Gabriel' Leggett.

The will of Gabriel' Leggett, dated June 25, 1781, proved May 2, 1786, in which he styles himself "Gabriel Leggett late of West Chester, but now of West Patent of North Castle, Westchester Co.," names sons Thomas and James, daughters Mary Archer (wife of John Archer, of Winterhill), Martha Forgason, husband Hezekiah; Phebe Meiers, husband Isaac; Elizabeth and Catherine. The executors are sons Thomas and James and "son-in-law, James Archer" (this is a miswriting in the will for "John," as in the record of the administration, his name is given as John Archer, and Mary Leggett, daughter of Gabriel', married John Archer of Winterhill, son of John Archer of Fordham).

Of the other sons of Gabriel' Leggett, Gabriel' died in 1760, and as Isaac', who married Hannah Wiggins in 1761, is also not mentioned in the will it is probable that he too was dead previous to this date. As Gabriel's' son is not mentioned, it may be possible that Isaac' left issue also, but no record of any has been found.

He was married at West Farms about 1740 to Anna Hunte; d. --; daughter of Thomas Hunt.

There seems to be very little documentary information of John' Leggett. Nathaniel Underhill acted as his guardian after his father's death, and on April 6, 1721, John' signed a release of the personal estate of his father to his step-father, Robert Eddos, as follows: "I have reckoned and balanced accounts of my father-in-law, Robert Eddos, by and with ye advice and consent of my guardian, Nathaniel Underhill, for and touching ye personal (not real) estate of my father, John Leggett, late deceased, , upon which my mother Sicily Eddos administered, and then received a cane, a sword and a gun in full for my part, share, and portion of my said father, John Leggett's estate. Now I do hereby discharge my father-in-law, Robert Eddos," etc. Signed, John Leggett, Nathaniel Underhill.

If this release was on the occasion of his coming of age, then he was born April 6, 1700, and was 77 years of age at the time of his death in 1777, but no definite proof of this can be found.

John' Leggett's purchases of real estate and the amount of property disposed of by will indicate that he was a prosperous and wealthy man. He died during the turmoil and excitement of the Revolutionary War, but his home, probably the old Richardson homestead, lying within the British lines, with his effects, were under protection. Under date of July 3, 1725, he makes the following release to his uncles Gabriel' and William' Leggett. (These releases seem to be for lands already given to or bought. by his uncles from their mother and brother Thomas, and were probably lands in which his father John' had had a share by inheritance.)

"Release: by John Leggett for consideration of £60 to Gabriel Leggett, of all such right, estate, title, interest and demand whatsoever, as the said John Leggett had, or ought to have, of, in, or to, all or any part of ye land and meadows which ye said Gabriel, by his father Gabriel, deceased, and his said mother Elizabeth Leggett, which either of them, or by his brother c Thomas, deceased, by any ways or means whatsoever, either divided or undivided or situate and being in Westchester above said and also in any part and parcel of ye personal estate of ye said Elizabeth Leggett, deceased, which is in the siezen and possession of ye said Gabriel Leggett." Under same date he releases William Leggett for a consideration of £55, "all right, estate, interest whatsoever, as the said John Leggett had or ought to have in lands and meadows which ye sd William Leggett hath purchased of his mother, Elizabeth Leggett, deceased, or were given unto the said William by his father Gabriel Leggett, now in William Leggett's possession."

On the same day and year, July 3, 1725, John's Leggett deeds William Leggett, his uncle, "in consideration of $\pounds 5$, all my orchard and salt meadow adjoining between the land and meadow of Thomas Hunt, and the land and meadow of sd William Leggett."

April 4, 1770, the heirs of John Pugsley give release to John Leggett for property on Cow Neck, which he had bought at auction for £1325. This is described at length in Westchester Co.

Deed Book.

The will of John's Leggett (New York Surrogate's Office, Liber 31, page 67) reads as follows: "In the name of God, Amen. Witnesses: Stepheniah West, Thomas Hedges, Daniel White. Proved before Cary Ludlow, Surrogate of the Province of

New York, Aug. 28, 1777.

There is no mention of his wife in the will of John's Leggett, so that she was dead before 1777. The only record we find of her is in the will of her father, Thomas Hunt, 1756, where she is named as being the wife of John Leggett, and in Bolton. The exact order of birth of the children of John' Leggett and Anna (Hunt) Leggett is not known, but from the order in which they are named in the will, it would seem to be as given above.

Letters of administration of Joshua' Leggett's estate were granted to his brother, John Leggett, June 13, 1738, and he resigning, new letters were granted to the widow, Abigail Leggett, July 28, 1738.

He was married about 1735, to Elizabeth -No record of her maiden name nor of her parentage has been found. As she is not mentioned in his will, she was probably dead before 1763.

William Leggett was called William Leggett of Phillipsburgh, to distinguish him from his father, William' Leggett of Westchester. He owned considerable property at Phillipsburgh, but as he died at a comparatively early age, there are not many records regarding him.

In his will, dated March 17, 1763, proved June 25, 1763, he leaves his farm to sons Elijah and Ezekiel, and makes them executors; leaves a cupboard to daughter Sarah; other bequests to sons William, Isaac, John, when of age; adding "if my father please to leave me any money or effects, to be equally divided between all my children."

The following is a copy of a discharge from the children of William' Leggett, to their uncle Abraham Leggett, for the payment of the legacy of their grandfather, William' Leggett: "To all whom these Presents shall come we Elijah Leggett Ezekiel Legget John Legget Joshua Sherwood and Sarah his wife late Sarah Leggett being the children of William Legget deceased who was one of the sons and Devisees of William Legget of the West Farms in the Borough of Westchester deceased send greeting whereas the said William Legget our grandfather in and by his last Will and Testament did among other things charge his estate which he gave to his son Abraham Legget with the Payment of Three hundred Pounds to our father William Legget in full of his Portion in one year after our said Grandfathers death, and whereas altho our father the said William Legget died before our Grandfather the said William Legget the Testator, upon which Doubts arose, whether the said Legacy was not a lapsed Legacy notwithstanding which the said Abraham Legget

With recommendation from the reverend board of elders of the Presbyterian congregation: Charles Frasier, young man (i. e., unmarried) from Scotland, living here, and Sara Leggit, young maiden, from Westchester, living here.

I find no further records of Charles Frasier, and that he was dead before 1762 is shown by William' Leggett's will, written in that year. Sarah (Leggett) Frasier was a witness to her brother William' Leggett's will at Philipsburgh, 1763, and it is probable that the Fraziers also lived at Philipsburgh.

CORRECTIONS AND ADDITIONS TO PUBLISHED GENEALOGICAL WORKS.

Every gleaner in the field of genealogical research has met with errors in printed volumes which, left by themselves, carry mistaken conclusions to the end of time. This department has been inaugurated in an endeavor to correct such spurious data. Readers are requested to forward for publication here every such error, and such further additions to printed genealogies as are found, that due correction may be made. The authority for the statement must be furnished, with name and address of contributor.

10. CLARK—CORRECTION.

Mr. Savage has omitted from his Gen. Dictionary of New England: Edward¹ Clark of Haverhill, Mass., who m. Dorcas, dau. of Hanniel Bosworth, and had among other children, "Hanniel," who m. Zebediah⁴ Clark was transferred by letter, from Christ Church, Killingly, to the church at Dedham, Mass., May 13, 1739, and in 1776 was still a member. He m. (1) (Int. April 12, 1738) Mary

DE MEYER—CORRECTION.

In Vol. I, p. 203, Abstract of Wills (N. Y. Hist. Soc.), it is stated that Anna Catherine de Meyer, dau. of Nicholas de Meyer, quondam Mayor of New York, m. Jan Willemse Neering of New Castle, Delaware, and afterwards John Williams. The fact is these were the same individual, the error being made by the copyist. On p. 482, Penn. Mins. of Council, Vol. I., Jno. Williams Neering is elected Member of the Provincial Council. On succeeding pages he is put down as John Williams. His wife died before her husband (New Castle Co., Del., Wills).

Dunning—Addition to Item No. 6.

Eber Dunning, b. Salem, N. Y., 1787, son of Silas, b. 1755, and brother of Ira, b. 1795, according to the recollection of his grand-daughter, Mrs. Amaryllis C. Thompson, writing in May, 1913, from 1013 A St., Tacoma, Wash., had sons:

James, living somewhere in Missouri and had a large family of boys.

John, had no children.

Orson, lived in Fond du Lac, Wis., and had two sons and two daughters. One son (thought to be Eber) is a physician in Minneapolis.

Dennison, of whom Mrs. Thompson knows nothing. William, had son Eber, who had daughters Jessie (living in 1913) and Ann (Rogers).

Eber, b. 1787, had also two daughters, one b. 1811, d. 1895, the mother of Mrs. Thompson, b. 1850, and of nine other children. Mrs. Thompson's mother was the ninth.

SILAS WRIGHT DUNNING, 420 Riverside Drive, N. Y. City.

Whose line of descent is as follows:

Born Sodus, N. Y., 1838, son of Josiah D., b. Ticonderoga, 1803, son of Allen, b. Pownal, Vt., 1778, son of Josiah, b. Newtown, Conn., 1755, son of Michael, b. Newtown, Conn., 1730, son of Benjamin, probably b. Boston, 1679, son of Benjamin, b. Salem, Mass., 1647, son of Theophilus, whose name appears in Salem records 1642.

Howes-Bangs—Correction.

The Howes Genealogy, by Joshua Crowell Howes, page 11, states that Sarah Howes, b. Oct. 29, 1673 (daughter of Thomas and Sarah (Bangs) Howes), m. Feb. 12, 1708, Daniel Sears.

This statement seems to be incorrect in view of the preponderating evidence to the contrary as given in the following authorities, viz.:

Bangs Genealogy, pp. 17, 19, 21, 22, states that Sarah Bangs, b. about 1638 (daughter of Edward and Rebecca (Hicks) Bangs), m. at Eastham, Mass., in 1656, to Captain Thomas Howes of Yarmouth, and had a daughter Sarah Howes, b. Oct. 29, 1673, who m. May 19, 1692, to Stephen Hopkins (son of Stephen and Mary (Myrick) Hopkins), b. July 15, 1670; d. April 9, 1733; by whom she had eight children.

Sears Genealogy, by Samuel P. May, p. 60, states that Captain Daniel Sears, b. Yarmouth, —, 1682; d. Chatham, Mass., Aug. 10, 1756; m. Feb. 12, 1708-9, to Sarah Howes (daughter of Samuel Howes of Yarmouth, b. Yarmouth, Mass., —, 1685; d. Chatham, Mass., Nov. 9, 1748, aged 63 years; and by her he had seven children.

From the above quoted authorities it seems probable that the Howes Genealogy is incorrect in stating that Sarah Howes, who m. Daniel Sears on Feb. 12, 1708, was a daughter of Thomas and Sarah (Bangs) Howes of Yarmouth. The Sarah Howes who m. Captain Daniel Sears was probably Sarah, daughter of Samuel Howes of Yarmouth.

OBITUARY.

MRS. KATHERINE SEARLE McCARTNEY

CONTRIBUTED BY LAURA A. MADDEN

Mrs. Katherine Searle McCartney, who for a number of years was a member of this Society, died at her old home, Wilkes-Barre, Pennsylvania, on Saturday, April 18, 1914, in the house of her sister, Mrs. William M. Miller.

She had been ill for six months or more at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Bamford, in New York City, but recovered sufficiently in March last to go to Wilkes-Barre to attend the funeral ceremonies of an old friend, intending to return to New York and her busy life here as soon as her strength would permit her to take up her pen again, but her active work must now pass into other hands while she rests.

Mrs. McCartney was the widow of the late General William H. McCartney, for many years a prominent attorney of Luzerne County, Penn., who died in 1894, and besides her daughter, she is survived by a son, Mr. William H.

McCartney, of Wilkes-Barre.

She was the daughter of Leonard and Lydia (Dimock) Searle, and was born at Montrose, Penn., May 17, 1838. Her maternal grandfather was the Rev. Dr. Davis Dimock, who was one of the pioneer ministers of Susquehanna County, and for twenty-seven years associate judge of that county.

She was descended from a long line of Puritan ancestors, including such families as those of Governor Thomas Prence, Deputy-Governor John Alden, William Mullins, Richard Warren, Thomas Miner, Philip Sherman, John Lothrop, Nathaniel Bacon, John Gallup, Thomas Dimock and Francis Lathom. She was a member of the Society of Colonial Dames; the Colonial Governors; the Mayflower Society (which she helped to found); the Order of Americans of Armorial Descent; the Mary Washington Association; the George Washington Memorial; the New England; New York; Pennsylvania; and Wyoming Valley Historical Societies, and for many years was a member of the board of managers of the Old Ladies' Home of Wilkes-Barre, Penn.

Mrs. McCartney was deeply interested in patriotic work and was one of the first charter members and organizers of the National Society of the Daughters of the American Revolution. She founded the first chapter in the State of Pennsylvania, and was its regent continuously for twenty-three years, a record of which she was exceedingly proud. She attended all of the National Congresses of the society held in Washington since its inception, with the exception of two, and was one of the best-known members of this body of women, in the interest of which she worked unceasingly for the past quarter of a century.

She was greatly interested in the work of marking the historic spots in Luzerne County, Penn., which is carried on by the members of the patriotic societies, notably the restoration and preservation of Queen Esther's Rock at Her talents as a genealogist have made her well-known throughout the United States, and her ability as an organizer gained her a special decoration in recognition of her services in sending the first six nurses to the front during the Spanish-American War, through her connection as a member of the Daughters of the American Revolutionary Hospital Corps.

Being a woman who had always enjoyed splendid health, Mrs. McCartney was high-spirited, strong of will, and determined of purpose. She was cheerful in disposition, optimistic in thought, encouraging and helpful, and possessed the temperament that inspires to enthusiasm and incites to effort.

In her death her associates can claim they have lost a valued companion and a good friend.

The funeral ceremonies were held in St. Stephen's Episcopal Church, at Wilkes-Barre, Penn., and the interment was in Hollenback Cemetery.

BOOK REVIEWS.

By John R. Totten.

EDITORIAL NOTE:—The New York Genealogical and Biographical Society solicits as donations to its Library all newly published works on Genealogy, History and Biography, as well as all works on Town, County and State History, or works embodying information regarding the Vital Records of any and all localities. It also solicits the donation to the manuscript collections of its library any and all manuscript compilations which bear upon the above mentioned topics. In consideration of such donations the works so presented to the Society will be at once placed upon the shelves of its library and will be reviewed in the next subsequent issue of The New York Genealogical and Biographical Record, each donation of such character, whether in printed or manuscript form, will be reviewed under the head of "Book Notices" and a copy of The Record containing the region will be sent to the donor.

whether in printed or manuscript form, will be reviewed under the head of "Book Notices" and a copy of The Record containing the review will be sent to the donor.

The Society does not solicit donations of publications or manuscripts on topics foreign to the above mentioned subjects, as its library is specialized and cannot accommodate material which does not bear directly upon its recognized sphere of usefulness.

Donations for review in the January issue of The Record should be delivered to the Society before December 1st of the previous year; for the April issue, before March 1st; for the July issue before June 1st; and for the October issue, before September 1st.

All donations will be generously reviewed with a view of calling the attention of the public to their good points; but, while generous, the reviews will contain such proper criticism as the interest of the genealogical student would expect from the editorial staff of The Record.

Ball Family, being Recollections of the Ball Family of South Carolina and the Comingtee Plantation, by Anne Simons Deas. 8vo., cloth, pp. 189. Copyrighted 1909, by Alwyn Ball, Jr. No price stated. Address, Alwyn Ball, Jr., No. 395 Broadway, New York City.

This work is, properly speaking, the Annals of the Ball Family and not a genealogy. It is of a character to demand the highest commendation. The compiler and those responsible for its production in its existing form were evidently actuated by the highest spirit of natural family pride, and the result of their co-operation is a beautiful volume full of the most interesting family lore. The volume is printed in a most agreeable type, the paper is of the best linen and the illustrations, which are most numerous and excellent, add largely to its value and to its artistic ensemble. Recommended to all Genealogical Libraries.

THE DESCENDANTS OF JÖRAN KYN, OF NEW SWEDEN, by Gregory B. Keen, LL.D. Philadelphia: The Swedish Colonial Society, 1913. 8vo., pp. 318. The book is printed on Alexandra deckle edge paper and bound in imported English buckram of the royal Swedish shade of blue. Price, $5.00 net per copy, payable to the author at 1300 Locust street, Philadelphia, Pa.

The progenitor of this family accompanied Governor Printz to New Sweden and settled on the River Delaware in 1643. The work embraces records of Sandelands, Forman, Yeates and French, early Provincial Councillors of Pennsylvania, and all of their descendants, as well as descendants of at least a dozen other Councillors of that Province. It comprises the entire McCall and half of the Cadwalader, Swift and Willing families of Philadelphia, Bayards and Finneys of Delaware, Hermans of Bohemia Manor, Middletons of South Carolina, and numerous other families of equal local distinction, including many eminent statesmen, officers of the army and navy in the Wars of the Revolution and 1812 and subsequently, lawyers, physicians, scholars, poets, artists, architects, novelists and engineers.

The work is a first-class genealogical production, and embracing as it does information relative to so many of the important families of Pennsylvania and other States, it cannot fail to be heartily welcomed by the genealogical public. It is strongly recommended as a desirable purchase to all Genealogical Libraries.

THE AVERELL-AVERY FAMILY. The Record of the Descendants of William and Abigail Averell, of Ipswich, Mass., compiled by Clara A. Address compiler, in care of Mrs. Wheaton Augur, 46 Cedar street, Chicago, Ill.

This is a most voluminous compilation, giving much new and valuable information relative to the English Averells and Averills, and exhaustive records of the various American branches of the family. The work bears indisputable evidence of great care in compilation, and will be found a most valuable compendium of knowledge concerning these three family surnames and the individuals bearing them. We heartily recommend the work to all Genealogical Libraries as indispensible to their readers.

MATTHEWS' AMERICAN ARMOURY AND BLUE BOOK. Edited and published by John Matthews, 93 and 94 Chancery Lane, London, Eng. New edition, Part I (1911-12); Part II (1913). 8vo., paper, pp. 144, Part I, and to p. 240 inclusive, Part II. Part III, to be published in 1914, will complete the volume. Price per set, $10.00. Address editor and publisher.

This is a new and revised edition of the original work of Mr. Matthews which was received with so much enthusiasm by the American public, and it will, like the original edition, be regarded as an authority and general reference book on American family history. The original work is so well known and has been so well received in this country that it seems a work of supererogation to extol its merits, yet we cannot permit the opportunity to lapse without recording our hearty support of the undertaking and an expression of the hope that the field entered by Mr. Matthews will be continuously cultivated and that it may bear many future crops in the shape of still further new and enlarged editions.

LIBRARY OF CAPE COD HISTORY AND GENEALOGY. Published by the Yarmouth Register, Yarmouthport, Mass. Charles W. Swift, publisher.

These publications are of the same general character as the Barnstable Families (2 vols.), compiled by Amos Otis, originally published by the Barnstable Patriot and revised by C. F. Swift and issued in book form in 1888. Every genealogist of New England families is acquainted with and knows the value of Otis' Barnstable Families. The Yarmouth Register Cape Cod Families is a similar series of articles on Cape Cod Families which had their American origin in Yarmouth, Mass. They are invaluable for students of genealogy of the Cape Cod families, and furnish in print information available nowhere else except in the original records. It has been my privilege to consult them frequently, and they have aided me materially in tracing the history of Cape Cod families, and I most heartily recommend them as a valuable addition to all Genealogical Libraries and to compilers of genealogies of these families. Below will be found a full list of the articles already published. The series will be continued from time to time, as the amount of material is by no means exhausted, and encouragement should be given the enterprise by immediate subscription to the present series and successive issues.

Joshua Gray of Yarmouth, Mass., and His Descendants. Compiled by Julia Edgar Thacher (Mrs. George Winslow Thacher). 8vo., cloth, pp. 136, including an excellent index. Privately printed, 1914. Price $2.00. Address, Mrs. C. F. Wood, 73 Wendell street, Cambridge, Mass.

This is a first class compilation of the genealogical record of Joshua Gray (1743-1791), son of Andrew and Phebe (Chandler) Gray, and his descendants through his children:—Thomas, Hannah (Gray) Sears, Sarah (Gray) Thacher, Phebe (Gray) Smith-Gray, Joshua, Chandler, Mary (Gray) Matthews, and Elizabeth (Gray) Thacher. A full chapter is given to the records of Joshua Gray himself and to each of his children and their descendants. To this part of the work there is attached an appendix containing four chapters. The first chapter is on John Gray, Sr., of Yarmouth, the first of the name in that town; the second on John Gray, Jr., of Yarmouth, and his wife Hannah (Sturgis) Gray and his descendants, with notes clearing up the question as to what the maiden surname (Sturgis) of his wife was; the third on John Gray, of Harwich, Mass., and the fourth chapter on Andrew Gray, of Harwich and North Yarmouth, Me.

The work cannot be too highly commended, and it should find its place on the shelves of all Genealogical Libraries. It was my privilege to be associated with the compiler of the volume through some years of her research, which resulted in the present work, and I can vouch for the great care and accuracy taken in its preparation. The volume was produced under the editorial charge of Miss M. B. Fairbanks, of Farmington, Me., an expert genealogist of well known repute.

COCK—COCKS—COX GENEALOGY. By George W. Cocks of Glen Cove, N. Y., assisted by John Cox, Jr., of N. Y. City. Second edition, enlarged, 1914.

This work, the first edition of which appeared in 1912 as part of the "Cox Family in America," now has 415 pages, of which nearly 100 contain, set in small type and condensed form, "lineages" of the Long Island families of Bowne, Carpenter, Clarke, Coles, Delaplaine, Dickinson, Feake, Fones, Frost, Harcurt, Howland, Priar, Townsend, Underhill, Weeks, Winthrop, giving new and valuable facts as to each Immigrant, and his descendants for four or more generations. None of this has heretofore been published, except the few that appeared in the first edition. The facts stated about some of the Immigrants are at variance with established traditions, but are authenticated. As a matter of history, the "Narrative" of William Cock, now first printed, shows the troubles of a non-partisan merchant during the British occupation of Long Island. A brief but useful dissertation on the Society of Friends is included.

James Cock, here in 1657, was a Quaker, and his numerous descendants of the name have been largely of that faith. The new data and corrections are included. The family has spread from Long Island to nearly every State, to Canada, South America, and foreign countries.

The work is a worthy monument to the forty years' labor of the elder compiler, well-known as an authority on Long Island families, now in his eighty-fifth year, and to the younger, who is custodian of the Quaker records, from which so much material has been drawn.

This edition consists of 105 copies, each signed by the compilers. Price $10.00 for the last 25 copies. The remainder are being sold for $5.00 net, postpaid, by John Cox, Jr., 30 East 42d St., New York.

THEODORE FRELINGHUYSEN JACKSON.

CONTRIBUTED BY JUSTICE JOSEPH A. BURR, Appellate Division Supreme Court, Brooklyn, N. Y.

Theodore Frelinghuysen Jackson was born at Rockaway, New Jersey, Nov. 16, 1830, and died at his residence, No. 10 West 43rd Street, in the City of New York, on June 18, 1913. He studied law in the office of Horatio G. Onderdonk, at Manhasset, Long Island. He was admitted to the Bar of the State of New York in May, 1852, and shortly thereafter entered into partnership with Paul J. Fish, a prominent lawyer in the City of Williamsburgh. This partnership continued until the spring of 1860, when it was dissolved by mutual consent. He continued in practice on his own account until July, 1874, when he formed a new partnership with Joseph A. Burr, now a Justice of the Appellate Division of the Supreme Court, in the Second Judicial Department, in this State, who had been a student in his office. This partnership continued (his nephew Ernest H. Jackson, and Samuel H. Coombs, having been subsequently admitted to said firm), until 1893, when Mr. Jackson retired from active practice. While engaging in general practice, he gave special attention to the law of real estate, and particularly to the subject of trusts and wills, and because of his preeminence in this branch of the law, when the Lawyers' Title Insurance and Trust Company was formed, he was selected as one of the Committee of Counsel, to which Committee difficult and perplexing questions arising in connection with the insurance of titles were submitted for advice, before action was taken thereon. In 1881 he was appointed by the Hon. Seth Low, then Mayor of the City of Brooklyn, to the office of Registrar of Arrears, and upon Mayor Low's re-election, was again appointed to the same office, which he held for four years. During the incumbancy of this office, in connection with the Hon. William M. Evarts, he prepared a bill for the settlement and collection of outstanding arrears of taxes and assessments in the City of Brooklyn, which had at that time accumulated to a very large amount, which bill passed the Legislature and was approved by the Governor. Through the operation of this act, a very large sum of money, exceeding several millions of dollars, was collected into the City Treasury, and a great amount of property which, for many years, had been producing no revenue to the City, was converted into taxpaying and available property. In 1889 he was appointed to fill a vacancy then existing in the office of Comptroller of the City of Brooklyn, and in the succeeding year was elected to the same office for a full term. After retiring from the active practice of law, the remaining years of his life were those of comparative leisure. He built for himself a beautiful country house at Westhampton Beach, where he spent his summers, maintaining, however, a residence in the City of New York. He was exceedingly fond of travel, and visited all of the places of interest in this country, both in the South and West and upon the Pacific Coast. He crossed the Atlantic many times, and during the later years of his life spent a considerable portion of each winter in the South of Europe. Mr. Jackson was a director in the First National Bank of the City of Brooklyn, in the Williamsburgh Trust Company, in the Long Island Loan and Trust Company, in in the New York and East River Ferry Company and in the Vandervoort Realty Company, of which latter company he was President at the time of his death. He was a member of the Brooklyn, Hamilton and Hanover Clubs in the Borough of Brooklyn, of the Racquet and Tennis Club, of the Association of the Bar of the City of New York, and of the New York Law Institute. He was a member of the Empire State Society of Sons of the American Revolution, of The National Geographical Society, and of The New York Genealogical and Biographical Society, in whose affairs he took a deep interest.

Mr. Jackson was the seventh son and eleventh child of William and Susan Day (Halsey) Jackson, and was a descendant in the seventh generation of Robert Jackson, who settled at Hempstead, Long Island, about 1643. Robert Jackson was a magistrate in that town and was a member of the convention assembled in 1665, which framed a body of laws and ordinances for the government of the Colony under the Duke of York, and which came to be known as the "Duke's Laws." The original copy of these laws furnished to the Town of Hempstead, is now in existence, and is filed among the records of the Town. His son, John Jackson, was High Sheriff of the County, a Judge of the Common Pleas, Colonel of the militia and a member of the Provincial Assembly. He was named as one of the Patentees in the Patent granted to the Town of Hempstead in 1685 by Governor Thomas Dongan. In 1732, James Jackson, a grandson of Col. John Jackson, removed to Rockaway, New Jersey, where the subject of this sketch was born. Stephen Jackson, the grandfather of Theodore F. Jackson, was a Captain of cavalry in the Revolutionary army, and was a member of General Washington's bodyguard during the winter of 1780 and 1781, which he spent with his army near Morristown, New Jersey.

On Sept. 11, 1861 (which was the fiftieth anniversary of the wedding of his father and mother, both of whom were present at his wedding), Mr. Jackson married Cornelia Burr, daughter of Jonathan S. Burr of Brooklyn, N. Y., who was a son of General Gershom Burr of Fairfield, Conn. Gen. Burr was a descendant of Jehu Burr, who came with Winthrop's Company to America in 1630, and subsequently settled in Fairfield. General Burr's father died while he was an infant, and he was brought up by his uncle, the Hon. Thaddeus Burr, who was a noted patriot and whose house was destroyed when Fairfield was burned by the British in 1779. Thaddeus Burr was an intimate friend of John Hancock, who was married to Dorothy Quincy at his house.

Mr. Jackson had two children, one of whom died in infancy; the other, Frederick Burr Jackson, was born Sept. 15, 1863, and died Feb. 27, 1873. Mr. Jackson was buried in the Greenwood

THE VANDERHEYDEN FAMILY.

CONTRIBUTED BY RICHARD SCHERMERHORN, JR.

The Vanderheyden family was well known in the early days of the Colony of New York, and was prominent even up to the beginning of the 19th century and for some time later.

The family is also well known in Holland and much could be learned of interest in connection with their history and genealogy if some one were to undertake the research. The author has made no Holland researches, however, and in this article the American records alone are given.

The early American Vanderheydens settled first in New Amsterdam. There were probably two branches of the family who emigrated to America, of which Jan Cornelisse and Matthys were the heads. They may have been brothers, although there is nothing to show this. Jan Cornelisse made his will Sept. 7, 1663, in Albany, in which no children were mentioned, although a Claes Jansen Vanderheyden is mentioned in a New Amsterdam record dated Sept. 6, 1655, who may have been a son of the above Jan. In his will, Jan Cornelisse Vanderheyden is mentioned as a merchant and he came from Sevenborgen, Brabant, Holland, and married Aeltie Jans Wemp, who was born about 1648, and was a daughter of Jan Barentse Wemp and Marritje Meynderts. Another document dated Sept. 3, 1663, records that the father of Jan was Cornelis Jacobsen Vanderheyden, dwelling in Sevenborgen, Brabant, and that his mother was Sarah Janssen Van Duran (Durk), deceased. A brother of Jan Cornelisse, by name, Jacob Cornelissen, is also mentioned in the former's will, but at this time was referred to as deceased. Jan Cornelisse is mentioned as late as 1665 in the Colony records and then report of his activities ceased and there is no indication that he left any issue.

From what is above related and data to follow, it is quite apparant that Matthys was the progenitor of the American branch of the Vanderheyden family. Nothing is recorded of him other than mention of his estate which notice appears in New Amsterdam court records of Sept., 1659, when he is referred to as deceased. The name of Jacob Tyssen Vanderheyden (son of Matthys) first appears in 1653 when he was a member of the Burgher Militia Corps of New Amsterdam. In that year he purchased and resold a lot on Broadway, New Amsterdam. Sometime between 1653 and 1655 he returned to Holland, as he married Anna Hals in Amsterdam, July 25, 1655, (according to Colonial records) returning later to America. In July, 1658, he is mentioned as a tailor, and in June of this year, he received a permit to employ Indians as brokers for the purchase of furs. In January, 1660, he appears in Albany as the owner of a lot, and thenceforth seems to have speculated considerably in Albany real estate, later purchases being on record in August. 1660, October, 1665, July, 1668, and June, 1676. This is practically all that is recorded of Jacob Tyssen Vanderheyden. He died between 1680 and 1690 and his wife died about 1691.

Among Colonial Records it is noticed that a William Vanderheyden was in 1660 a member (representing Zealand) of the Assembly of the General Incorporated West India Company, at Amsterdam, Holland. There was also a Jan Vanderheyden, born in Gerkum, Netherlands, about 1637, and died in Amsterdam, in 1712, who was a very well known architectural painter. A Vanderheyden coat-of-arms has been encountered, which at some early period was established in the English armories. It is blazoned as follows:

Sable, three mullets, pierced argent; on a canton or, a rose of the field.

It is said that these symbols stand for very high rank according to heraldric interpretation.

Anna, b. about 1675; m. Feb. 17, 1695, in New York, Paulus Miller.

2. Matthys, son of (1) Jacob Tyssen Vanderheyden and Anna Hals; b. 1656; m. Anna Margaretha Hermans; b. 1658; dau. of Col. Augustine Hermans. Children:

Jane, b. —; m. —— Couts, of Scotland.

Anna Francina, b. —; m. (1) Edward Shippen of Philadelphia, Pa.; m. (2) Col. Hynson, of Chestertown, Md.

Augustina, b. 1685; d. 1775; m. James Harris.

Ariana, b. 1690; d. April, 1741; m. (1) Feb. 9, 1713, James Frisby; m. (2) 1723, Thomas Bordley, of Bordley Hall, Yorkshire, England; m. (3) Nov., 1728, Hon. Edmund Jennings, of Annapolis, Md.

Matthys Vanderheyden apparently did not remove from New Amsterdam to Albany, with his father, but remained in the former place. In 1673, his name appears as cadet on the muster roll of Capt. Cornelius Steenwyck's Company of New Orange militia, of New Amsterdam. On Sept. 2, 1675, his name appears as a member of the Dutch Reformed Church of New Amsterdam, and on Nov. 4, 1678, he took the oath of allegiance to the King of England. His name is not found again until 1703, when he is listed as head of a family consisting of one female and two children. Shortly after 1703, he must have removed to Maryland, where his father-in-law had settled a colony at Bohemia Manor. He was a member of the Maryland Legislature in 1709, 1713, 1715 and 1716, and was undoubtedly a man of affairs in this locality. His daughters, Augustina and Ariana married into Maryland families which later produced some of this country's most distinguished statesmen. Through one of these marriages was born, Aug. 10, 1753, Edmund Randolph(great-grandson of Matthys Vanderheyden), who was aide to George Washington in 1775; Attorney General of Virginia in 1776; Delegate to Congress, 1779-82; Governor of Virginia, 1786-88; Attorney-General of the United States, 1789-90, and Secretary of State in Washington's Cabinet, 1794-5. The father of Edmund Randolph (John Randolph, who married Ariana Jennings, daughter of Ariana Vanderheyden) was the son of Sir John Randolph and was attorney General of Virginia.

Matthys Vanderheyden lived for the rest of his days in Maryland, and was a very old man at the time of his death. He is said to have had several sons who died without issue. It is also stated that he was related to the Schuylers, but where this connection

Col. Augustine Hermans, father-in-law of Matthys Vander-heyden, was a native of Prague, Bohemia, and after having been educated in Holland, came to America at an early date, lived some time in New Amsterdam, where he married his first wife, Maria Varleth, and finally settled a colony at Bohemia Manor, Md. He later married a Miss Ward, of Cecil County, and became a useful and distinguished citizen, serving many times in the Maryland Legislature.

The name of Dirk Vanderheyden first appears on the Colonial records in 1687, when on Sept. 7, he and Nanning Harmentse (Visscher) and Frederick Harmentse (Visscher) gave testimony before Mayor Nicholas Bayard in New York City concerning their trading expedition to the Indian country during the preceding year. They had proceeded with a party under Captain Roseboom to the land of the Ottawa Indians, and when at Ottawatamis Lake, they had been set upon by a body of French and Indians, numbering 120 (their own numbers being 29), and compelled to yield. Their goods were confiscated and they were barbarously treated, being finally sent to Quebec, where they were "put out" to farmers to work for their keep. Four of the number finally escaped, including the above three, who made the return trip to Albany by water in five days.

In 1697, the family of Dirk Vanderheyden is listed as composing 1 man-1 woman-4 children. He was appointed firemaster of the 1st Ward of Albany, Nov. 21, 1698. On Jan. 4, 1699, he signed the oath of Allegiance to King William, in Albany. He was appointed assessor of the 1st Ward, Albany, Oct. 4, 1700, and on Oct. 4, 1703, was appointed constable of the 1st Ward, Albany. He was appointed assistant alderman of the 1st Ward, Albany, Oct. 4, 1705, and reappointed in 1706 and 1707. On June 18, 1706, at a meeting of the city officials, the following was recorded: "The City Hall being now repairing at this time inconvenient to call up, the Court is therefore resolved to adjourn at Dirk Vanderheyden's house, which is adjourned accordingly." On June 2, 1707, he purchased of Peter Van Woggelum two tracts of land in Rensselaerswyck, on the site of the present city of Troy, one tract bounded on the South by the Poestenkill and North by the Meadowcreek; the other adjacent and running thence northward to the Piscawen. From him was demanded, according to Patroon exactions, an annual rent of 3¾ bushels of wheat and two fat hens or capons. This estate was released without restriction by the Patroon to Dirk Vanderheyden, Dec. 15, 1720 (An early map of this property, dated 1720, indicates the dwelling house of Dirck Vanderheyden.), and in Nov. 1731, was deeded to his three sons, Jacob, David and Matthys, each receiving an equal share. In 1732, David conveyed his interest to Jacob, and in 1739, Jacob and Matthys divided the farm, Jacob retaining the northern and middle sections and Matthys, the southern. On Jacob's death, in 1746, his son Dirk came into possession of Jacob's share, and later in the same year, Dirk conveyed to his brother Jacob, "two full and equal just fourths" of the certain two tracts of land. In 1774, Jacob I., the son of the above Jacob, became owner of the portion on the south side of the Piscawen Kill, and on Dirk's death in 1775, his eldest son, Jacob D., inherited the middle farm.

In 1786, Jacob I. and Jacob D. were in possession of the parts above noted, and Matthys, grandson of the Matthys mentioned above, owned the southern portion. This is, in brief, a description of the early ownership of the property upon which was later to spring up the prosperous city of Troy, N. Y.

Little more is known of Dirk Vanderheyden, original owner of this valuable estate. He evidently speculated in real estate elsewhere as on July 10, 1708, it is recorded that he received one of the eight plantations at Schachticoke, purchased from the Indians. On Aug. 27, 1714, he was the highest bidder for land "in ye south side of Schaahkook's Creek" and "60 morgen of woodland adjoining." His name appears on the roll of a company of Albany Militia, in 1715.

On April 24, 1696/7, Johannes Vanderheyden was registered as a freeman of New York City. On Sept. 29, 1702, he was appointed constable of the North Ward of New York City, and on Oct. 14, 1702, at a meeting of the Board of Aldermen, he was reported as deceased. Soon after this his brother Matthys removed to Maryland and his brother Dirk was living in Albany. It was to the latter place that the family of Johannes evidently removed, after his death.

In 1714, Jacob Vanderheyden was Ensign of a Company of Militia at Niskayuna. In 1731, he received a one-third portion of his father's estate of 490 acres, on the site of what is now the city of Troy. In 1732, his brother David conveyed his third portion to him, and he thus obtained two-thirds of the entire estate, title being verified in 1739, when Jacob secured by partition, the northern and middle sections, and his brother Matthys, the southern.

12 Jacob, April 8, 1737; m. Jennet Livingston.

Rachel, July 16, 1740; m. Dr. Samuel Stringer (M. L. Nov. 8, 1758).

The name of David Vanderheyden first appears on the Colonial records as private in Capt. Henry Van Rensselaer's Company of Albany Militia, in 1715. On Sept. 11, 1721, it is recorded that he made a trip into the "Sinneke's" country with Capt. Peter Schuyler, in a company of young men, to remain twelve months and arrange trading terms with the "far Indians that come from the upper Lakes." He was appointed alderman of the 2d Ward, Albany, Sept. 29, 1744, and to the common council, Oct. 14, 1745. He was an officer in the militia as early as 1755, when he is referred to as Major David Vanderheyden. On Jan. 5, 1758, he was Asst. Court Justice of Albany County, and May 4, 1762, and April 18, 1770, was Justice of the Quorum, Albany County. He was justice of the Peace, Albany County, in 1758, 1760, 1770. On Nov. 29, 1762, he was commissioned by Gov. Banyar, Lieut Col. of the 1st Battalion, Albany Co. Militia, Sir William Johnson, Col., and on Feb. 12, 1768, he was commissioned Colonel of a Regiment of Militia "to be formed out of a part of the 1st Battalion of Albany Militia and to include the district and city of Albany."

David Vanderheyden was a wealthy merchant of Albany and a prominent man of the period. He was evidently a close associate of Sir William Johnson in the many troublesome frontier affairs of the time as his name is often mentioned in the latter's letters of 1755-66. His sons, Dirk and David, were evidently engaged in the business of "privateering." David's name appears as part owner of several privateers in New York City in 1756 and 1757, among which was the ship "Defiance" of twenty guns, which was owned jointly by David Vanderheyden, Jr. and James De Peyster, of New York, and the privateers "Cicero" and "Pliny." In 1754, Dirk Vanderheyden was owner of the brigantine "Bonetta." In the New York County Clerk's Office is found the following: "Dirk Vanderheyden, late of the City of New York, but now of the City of London, merchant . . brother David Vanderheyden, the younger, of New York, merchant, my true and lawful attorney. June 8, 1754." The following children of David Vanderheyden are buried in Trinity churchyard, New York City; Abigail, b. Aug. 7, 1757, d. Nov. 19, 1757, and David, b. Oct. 16, 1758, d. July 22, 1759.

On Sept. 5, 1766, David Vanderheyden, Sr., leased in perpetuity of the City of Albany, a lot of ground for a family burial place, on the west side of Swan St., north of Washington St. On this lot he built a vault, called the "Stringer Vault," so named, probably, in some way relative to his daughter, Rachel Stringer. He made his will Feb. 7, 1770, which was proved Aug. 3, 1770. All of his children, as given, were mentioned, except Nanning. Two children of David Vanderheyden were buried at the Albany Dutch Church Dec. 25, 1731, and Dec. 5, 1750, respectively.

Samuel Stringer, M.D., husband of Rachel Vanderheyden, was an eminent physician of the Colonial period. He was Chairman of the Committee of Public Safety during the Revolution and Surgeon-General of the forces under Schuyler. He was possessed of a fine education and was distinguished professionally to an unusual degree. He died in 1818.

7. Matthys, son of (3) Dirk Vanderheyden and Rachel J. Keteluyn; bp. Jan. 10, 1697, in Albany; d. 1772; m. Dec. 17, 1730, in Albany, Margaret Bratt. Children:

The name of Matthys Vanderheyden first appears on record as a private in Capt. Henry Van Rensselaer's Company of Albany Militia in 1715. On Nov. 16, 1721, he was appointed fire-master of the 2nd Ward, Albany and in 1731 was fire master of the 1st Ward. In this same year he received a one third portion of his father's estate in the section later known as Troy, N. Y., and the whole estate being partitioned in 1739, he secured the southern portion of the 490 acres, which was bounded on the north by what is now Division St. and on the south by the Poestenkill Creek. In 1752 he built a residence near the south-eastern corner of River and Division Sts., Troy, about 100 feet south of the north bounds of his estate. This residence was later occupied by his son Dirk and his grandson Matthys, and remained standing until a late day.

Jochem Vanderheyden resided in Albany, N. Y. until about 1739, then moving to Schenactady. He was the owner of real estate in Schachticoke, probably inherited from his father, which on Jan. 31, 1727, he offered for sale to the Common Council of Albany. He died in 1746 and in Oct. 24, of that year, his brother David was granted letters of administration in connection with his estate.

On March 1, 1756, a John Vanderheyden was reported killed in a battle against the French and Indians, near Fort Madison. This was undoubtedly a son of Jochem. This John Vanderheyden had a son Adam, bp. Nov. 9, 1755, in Albany, no other children being on record.

After the death of Johannes Vanderheyden, Sr., in 1702, his family evidently removed to Albany, where they could be to some extent under the protection of his brother, Dirk. Johannes Vanderheyden, Jr., is first mentioned in Albany Annals, as being among a party of five who made a journey to the "Sinnekes" (Indians) Country, presumably to arrange for terms of trade.

This occurred in 1723, a certificate to the effect that provisions had been furnished them, bearing the date of April 18, 1723. On Nov. 15, 1725, Johannes Vanderheyden was appointed fire-master of the First Ward of Albany and in 1727 and 1728 served as Constable of the First Ward. In 1728 he was Asst. Alderman of the First Ward and in 1737 was elected Alderman. In 1747, a Johannes Vanderheyden, Jr., served as constable of the First Ward.

In a number of papers Johannes Vanderheyden is termed as "advocaat" (lawyer) and the suffix "Esq." is also found after his name. His will was proved Aug. 5, 1771, the following being an abstract:

Johanes Vanderheyden, Esq., of Albany . . . leave to son John my large Dutch Bible, in right of Primogeniture; also the house and lot in which my son-in-law, Ogden, now dwells; . . . leave to daughter Jane all my library, and a "large Book Plate and the Block"; . . . leave to my daughters Mary and Jane, all the residue of my furniture, and my Pew in the Presbyterian Meeting House; . . . leave to my daughters Mary, Rachel and Jane, the house and lot wherein I now dwell. All the rest of my personal property to be sold . . . Mortgage given to Harme Gansevoort to be paid. I make my daughter Jane and Harme Gansevoort, Volkert Douw and Gerrit Van Sant, Executors.

The father of Mary Butler, second wife of Johannes Vanderheyden, was Lieut. Walter Butler "of the Independent Companies." It is not known what relation the latter was to the Walter Butler notorious in Revolutionary times for his part in the Indian atrocities of the New York border.

Derick Vanderheyden, by right of primogeniture, his father, Jacob, leaving no will, inherited his entire estate, the property comprising a two-thirds portion of the 490 acres, now occupied by the city of Troy. In the same year of his father's death, however (1746), he deeded to his brother Jacob "two full and equal just fourths" of this property, thus acting according, in all probability, to his father's actual wishes.

As described in a foregoing paragraph, in 1746 Jacob I. Vanderheyden came into possession of a one-third portion of the property on which Troy was subsequently located. The old Vanderheyden mansion on River St., just north of Hoosic, in Troy was built by him in 1756.

History does not give much account of the early activities of Jacob I. Vanderheyden. On Aug. 18, 1748, he was commissioned 1st Lieut, in Col. Sir William Johnson's Regiment of Albany Militia, and he held this commission as late as Sept. 6, 1762. The following is a copy of a later commission of Jacob I. Vanderheyden: "July 30, 1772. Jacob Vanderheyden, Gentleman, of the County of Albany, appointed by his Excellency, Wm. Tryon, Esq., Captain, General and Governor in Chief in and over the Province of New York and the territories adjoining thereto, in America, Chancellor and Vice-Admiral of the same:-First Lieutenant of Capt. Henry H. Gardinier's Company of Foot in the 2nd Battalion in the Regiment of Militia in the Manor of Rensselaerswyck. Given under my hand and seal at arms at Fort George in the city of New York, the 30th day of July in the 12th year of the reign of our Sovereign Lord, George the 3rd,—A. D. 1772." In 1775 Jacob Vanderheyden was 2nd Lieut. in a company of the 6th Regiment, 4th Battalion of Colonial Troops, with the same officers as those of the above 2nd Battalion, and was later 1st Lieut. His son, Nanning, served as Lieutenant in the 3rd New York Line Regiment in 1776, and in 1787 was a Captain of Militia. Nanning Vanderheyden was a resident of Half Moon, Albany

Co., N. Y., in 1790, his family (according to census), consisting of his wife, daughter and two slaves. On Sept. 1, 1779, he presented a claim for bounty lands for his services in the Revolution.

Jacob Vanderheyden was a wealthy merchant of Albany, N. He lived at No. 85 Pearl St., Albany, at what was known as the "Vanderheyden Palace." This was located on the west side of Pearl St., about fifty feet south of Maiden Lane, The building was erected by Johannes Beekman in 1725 and purchased by Jacob Vanderheyden in 1778. The family left it in 1823 and it was demolished in 1832 and the Pearl St. Baptist Church erected on its site, which in 1870 was converted into stores. The Vanderheyden Palace was said to be one of the best specimens of Dutch architecture in the country. It was built of brick brought from Holland and its general dimensions were 50 by 20 feet, with a Hall and two rooms on each floor. The massive beams and braces projected out into the rooms. Washington Irving describes this building in the story of Dolph Heyliger in "Bracebridge Hall," where it is named as the property of Herr Antony Vanderheyden. Irving took the weather-vane to his own home at "Sunnyside" and placed it above the turret of the doorway, where it may remain yet for all that is known to the contrary. The vane represents a horse going at full speed.

Jacob Vanderheyden was a Director of the bank of Albany for many years and served in several public offices, including that of Assessor in 1783. The census of 1790 lists his family as follows: residence, Albany, 3rd Ward; 1 male over 16 (father), 2 males under 16, 4 females (inc. mother), 3 slaves. David and Derrick L., sons of Jacob, were also active in Albany affairs. David served in the War of 1812 as 2nd Lieut, of the 6th N. Y. Regiment, and was later promoted to Captain. Derrick L. was an attorney In 1820 he was elected Clerk of the House of in Albany. Assembly. On July 4th, 1820, he delivered the Fourth of July oration at Geneva, N. Y. In later years the daughter, Jennet, lived at Stillwater, Saratoga Co., where it is understood the Livingston family owned property. THACHER-THATCHER GENEALOGY.

By John R. Totten,

Member of the New York Genealogical and Biographical Society and New England Historic-Genealogical Society.

The will of Josiah Thacher, dated March 2nd, 1841, and the codicil thereto, dated November 1st, 1847, are both on file in the Surrogate's Office of Delaware Co., N. Y., at Delhi, N. Y. In the will he mentions his wife (name not specified), daughter, Sally Thacher; son, George Thacher; son-in-law, John M. Betts, and daughters, Esther Seymour, Harriet Beach, Ann R. Betts, Amelia Hurd, Frances Betts and grand-daughter, Eliza Redfield. His wife being mentioned in will, it is to be inferred that she was living at its date, March 2nd, 1841. In the codicil to his will he mentions his daughters, Sally Thacher, Amelia Hurd; son, George Thacher; grand-daughter, Eliza Redfield; daughters, Esther Seymour, Harriet Beach, Amelia Hurd, Ann R. Betts, Frances Betts. Executors of will, his son, George Thacher; son-in-law, John M. Betts; witnesses to will, James Hughston and William J. Hughston. Witnesses to codicil, Robert S. Hughston and Wm. J. Hughston, all of Sidney, N. Y. From the fact that his wife is not mentioned in the codicil, it is to be inferred that she had died before its date, November 1st, 1847, and as his eldest daughter, Polly Street⁶ (Thacher) Smith, is not mentioned either in will or codicil, it is fair to presume that she was dead, without issue, before March 2nd, 1841, unless the grand-daughter, Eliza Redfield, mentioned in will and codicil was her daughter.

Lucy Douglas was a daughter of Deacon William Douglas (born New London, January 1st, 1708; died New London, November 12th, 1787; married March 4th, 1730-1), and Sarah Denison (born ——; died March 12th, 1797, aged 87), of New London, Conn.

 - 1474 vi. Charles, born July 11th, 1806; died June 11th, 1810.

Mrs. E. S. Upham, grandniece of Daniel Greenleaf' Thacher, states that he died in New London in 1837, aged 70. Rev. William' Thacher (brother of No. 843), states in his diary that his brother (No. 843) "was born nearly two years before him," and as Rev. William' Thacher was born April 3rd, 1769, it would make the date of birth of Daniel Greenleaf' Thacher subsequent to April 3rd, 1767.

In the Cedar Grove Cemetery, New London, Conn., there are stones to the memory of Daniel Greenleaf⁷ Thacher and his wife thus inscribed, viz:

"Daniel G. Thacher, died May 16th, 1837, aged 70 years."

"Eunice, Relict of Daniel G. Thacher, died September 17th, 1843, aged 76 years, 7 months."

A Daniel Thatcher served as a corporal in the Connecticut troops in the War of 1812, place of service not given. This may have been No. 843, or his son, No. 1470.

There is no will of Daniel Greenleaf⁷ Thacher on file in New London, Conn., but the inventory of his estate is there on file, not dated, amounting to $239.23.

Rev. William⁷ (Greenleaf?) Thacher was a man of much prominence in the Methodist Church; he left a manuscript autobiography in two volumes, which was loaned to me by his granddaughter, Mrs. Upham. On the front cover of this work he mentions his daughters, Eliza Richman, Mary Ann Gilbert and Amanda Reynolds, and his son, Charles Augustus; and states that on August 23rd, 1851, that he was in his 83rd year. The following extracts, taken from his own writings, give in my own words, a brief outline of his life and usefulness: In 1779 or '80 the Thacher homestead in Norwalk was burned to the ground by Governor Tryon in his general burning of the town in his endeavor to put down the revolutionary spirit of the place. At the age of 14 (about 1783) William⁷ Thacher was apprenticed to "Mr. S. B.," a tailor, then residing in Newtown, Conn., and who two years thereafter moved to New Haven, taking William Thacher with him. At 19 years of age he obtained temporary leave of absence from his apprenticeship by purchase, and in 1788 went to New York City, where, in the John Street Church, he first heard of the Methodist faith. In 1789 he went to Baltimore and was converted to Methodism and admitted to that church ir. Baltimore on probation by Rev. Henry Willis, June 21st, 1790. He returned to Connecticut in 1790, and on March 3rd, 1790, he, together with his cousin, Partridge⁷ Thacher of Poundridge, N. Y., were parties to a lease of land in Stratford, Conn., being described as William G. (---?) Thacher, which leads me to suppose that he had a middle name, probably Greenleaf; and on October of that year went to reside in Kipton, in Fairfield Co., Conn. In 1791, in April, there was a petition against him in Kipton for being a dangerous person as a Methodist. In June, 1791, he left Kipton for New York City, stopping at Stratford, Conn., where he obtained a letter from Jesse Lee recommending him to New York Methodists. He became a boarder in Pearl Street, New York City, three doors east of Peck Slip, and there was taken with the yellow fever, from which he recovered. In October of 1791 he went, on the invitation of his cousin, John Banks (then a resident of Petersburgh, Virginia), to Virginia, and there remained two years and then returned to New Haven, Conn., and set up at his trade. John Banks was a "taylor" in Petersburgh and William' Thacher acted as his foreman. He made a trip to New Haven in August, 1792, and while there, on November 3rd, 1792, was married to his first wife, Anna Munson, and returned in December of that year to Petersburgh, Va., finally leaving there on account of his health, July 2nd, 1793. The John Banks with whom he was associated in Virginia was probably the son of John Banks who married Hannah Thacher (see record No. 271). William Thacher was not accompanied by his wife while in Virginia. On his return to New Haven he opened up a shop. He was licensed to preach in October, 1795. September 28th, 1797, he became a travelling preacher at $120.00 a year. He was admitted to the New York conference in New York City, June 19th, 1799, and was appointed to Pomfret, Conn., circuit; he was pastor of West Thompson, Conn., Methodist Church in 1799. In 1800 he was in Armenia, N. Y., and Litchfield, Conn. In 1802 he was attached to the New Rochelle and Croton circuits; in 1803 he was in Yonkers, N. Y.; and in 1804 in New York City. His family had removed to New Haven, Conn., where they made their home with his father-in-law, Israel Munson. In 1804-1807 he was Presiding Elder of the Methodist Church of the district of Bridgeport, Conn.; in 1810 he was in Brooklyn, N. Y., and in 1818-1819 in Schenectady, N. Y.; 1820-1822, in New Haven, Conn.; 1822, at Philadelphia, Pa., at the conference, and there stationed; 1824. at Newark, New Jersey; 1826, Trenton, N. J.; and in 1828 Presiding Elder at Philadelphia, Pa.; 1831, at Poughkeepsie, N. Y.; 1833, at New Haven, Conn.; 1834, Newburgh, N. Y.; 1837, Flushing, N. Y.; 1839, Williamsburgh and Newtown, L. I., N. Y.; 1840, at Norwalk, Conn.; 1841, at Woodbury, Conn. In 1842 he purchased a home in Poughkeepsie, N. Y., and in 1843 he was attached to the Dutchess Co., N. Y., Circuit, with home at Poughkeepsie; in 1846 he was retired from active ministerial work. I have given this sketch of his life to call attention to wanderings of the early Methodist preachers.

Liber I, p. 543, Dutchess Co., N. Y., Probate Records at Poughkeepsie, N. Y., records the will of Rev. William (Greenleaf) Thacher; and in it he mentions: his son, Dr. Charles A. Thacher, leaving him one-half of his library, wearing apparel and estate; his daughter, Phebe Amanda, wife of William Winans Reynolds, the other half; he also mentions Mary L-, daughter of Phebe Amanda Reynolds. To the Rev. Benjamin Griffin of the New York Conference he leaves money to publish his (the testator's) memorial, and whatever is left of the money to the Methodist Book Concern. Rev. Abel Stevens to edit the testator's poems. He also left a bequest to his eldest daughter, Eliza Richman of New Haven. Whenever his children are mentioned together Phebe is mentioned first, Eliza second, and Charles A. third in order. In the administration papers of the estate are mentioned Mary Ann Gilbert, deceased, daughter of the testator, and her children, William, Luther, Howard and Emily, all of New Haven, Conn., of whom Luther was a minor. In the administration papers, dated July 24th, 1856, and proved April 26th, 1872, Charles A. Thacher of Maysville, Greenbriar Co., Va., is cited to attend probate of the will.

From the History of Methodism in New York City, 1766-1890, by Seaman, we obtain the following: "Year 1804, The New York District had Wm. Thacher for presiding elder. The name of Thacher has been met with before; but now for the first time he becomes associated with Methodism in New York City. He was born in 1769, in the town of Norwalk, Conn., and was converted in Baltimore in 1790. He began to preach in New Haven in 1795, where his family formed the nucleus of the Methodist Church in that city. In 1797 he was admitted on trial into the New York Conference and labored in the States of Connecticut and New York until he was placed over the New York District. He afterwards filled important appointments in the New York and Philadelphia conferences, and becoming superanuated in 1846, made his residence in Poughkeepsie, N. Y., where he died August 2nd, 1856. His pulpit exercises were brief, pointed and practical."

Anna (Munson) Thacher, the first wife of Rev. Wm. Thacher, was buried in the New Burying Ground in New Haven. Her heirs received from her father's estate $1,725.00, including one-third of home lot, one-half of house, together with privilege of kitchen oven and outside passage with cellar and one-third of barn. Her daughters, Eliza and Mary Ann, were heirs of Israel Munson.

In July, 1820, the Methodists in New Haven obtained permission to build a new church on the northwest corner of the upper green. Rev. Wm. Thacher was instrumental in collecting funds to accomplish the object and in May, 1821, the cornerstone was laid; but the incomplete building was demolished by the September gale. The church was rebuilt and stood until 1848, when, encouraged by the offer of the City of New Haven of the sum of $5,000.00, they transferred the Sanctuary to the corner of Elm and College Streets. It is known to this day as the First Methodist Church.

On June 21st, 1784, Thaddeus Betts of Norwalk, Conn., was appointed guardian of William⁷ Thacher, a minor. William⁷ Thacher was an heir under the terms of the will of his uncle, Stephen Greenleaf⁸ Thacher, by whom he had been adopted in accordance with a promise made by Stephen Greenleaf® Thacher to William⁷ Thacher's dying mother; and Stephen Greenleaf⁶ Thacher dying at the age of 34 years, left William Thacher a legacy of £50 in his will and left him in the care of his widow, Ann (Platt) Thacher, who married as her second husband Captain Samuel Keeler.

Rev. William⁷ Thacher lived while in New York City in 1811 at No. 400 Pearl Street; in 1815-16, at No. 445 Pearl Street, in which residence his second wife, Martha (Oakley) Thacher, lived and kept a millinery shop. In 1816-17 he lived in same house and in 1818-19 at No. 447 Pearl Street, and continued living there, his wife keeping up the millinery shop, until 1823, according to the New York City Directories of those years. ..

From Stratford, Conn., Land Records, we obtain the following: Vol. 361/2, p. 15a, March 3rd, 1790: Partridge Thatcher and William G. Thatcher purchase 30 feet square in Stratford for the purpose of building a Bake House. Vol. 20, p. 76a, 3rd Tuesday of November, 1796, judgment entered by Partridge Thatcher of Pound Ridge against William G. Thatcher of Stratford, Conn., for $208.74. March 16th, 1797, said lot of 30 feet square appraised at $217.45. Vol. 27, p. 296, Partridge Thatcher of Pound Ridge sells his interest in above mentioned 30 feet square on November 11th, 1799, for $60:00. From which it would appear that Partridge Thatcher was at one time a resident of Stratford, Conn., which is more than likely, as it was the home of his father. The William G. Thatcher mentioned in these land transactions must have been Rev. William⁷ Thacher (No. 844), as there was no other William Thacher thereabouts at that time and he was an own cousin of Partridge⁷ Thacher of Pound Ridge and might very likely have been interested with him in business. If such was the case the initial "G" of his middle name probably stood for Greenleaf, a name much used in baptisms of descendants of Josiah⁵ Thacher of Norwalk by his second wife, who was born a Greenleaf. Rev. William⁷ Thacher, however, seldom, if ever, in later life used this middle name. Partridge⁷ Thacher (No. 845) must not be confounded with Partridge Thacher of New Milford, Conn., who was living at the same time and who was a descendant of Rev. Thomas3 Thacher of Old South Church, Boston, who was a nephew of Antony² Thacher of Yarmouth, Mass., whose descendants we are now concerned with.

850. Anthony Thatcher (Capt. John, Josiah Deacon Josiah, Hon. Col. John, Antony, Rev. Peter, born January 7th, 1782, at Stratford, Conn.; he resided at New London, Conn., where he was for many years cashier of the New London Bank; he died at New London, Conn., December 26th, 1844, and was buried in Cedar Grove Cemetery in that city, where a monument to his memory was erected over his grave. He was married at New London, Conn., by the Rev. Charles Seabury of St. James P. E. Church on February 24th, 1806, to Lucretia Christophers Mumford, born at Elm Grove Farm, Salem, Conn., August 10th, 1785; died at New London, Conn., April 6th, 1871, and was buried in Cedar Grove Cemetery, New London, Conn., an inscription to her memory being placed upon the monument over her husband's grave. She was a daughter of John Mumford (born December 3rd, 1740; died July 14th, 1825; married May 13th, 1770), and his wife, Lucretia Christophers (born January 19th, 1749-50; died March 19th, 1825), of Salem and New London, Conn.

Children: 12 (Thatcher), 5 sons and 7 daughters, all born at New London, Conn.

+1497 ii. Lucretia Mumford,⁸ born September 30th, 1808; died July 29th, 1895; married Nathaniel Hazard Perry, U. S. Navy.

iii. Mary Woodbridge,8 born April 30th, 1810; died June 22nd, 1828, at New London, Conn., and was buried there in Old Second Burying Ground, corner of State and Hempstead Street. Her remains were subsequently removed to the Thatcher lot in Cedar Grove Cemetery; gravestone; not married.

v. Eloise Hardy,8 born November 27th, 1813; died 1500 July 9th, 1899, at 1.10 P. M., at New London, Conn., and was buried there in Cedar Grove Cemetery, an inscription to her memory being placed upon the Thatcher monument in the family lot. She was born, lived and died in the Thatcher homestead, corner of Main and Masonic Street, New London. She never married. During her long life she was a woman of the most loveable character. She was a poet of merit and of extreme delicacy of sentiment, enlivened by occasional flashes of humor. Some time after her death (in 1912), her poems were published and copyrighted by her niece by marriage, Mrs. Alexander James Perry of Washington, D. C., under the title of "A Voice from the Past." A portrait of the author serves as a frontispiece to the volume. She was named after Eloise, wife of Commodore Hardy of the British Navy, who was in the port of New London with his ship at the time of her birth (see preface to published poems of Eloise Hardy8 Thatcher).

+1501 vi. George Thompson, born January 20th, 1816; died May 24th, 1895; married Harriet Amanda

vii. Daniel Anthony,⁸ born September 3rd, 1819; died August 16th, 1891, at New London, Conn., and was buried there in Cedar Grove Cemetery, an inscription to his memory being placed upon the Thatcher monument. He did not marry. In early life he entered the Military Academy at West Point, but did not graduate, as his somewhat wild nature in youth rendered him irksome of discipline. He was associated at various times in business with his brothers, John Christophers⁸ Thatcher and George Thompson⁸ Thatcher, and later with his nephew, General Alexander James⁹ Perry, U. S. Army, for whom he acted many years as his confidential secretary. He served in the Civil War as an officer of Volunteers in Missouri, being there associated in service with his brother-inlaw, General James Totten, U. S. Army. He was a loveable and devoted friend to all who knew him.

viii. Henry Perkins,8 born September 9th, 1820; died July -, 1853, at New York City, N. Y., and was buried at New London, Conn., in Cedar Grove Cemetery, an inscription to his memory being placed upon the Thatcher monument. He • never married. At the time of his death he was engaged in mercantile pursuits in New York City. He was named after Henry Perkins (8th child of Dr. Elisha Perkins of Plainfield, Conn.), who married Mary (Polly) Shaw Woodbridge (Henry Perkins⁸ Thatcher's own cousin), daughter of Nathaniel Shaw Woodbridge and Elizabeth Mumford, who was a sister of Henry Perkins8 Thatcher's mother, Lucretia Christophers Mumford.

ix. Abigail (Abby) Mumford,8 born June 21st, 1504 1821; died October 18th, 1897, at New Londen, Conn., and was buried there in Cedar Grove Cemetery, an inscription to her memory being placed upon the Thatcher monument. She did not marry. She was born and lived and died in her father's homestead, corner of Main and Masonic Streets, dying at the age of 76 years, and almost 4 months in the room in that house that she had continuously occupied from early childhood. She was named after her mother's sister. She was well known and beloved by all of her contemporaries, as well as by many of younger generations, and was a special favorite of the compiler of these notes, her nephew.

x. Julia Hubbell,8 born March 6th, 1823; died +1505January 31st, 1906; married General James Totten, U. S. Army.

xi. Elizabeth Wetmore,8 born October 4th, 1825; 1506 died September 22nd, 1810, at New London, Conn., and was buried there in Cedar Grove Cemetery, and an inscription to her memory was placed on the Thatcher monument. was named after Elizabeth (Christophers) Wetmore, wife of Ichabod Wetmore of Middletown, Conn., who was first cousin of her grandmother, Lucretia Christophers, who married John Mumford of Salem, Conn. She did not marry. Although of delicate constitution from infancy, yet she lived to the advanced age of nearly 85 years, and to the last could read the finest print without the aid of glasses. She lived in the Thatcher homestead, corner of Main and Masonic Streets from birth, until about 1890, when it was sold; after which she made her home in the well known boarding house of Mrs. Charlotte Graham, corner of Union and Federal Streets, in New London, in company with her sisters, Mrs. Totten and Mrs. Robinson, in which house she and these two sisters died.

+1507 xii. Mary Perkins,8 born October 16th, 1830; died February 24th, 1909; married Colonel Augustus Gilman Robinson, U. S. Army.

In addition to the above mentioned 12 children, there were born to Anthony⁷ Thatcher and his wife twins, Anthony⁸ and Antoinette,⁸ both of whom died in infancy.

Anthony⁷ Thatcher and all of his children have always spelled their surname with a second "t" (Thatcher), although his father before him spelled his name Thacher. He lived in Stratford, Conn., until he reached man's estate, and then removed to New London, Conn., probably induced to make this move by the fact that his half-brother, Isaac Thompson, had preceded him there in business. He there went into the shipping business in the employ of Mr. Butler, and while in his employ made several voyages as supercargo to the ports of Havana, Cuba, and New Orleans, La. Upon the incorporation of the Old New London Bank, in May, 1807, with a capital of $150,000, Elias Perkins was made the first President thereof and Anthony Thatcher its first cashier, which position he held for some 35 years; in fact, until within two or three years of his death, when owing to ill health, he was compelled to retire from active business. He was also a silent partner in the drug business with his half-brother, Isaac Thompson, which business was carried on in the building belonging to these partners on the northeast corner of State and Main Streets. When married the ceremony was performed at the home of his half-brother, Isaac Thompson, on the corner of Bank and Tilley Streets, by the Rev. Charles Seabury, of the P. E. Church of New London. Immediately after his marriage he and his wife lived in a house belonging to Nathaniel Shaw, on Truman Street, where their first two children were born, after which they moved to the house on the northwest corner of Main and State Streets, opposite to the drug business of Isaac Thompson. He subsequently moved to the house on the southwest corner of Main and Masonic Streets, where his child, Eloise Hardy⁸ Thatcher, and his subsequent children were born. The property consisted of some seventy-five feet on Main Street and about 200 feet on Masonic Street. Anthony Thatcher bought the property from the brother of Captain John French, who resided in Norwich, and who, after commencing to build the house, sold it in an unfinished condition to Anthony⁷ Thatcher. On this lot and south of the Thatcher homestead (and belonging to the property), there stood at the time of this purchase another frame house of earlier date of construction, which house remained standing until some time in 1892, when it was torn down on account of its demolished condition. Mr. Thatcher completed the building of the house and it became the permanent residence of himself and wife, and so remained as the residence of his family until some time about 1900, when it was sold by the heirs of the estate. By faith Mr. Thatcher was a Protestant Episcopalian, as was also his wife, and in that belief he brought up his numerous family, each individual member of which remained in that church during life. After his death, which was occasioned by general constitutional breakdown, he was buried in the Old Second Burial Ground, corner of State and Hempstead Streets (since converted into a park), and Miss Caulkins, in her History of New London, speaking of the beauties of this burial place, states: "The marble monument to the memory of Anthony Thatcher—a cubic pedestal, tastefully decorated and surmounted with a fluted circular shaft—is a beautiful production of art." After the establishment of Cedar Grove Cemetery, the monument, together with his remains and those of his family that were buried there, were removed to the Thatcher lot in Cedar Grove Cemetery, the removal of the remains being supervised by the Rev. Robert Hallam, then Rector of St. James P. E. Church, in New London.

Lucretia Christophers (Mumford) Thatcher, his widow, survived him and continued living in the Thatcher homestead until her death, which occurred at the advanced age of 85 years, 7 months and 27 days. She was a woman of sterling qualities and of pronounced domestic tastes, living quietly in old-time simplicity in the midst of her family circle. By birth and her own social qualities she included amongst her friends all who were the best in those old New London times. It is worthy of note in the days of small families and decreasing longevity that she was the mother of 14 children, two of whom died in infancy, and two dying in early life, while the other ten reached the allotted share of man's life of three score years, some of them even passing beyond the four score milestone of life. Her funeral ceremonies were conducted by the Rev. Robert Hallam of the P. E. Church, and she was laid at rest in Cedar Grove Cemetery, where her memory is preserved by an inscription on the Thatcher monument. In her veins was mingled strains of the Brewster, Christophers, Saltonstall and Gardiner blood, representing the best in those days of her home surroundings.

Daniel Thatcher was a pew holder in the First Congregational Church in Bridgeport in 1835; he was also President of the Connecticut National Bank, 1840-1848. Captain Wilson Hubbell, his father-in-law, was a sea captain in the West Indies trade and made many successful voyages. In 1799, while in command of the Sloop Delight, he was captured by a French Privateer while on a voyage to Havana, Cuba. The mate of the Privateer was placed in command of the Delight with instructions to take the prize to France; and while on the voyage he threw Captain Wilson Hubbell overboard and sailed on and left him to drown. A monument to his memory stands in the Ancient Burying Ground in Stratford, Conn.

She married—, 1791, at—, to Deacon Josiah Dimon, as his first wife, born Plymouth, Mass.,—, 1766; he lived at Plymouth, Mass., and died there August 22nd, 1829, in his 63rd year, and was buried there on Burial Hill; gravestone, epitaph. He was a son of Daniel Dimon by his wife Elizabeth Morton, of Plymouth, Mass.

- ii. Josiah,8 born September 9th, 1798; died September 16th, 1798, aged 7 days, at Plymouth, Mass., and was buried there on Burial Hill; gravestone same as his mother's.

Deacon Josiah Dimon married, second, —, 1799, to Sophia Sampson of Plympton, and she died August 7th, 1814, in her 36th year; and by her he had Thomas, born in —, 1803; James, born —, 1805; Ezra Sampson, born —, 1808; Benjamin, born —, 1810. He married a third time, —, 1814, to Polly Holmes, who died November 15th, 1847, aged 71, and by her he had Samuel Newell, born —, 1815. The children by the second and third marriages are not in Thacher line.

Hon. George Thacher's Mss., Thacher Genealogy, page 182, is an error in stating that Susannah⁷ Gray, No. 876, married David Dimon. David Dimon was a brother of Deacon Josiah Dimon; and his wife was Lois Grover, whom he married before 1782, and who died December 16th, 1831, in her 75th year.

NOTES CONCERNING THE MORRIS FAMILY OF ENG-LISH NEIGHBORHOOD, N. J., AND OF TAPPAN, N. Y.

CONTRIBUTED BY CATHARINE T. R. MATHEWS.

Among the first settlers of Hudson and Bergen Counties, New Jersey, we find the name of:

"Jury Maris—English." Jury or Jurie being the Dutch rendering of George. We assume that this Englishman's name was really George Morris, as later his descendants called themselves Morris.

I. Jury Maris, m. before 1694-5, Frena Hanse Harty, bp. New York, 26 August, 1671; she was daughter of Hanse Jacobse Harty from Berne, and his wife Geertje Lambertse Mol. Their children were as follows:

Geerty,² m. Jan Van Schyven.
Marritje, bp. 24 Oct., 1695.
Lea, bp. 4 Oct., 1677; m. Abraham Kammega.
Jan, bp. 20 Aug., 1699; m. Anneke Kammega.
Rachel, bp. 24 June, 1700.
Hans Jacob, bp. 19 Sept., 1703.
Abraham, bp. 16 June, 1706.
Jannetje, bp. 13 April, 1708; m. Ide Meyer.
Tryntie, bp. 31 Dec., 1710.
Sara, bp. 15 April, 1712; m. 10 Aug., 1733, Jan Cool.
2 Isaac, bp. 14 March, 1714.

2. Isaac² Maris (Jury¹), bp. Tappan, N. Y., 14 March, 1714; m. at Schraalenberg, N. J., 21 Sept. 1733, Catherine (Cool) Westervelt; b. Tappan, N. Y. (From New Jersey Col. Doc. Mar. Lic. p. 536.)

"Schraalenburgh Ch. Marriage Records:" Mares, Isaek y. m., b. and l. at Schraalenburgh, and Trintyen Kool w. b. at Tappan, l. at Schralenburgh, m. Sept. 21. (License date 1733, Sept. 1.)

She was the widow of David Pieterse Westervelt whom she m. at Tappan, 16 June, 1727, and by whom she had a daughter, Susanna, bp. Tappan, 16 Aug., 1728, who m. Joseph Baldwin, who d. before 1765, leaving one child, Joseph Baldwin, bp. 16 Sept., 1748.

The children of Isaac Maris or Morris, as they now began to call themselves and Catherine (Cool) Westervelt were as follows:

3 David,8 bp. 23 Feb. 1735, at Schraalenberg, N. J. Abraham, bp. Tappan, N. Y., 5 Feb., 1739; m. 13 Jan., 1760, Maria Marschalk.

Jacob bp. Tappan, N. Y., 22 July, 1741; m. 7 Jan., 1764, Eleanor Edwards.

Among baptisms in Dutch Church, N. Y., are: Isaac, son of Abraham Maris and Maria Marschalk, bp. 26 May, 1765. The witnesses were David Maris and Susanna Maris, widow of Joseph Baldwin; also Isaac, son of Jacob and Alida Moris, bp. 5 Oct., 1766.

The witnesses: David Maris and Maria Marschalk, h. v. Abrm. Maris. (The name really was Eleanor, Alida being a clerical error.)

These show the relationship between David Morris and the Baldwins, and prove his parentage—and also show the different spellings of the name at this time.

3. David Morris (Isaac, Jury), bp. 23 Feb., 1735, at Schraalenberg, m. 14 June, 1769, Christina Mercier, dau. of Capt. William Mercier; he bp. 1745; d. 19 Dec., 1812.

His marriage Bond which follows, also proves his identity as son of Isaac Maris—Joseph Baldwin, his half-sister's son, having signed his Bond, and at that time marriage bonds were signed usually by relatives:

JOSEPH BAULDWIN

I hereby certify that the above is a true and correct copy of the bond found on page 119 of volume 14 of Marriage bonds in the custody of the regents of the University of the State of New York in the state library. Albany, the 14th of December, 1903.

David Morris served in the Revolution. In 1776 he was in Col. Haye's Regt.; Capt. Onderdonk's Co., in Haverstraw Precinct

Regt. of Orange Co., N. Y. (now Rockland Co.)

It has been claimed by some of his descendants that he was descended from Lewis Morris of Morrisania or That he was of the same family; the latter claim may or may not be true, but he was not a descendant of Lewis Morris as may be seen by consulting The Descendants of Lewis Morris of Morrisania, compiled by Elizabeth Morris Lefferts, nor was he descended from Lewis Morris of Passage Point as others claim. It has also been asserted that he inherited and lived on Morris property in New York City. This is an error. On 4 Oct., 1784, David Morris bought from the Commissioners of Forfeiture two and a half lots on the East side of the Bowery, between Hester and Grand Streets, the former owner having been James de Lancey. Land was also granted to David Morris 23 September, 1795, on corner of Broadway and Chambers Street, New York (see Liber 43, p. 77, Register's Office—also Grimm's Essays).

The baptisms of the children of David Morris and Christina Mercier are all recorded in Dutch Ch. Baptisms, New York. Unlike

Ann,4 bp. 10 Feb., 1771.

John, bp. 1 Nov., 1772, m. Mary Lee.

William Henry, bp. 27 Nov., 1774, m. Catherine Tiers.

Elizabeth (her bp. not recorded) m. John Michaels—their son, Theophilus Beekman Michaels, bp. 9 June, 1800, N.Y. Maria bp. 1 May, 1785; d. 1822.

David, bp. 27 Jan., 1790.

Gen'l William Lee⁴ Morris, b. 1795, son of John Morris and Mary Lee, was a gallant officer in the War of 1812 and in the Mexican War. He m. Miss Harriman and had:

Col. Orlando H.⁶ Morris who was killed in Civil War at battle of Cold Harbor, Va.

DeWitt Clinton.

William Lee.

Charles Oakley.

J. Wyman.

Caroline.

Anna.

The writer of this article is indebted to the late Charles Oakley Morris for some of these later data.

At the close of this brief article which is not intended to carry out all the descendants of Jury Maris, we have still the question unsolved as to whom he was.

In Genealogical History, Hudson and Bergen Cos., on list of first settlers, we find:

Robert Morris, Liverpool.

Richard Morris, London. Anthony Jury Maris, English.

We find the latter called in various church records Jury Maris, Jurie Morris and sometimes Jurian Jansen.

There was a Jurian Jansen in New Amsterdam in 1657.

find in Dutch Church marriages, N. Y.:

Den 16 April, Aº 1660. Jan Jorisen j. d. van New Amsterdam and Maria Fredericks uyt de Hage.

In Dutch Church baptisms, N. Y., as follows:

OUDERS KINDER GETUŸGEN. A° 1662 Herman Suymer. Jan Mooris Jorisum Den 5 April Marritje Hermans Mr. Engel Berg.

Could these two be the same man, and could this Jorisum, born 1662, be Jury Maris who later settled in New Jersey?

Jurie Maris owned land in Schraalenberg, sometimes called old Hackensack; also, before 1700, in the section called North West Hook, in New Jersey.

He was a person trusted in the community, as 16 April, 1723, Jurian Morris was requested by Cornelius Haring and Barent Nowel, executors, both of Tappan, to examine the will of John Hart of Woodbridge, New Jersey.

The writer of this article has examined a copy of all the Barbadoes records of births, marriages and deaths of the Morris family on record there, and no clue has been found either to Jury Maris or Jan Mooris. Jury Maris had a son John, or Jan, and a daughter Marritje. While these names are coincidences, they are not proofs. Christian names are often misleading.

Perhaps some searcher along Morris lines may solve the problem as to which family of Morris, Jury Maris belonged, and with that hope these notes and references are given.

It will not be out of place to add here some notes of the family of Le Mercier:

In Baird's Huguenots, Vol. II, pp. 213-239-49, we find the name of André Le Mercier of Dorchester, Mass. A Huguenot minister, he was born at Caen, Normandy, educated at Geneva, and was minister of the French Church in Boston for 34 years. His will was dated 7 Nov., 1761 (Probate Office, Suffolk, Boston); he d. 31 March, 1764. In his will, he mentions "Children André, Margaret, Jane, Bartholomew if alive."

In Eng. Cal. Mss., p. 119, 29 Oct., 1684: A petition was made in New York by "Bartholomew Mercier of Boston, New England, that his estate and goods, be exempted from the payment of customs, he intending to settle in the city—ordered that for the encouragement of merchants to come and inhabit the city, the goods and merchandise of the petitioner already imported, be freed from the payment of customs."

In same volume, p. 141: 17 Oct., 1685. Denization: "Bartholomew Mercier, Catherine Mercier, Henry Mercier, with liberty to trade and traffic."

This is the Bartholomew whose line is given below, but the dates would show that he could not have been the son mentioned in will of André le Mercier; he was probably his brother, or a near relative. In 1761 André le Mercier was not sure that his son was living. This Bartholomew left Boston in 1684, 77 years before André le Mercier made his will.

BARTHOLOMEW MERCIER m. Catherine de Lasty (called Laty), perhaps a sister of Martha de Lasty who m. Guillamme le Count. Catherine m. 2d, — Bonnefoy. Made her will 25 Oct. 1714. Mentions her children:

Henry Mercey.

Catherine and David Bonnefoy.

(See Abstracts Wills, N. Y. II, p. 142.)

II. HENRI MERCIER, m. Christina Hendricks (he d. about 1718.) Had:

> William, b. 24 Oct., 1716; d. ----. William, b. 24 Sept., 1717. Helena, bp. 8 June, 1718.

Christina, wid. Henri Mercier, m. 2d, 29 Jan., 1719, John Dyer.

III. WILLIAM MERCIER, b. 24 Sept., 1717; d. in New York, 1797. The name of his wife is not recorded. There was a Mrs. Marie Rosse Mercier in New York, in 1775. It may have been his wife. William Mercier was Capt. of the Porpoise, 1747, and Capt. of the York, 1755. He also served during the Revolution.

His daughter:

IV. CHRISTINA, b. 1745; d. 19 Dec., 1812; m. 14 June, 1769, David Morris as shown in foregoing Morris notes.

The witnesses to the will of Capt. William Mercier (which is in Surrogate's Office, New York), were Peter Cole or Cool (a near relative of Catherine Cool, wife of Isaac Morris), and Charles Baldwin of the same connection, these giving further links in proving identity of David Morris.

^{*} I wish here to voice a protest not only against this Library, but against any other Library or Society which retains old records from their proper owners, when such owners ask for them, and give evidence of their proper preservation. The retention of the Harlem Town records and of certain Dutch Church records by a Title Guarantee Co. is a similar outrage.

The map of 1821 shows the Yearly Meeting at nearly its maximum membership and jurisdiction. By 1828 it had increased to about 20,000 members, and was on the point of setting off "Ontario Yearly Meeting," to include the meetings in Canada and central and western New York, the lake being then a convenient means of access, where it now is an obstacle. This was however prevented by the great Separation of that year, which so crippled both branches that neither has yet fully recovered.

GENESEE Y. M. (H) was set off in 1834, with the meetings in central and western New York and in Canada. It has made our collection the repository for its records.

CANADA Y. M. (O) was set off in 1867, with the meetings in Canada.

She married, ---, 1750, Colonel Richard Lawrence of Staten Island, born -; died at Nottingham, County Kent, England, May 25, (Will dated March 7, 1789.) By his second marriage Richard Lawrence had two children, a son William and a daughter Jane. (Not in Leggett line.)

Richard Lawrence was a Loyalist and sided openly with the British, joined the forces of Lord Howe, and bore the rank of colonel in the British army. After peace was declared he was imprisoned in New York for the assistance which he had given the English, and shortly after his release he went to England where he remained until his death in 1789. His widow, Mrs. Elizabeth (Oakley) Lawrence received the pension of a colonel's widow from the British government until her death.

Richard Lawrence, the eldest son of Colonel Richard, shared his father's prejudices, and, with several of his sisters, went to St. John's, N. B., in 1793.

22. John's Leggett (William, Gabriel'), born at West Farms, Feb. 4, 1733; died at Lake George, —, 1760. He married, June 5, 1753, Sarah Alsop, born —; died —; daughter of Thomas Alsop and Susannah (Blackwell) Alsop of Newtown, L. I.

Sarah (Alsop) Leggett married 2nd, — Lawrence.

- +62 iv. Susannah, b. July 23, 1758; d. Jan. 23, 1848; m. Abner Everitt.

The records of the children of John' Leggett, as given above, are taken from the "Narrative" of his son, Major Abraham Leggett. The record of the Rev. Mr. Leggett differs from this by giving the name of the eldest daughter as Frances (also so named in the will of her grandfather, William' Leggett), and the husband of Susannah as Theodore De Forest, who married a Susannah Leggett, June 27, 1779, according to the New York marriages. It would seem as though the record of Major Leggett should be correct, although we have not been able to verify it by other records.

Major Leggett states in his "Narrative" that his father. John's Leggett marched for Canada in 1759, got as far as Lake George, where he was taken with the fever, and died there in four days (this was the latter part of the year 1759 or 1760, as administration papers on his estate were granted to Joseph Avery, Dec. 19, 1760), and that in 1762 his mother, with the other three children returned to her father's home in Newtown, Major Leggett staying with his grandfather, William' Leggett. Sarah (Alsop) Leggett, widow of John's Leggett, later married, as her second husband, a Mr. Lawrence of Newtown.

Thomas' Leggett purchased a farm at Stillwater, Saratoga County, N. Y., sometime before the Revolution, where most of his children were born. His dwelling and outbuildings, of logs, were within the Hessian redoubt at the battle of Saratoga. At the approach of Burgoyne, the family crossed the river to Easton, Washington County. Two of his sons, Isaac and Thomas, were taken prisoners by the British, and carried to the camp near Schuylerville; but later made their escape and returned home. (This note is taken from the records of a descendant, John Leggett [Abraham, Isaac'], and is probably the correct version of an incident very differently told by Bolton, and quoted from him in other articles.)

The history of Saratoga County states that Isaac and Gabriel Leggett were early settlers at Stillwater, and it seems likely that Thomas' Leggett was only living there temporarily, those two sons remaining on his property, the other members of the family returning to New York.

The family of Thomas' Leggett were Friends, the first members of the Leggett family to become members of that faith, and were the founders of the Friends' Society at Stillwater.

There seems to be some difference of opinion as to whether Charles' Leggett, given by the Rev. Theodore Leggett as the fifth child of Thomas' and Mary (Embree) Leggett, was a son of this Thomas. His name is not found in the family record of John' Leggett, noted above, and in the Gustin Genealogy his grandson, General Mortimer Leggett is called a descendant of William' Leggett. No published records of Charles or of his family have been found.

80 vii. Esther (Elizabeth?), b. —; d. —; m. —

In his will, dated April 21, 1800, proved Oct. 21, 1800, James² Leggett calls himself "late of Westchester, now of New York City;" he mentions his daughter Martha Leggett, now Worden; grandsons Henry, son of Gabriel, and John, son of Thomas; three daughters, Nancy, Martha and Elizabeth.

From this it would appear that his wife, who is not named, and the other daughters, must have been dead previous to 1800. The Elizabeth named in the will may be the seventh child, whose name is given as Esther in the above list of children, or there may have been still another daughter.

26. GABRIEL' LEGGETT (Gabriel, Gabriel'), born at West Farms, -; died —, 1760; married Dec. 28, 1757, Catherine Ash, born -; died before 1783; daughter of Gilbert Ash and his wife Mary —. Catherine (Ash) Leggett married 2nd, Jan. 30, 1764, James Tomlinson.

Child 1 (Leggett) a son:

i. Gabriel, b. ---; d. ----; m. ----.

By her second husband, James Tomlinson, Catherine (Ash) Leggett had three children (not in Leggett line): James, Anne and Gilbert Tomlinson.

Gabriel Leggett died intestate, and his wife Catherine was appointed administrator, April 10, 1760. We have no other records of him or of his son, Gabriel, except the mention of Gabriel' in the will of his grandfather, Gilbert Ash.

The will of Gilbert Ash, dated Feb. 10, 1783, proved Jan. 8, 1785, names his wife, Mary, children of deceased daughter, Catherine Tomlinson, namely Gabriel Leggett, son of her first husband, Gabriel Leggett, deceased, and James, Anne and Gilbert Tomlinson, by her second husband, James Tomlinson, "when they come of age." This will shows that Catherine (Leggett) Tomlinson was dead before this date, and that if she had had other children by Gabriel' Leggett, this son Gabriel was the only one living at this date.

 v. Martha, b. —; d. —; m. —.
 vi. John Haviland, b. Feb. 21, 1771; d. Jan. 28, 1847; m. +96 Gertrude Quackenbos.

John' Leggett was born in 1742, according to family records, but the exact month and day have not been recorded; he married Mary Haviland, a daughter of Ebenezer Haviland and Phebe (Cornell) Haviland, about 1762, their eldest son, Ebenezer, having been born in 1763.

John Leggett lived on the West Farms estate, which had descended to him from his father, probably in the Richardson homestead, and he left the farm to his son John at his death, or rather, after the death of his wife.

John Leggett was a member of the First Regiment, West-chester Co., in the Revolution. The records in the Historical Manuscripts relating to the war of the Revolution are as follows: "The first to respond to the call of the Provincial Congress by the election of its militia officers, was the Borough town of Westchester, where on the 24th day of August (1775), John Oakley was elected to the command of the local company, with Nicholas Berrian for its first Lieutenant, and Isaac Leggett for its second Lieutenant . . ." Abram Leggett, William Leggett, John Leggett, Junr., Cornelius Leggett.

The will of John' Leggett, dated Jan. 8, 1780, proved Oct. 23, 1780, leaves his farm on the Cow Neck to his son Ebenezer, the homestead farm to his wife Mary, while she lives or until she remarries, it then to go to his younger son John; with bequests to his daughters Anna, Abigail, Mary and Martha. The silver tankard which was bequeathed to him by his father, John' Leggett, he leaves to his son John.

HAVILAND NOTE.—Ebenezer Haviland, born about 1703, son of Benjamin and Abigail Haviland, married 1735, Phebe Cornell, born 6 day of 3 month, 1715 (May 30, if the year was reckoned from March 25, as the Friends' calendar usually was in the early days), daughter of Richard Cornell and Hannah (Thorne) Cornell. Ebenezer Haviland died in 1749, and Phebe (Cornell) Haviland married as her 2nd husband, John Williams of Westchester. Phebe Haviland Williams died before 1756.

Ebenezer and Phebe (Cornell) Haviland had seven children:

1. Mary, b. —; d. —; m. about 1762, John' Leggett.
2. Abigail, b. —; d. —; no further record.

3. Hannah, b. 1739; d. 1758; m. 1754, John Griffin.

4. Elizabeth, b. —; d. —; m. 1766, Thomas Comstock. 5. Ebenezer, b. 1742; d. —; m. 1770, Jane Burling. 6. Thomas, b. —; d. 1787; m. 1777, Helena Bartow.

7. Benjamin, b. 1749; d. —; m. 1770, Sarah Farrington.

We have no actual proof that the Mary named above is the one who married John' Leggett, further than the fact that their eldest son was Ebenezer, and that John and Mary Leggett were witnesses at the marriage of Elizabeth Haviland and Thomas Comstock, Oct. 10, 1766. The Cornell Genealogy states that all the children of Ebenezer and Phebe Haviland died young with the exception Hannah and Elizabeth, but we find the records of marriages, etc., of the others as given above, in the Friends' records, so that this statement is disproved by the existing records, and it seems probable that Mary, daughter of Ebenezer and Phebe Haviland, was the Mary Haviland who married John' Leggett.

The will of Mary, widow of Cornelius' Leggett, dated April 19, 1823, proved May 10, 1823, mentions a deed of gift of $250 from each of her five children, Ann Stevenson, Jonathan, David, Cornoline and Lawrence Loggett, five years previous; leaves bequests to sous Jonathan and Cornellus Leggett, daughter Ann Stevenson, daughter-in-law Catherine Ann Leggett, wife of son Lawrence, grand-daughter by son David, deceased (not named), and Mary and Antoinette, daughters of son Jonathan.

Isaac' Leggett was chosen 2d lieutenant of the first militia company raised in Westchester for the War of Independence. As he was dead when his father, John' Leggett wrote his will in 1777, and as no record of a will or administration of any estate has been found, it is probable that he was killed in one of the early battles, either at White Plains or Long Island.

We find no further records of either of the children of Isaac and Mary (Oakley) Leggett.

The date of marriage of Sarah' Leggett and Joshua Sherwood has not been found, but from her father's will, 1763, it would appear that she was not then married, and in the deed, mentioned in the record of William' Leggett, acknowledging receipt of their grandfather's legacy, by the children of William, she is called the wife of Joshua Sherwood, so that the marriage took place between 1763 and 1769, presumably at Philipsburgh.

Mary' Leggett is called Frances in the will of her grandfather, William' Leggett, and also in the records of the Rev. T. A. Leggett, but it is probable that this was either changed to Mary in later years, or that the name Frances was a middle name, dropped later, as she is called Mary in the notes to her brother,

Major Abraham Leggett's Narrative; and he also named one of his daughters, Mary Norwood Leggett.

Richard Norwood and his wife Maria Cool had a son Andrew, baptized in the Dutch Church, 1731; a second son Andrew, baptized Feb. 7, 1733, but he is not mentioned in the will of his aunt, Cornelia Norwood, 1772, and may not have been living at that Richard and Cornelia Norwood had a brother, Andrew, born probably about 1700, who had daughters Cornelia, Annatie and Mary living in 1772, and Mary' Leggett may have married him as his second wife. We have not been able to place Andrew Norwood, the husband of Mary Leggett, any more accurately, though he must have been of this family.

Abraham' Leggett was born at West Farms, Jan. 3, 1755; his father, John's Leggett, died when Abraham was five years of age, and when his mother returned to Newtown, L. I., in 1762, he went to live with his grandfather, William's Leggett. On the death of William' Leggett in 1763, he went to his uncle Abraham's home, where he remained until fourteen years of age. He was then apprenticed to Phineas Hunt, and later to Samuel Van Black, to learn the trade of blacksmith.

When the trouble began between the Colonies and England, Abraham Leggett took an active part in Westchester County politics. He, with Thomas Hunt, Col. Lewis Norris, and nine others were the gentlemen addressed by the New York Committee relative to appointment of delegates to a convention of the county, for the election of deputies to the Colonial Congress held at Philadelphia, May 10, 1775. He served as ensign, later as lieutenant, when the war began; raised a company for Capt. James Horton, March 13, 1776; was in the battle of Brooklyn, Harlem Heights, White Plains, and Fort Montgomery. When Fort Montgomery was taken by the British he was taken prisoner and was confined in the old City Hall on Wall Street, and later in the Old Provost in the Park, where he suffered great privation and hardship. He remained a prisoner until 1781 when he was exchanged. Later, he rejoined the army and served until the end of the war.

After the Revolution, Major Abraham Leggett removed to Charleston, S. C., from there to Savannah, Georgia, and about 1805 returned to New York City, where he resided until his death in 1842. Major Leggett was an original member of the New York Society of the Cincinnati, and served as its vice-president from

At the request of his children, Major Leggett began a history of his life and Revolutionary experiences, a few years before his death, which was published with editorial notes by Charles Bushnell, in 1865, under the title of "Narrative of Abraham Leggett."

William' Leggett (No. 131), son of Major Abraham' Leggett, was a well known writer, and was editor, with William Cullen Bryant, of the New York Evening Post for a number of years. Educated at Georgetown College, D. C., Leggett was appointed a midshipman in the United States Navy in 1822, but finding a literary life more to his taste, resigned his commission in 1826 and returned to New York. In 1828 he was made editor of the Critic, a weekly journal which was afterwards united with the New York Mirror. He became one of the editors of the Evening Post in 1829 and remained with the Post until ill health forced him to resign in 1836. He sought to regain his health by rest and travel in Europe, but without success, and returning to America, died at his home in New Rochelle, May 29, 1839.

His published works include: Leisure Hours at Sea, a volume of poems written while in the navy; Tales by a Country Schoolmaster, a collection of his articles which had appeared in the Mirror and other magazines; Sketches at Sea; and many other poems and sketches. He was an earnest advocate of the rights of free discussion and strongly denounced those who mobbed the abolitionists in 1835. His editorial work on the Post was of a very high order, his articles being exceptionally vigorous and direct. Mr. Sedgwick, in his Editorials of the Evening Post, says of him: "The intellect of Mr. Leggett was of a very high order. . . .

His reading was extremely copious and his style most vigorous and manly. . . . Nothing could be in greater contrast with the vehemence of his writings than the mildness and courtesy of his social life. . . ."

Mr. Leggett was intimately associated with Bryant in his work on the Post, and an editorial by Bryant at the time of his resignation shows the high esteem which Bryant had for him and for his talents, an esteem which is further emphasized in Bryant's later editorial and poem on his death. In his early death the world at large, as well as his many friends and admirers, sustained an irreparable loss.

Joseph' Leggett resided in New York City, and was in the mercantile business at 379 Pearl Street. He and his wife were Friends and the births of all their children, with the exception of the two eldest, are recorded in the Society of Friends, New York. Joseph Leggett died of the "malignant fever" in the epidemic of of 1803.

Aaron' Leggett (No. 138), son of Joseph Leggett, was born in New York City, Nov. 4, 1792. He was a prominent merchant, and for a number of years was in the dry goods business in Pearl Street. In 1832 he became interested in Mexico, and was induced to introduce steamboats upon certain rivers there. He established a commercial house at San Juan Bautista, in the state of Tabasco, March, 1832. He purchased and fitted out a steamboat and several brigs and schooners for the shipping of logwood, for which contracts were made for several years supply. When his steamship arrived in Tabasco a civil war was in progress and the commandant seized Leggett's ship and used it for government purposes. It was later accidentally sunk. This forced Leggett to cancel his contracts and close out his business in Mexico. He put in a claim for damages against the Mexican government for nearly $800,000. In 1834 Mr. Leggett went to Mexico and presented this claim in person, but after two years spent in vainly endeavoring to secure a settlement, he was forced to give up the struggle, return to the United States, and leave our government to follow it up at their convenience. In 1839 the American commissioners awarded him some $478,000 with accrued interest amounting to about $200,000 but the umpire reduced this sum to a little less than $100,000, which Leggett refused to accept. 1848 the claim was still before the House for settlement, and some agreement was finally reached. The terms of the final settlement are not known, but Mr. Leggett must have received a fairly large sum, as at his death he disposed of a large fortune by his will.

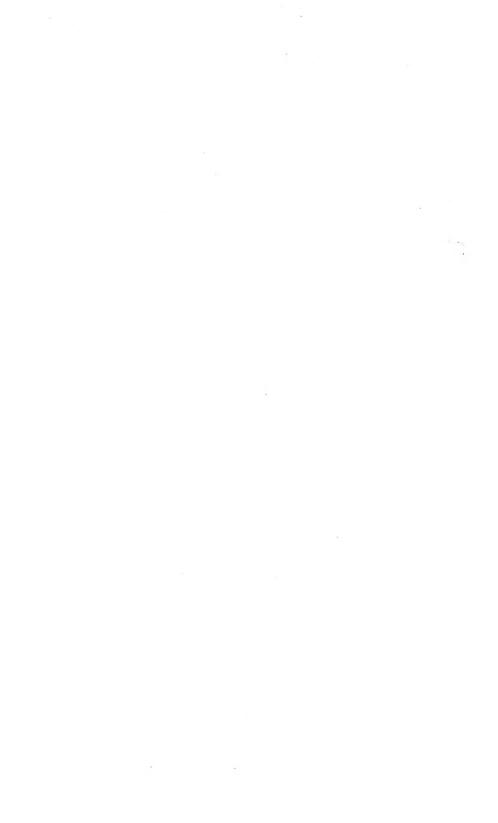

Mr. Leggett never married, and at his death his property was divided amongst his nephews and nieces. His death occurred between March 13, 1857, the date of the codicil to his will, and April 24, 1860, the date of probate, but the exact date is not known.

NEW YORK "KNICKERBOCKER" FAMILIES; ORIGIN AND SETTLEMENT.

By Joel N. Eno, A.M.,

Though Verrezzani in 1524 probably entered the lower bay, Henry Hudson, captain in the employ of the Dutch East India Company, in Sept., 1609, guided the first ship, the Half Moon, past Manhattan, and up the Hudson river nearly to Albany. The company began a trading post, called Mannahatta (Manhattan) in 1614; and in 1615 another at Fort Orange (now Albany). In 1624, the Dutch West India Company made a permanent settlement on Manhattan; it sent Peter Minuits as governor, who arrived 1625 with a company who settled Breukelen (Brooklyn). In 1629, the West India Company inaugurated a system of settlement by what are now called manors, somewhat like the plantation system of Virginia, with Wouter Van Twiller as agent, to buy tracts from the Indians, and then to grant to the leaders of colonies, who were called patroons, each a manor with 16 miles front on the rivers, and extending back as far as needed. Minuits was recalled in 1633, and led a Swedish colony to Delaware in 1638; Van Twiller governed till 1638, Wm. Kieft from 1638 till 1647, and Peter Stuyvesant from 1647 till 1664, when the Dutch surrendered their claims to the Duke of York. Col. Nichols governed till 1667; Lovelace, from 1667 till 1674, succeeded in Oct., 1674, by Sir Edmund Andros; he by Col. Thomas Dongan, 1683; he in 1688 by Francis Nicholson, who in 1689 was imprisoned by Jacob Leisler till March, 1691, when Col. Sloughter, the new royal governor, arrived; Fletcher succeeded in 1692; the Earl of Bellamont in 1698, and so on, a succession of royal governors till the Revolution. The Dutch settlements were mostly confined to the Hudson valley below Troy, and western Long Island, with a few in northeastern New Jersey, for the early immigration was not nearly as large nor as widely distributed as that to Massachusetts, though drawn, from the whole south coast of the North The settlers belonged mainly to the Dutch Reformed church, Presbyterian in organization, but there was general toleration of religious beliefs.

N. B.—The regular mode of forming family names in the Low Countries or Netherlands (Holland and Belgium), as in Denmark, Norway, Sweden and Iceland was patronymic; that is, the Christian-name of the father was the basis of the last name of the son; so Remsen, the son of Rem(mert) Jansen; the ending—sen, the same as son, in English John-son, is varied to -zen, and often shortened to -se; as in Jan-se=son of Jan (Eng. John); Dirck-se, son of Didrik or Dedrick; Teunis-se, son of Teunis (Antony); but this mode resulting in many duplicate names, there grew into use, as a temporary expedient for distinguishing between duplicate names, the affixing of the native place of each;

CORRECTIONS AND ADDITIONS TO PUBLISHED GENEALOGICAL WORKS.

Every gleaner in the field of genealogical research has met with errors in printed volumes which, left by themselves, carry mistaken conclusions to the end of time. This department has been inaugurated in an endeavor to correct such spurious data. Readers are requested to forward for publication here every such error, and such further additions to printed genealogies as are found, that due correction may be made. The authority for the statement must be furnished, with name and address of contributor.

14. ALDRICH—OBLINUS—TOURNEUR—CORRECTION.

In vol. xi, N. Y. Historical Collections, 1902, page 31, Mary, sister of John Oblinus is indexed as Mary Aldrich and Mary Oblinus, and her daughter Lena is indexed under both names. Jacobus is indexed as Jacobus Aldrich.

Jacobus and Lena (Magdalena) were the children of Maria Van Oblinus by her first husband Thomas Tourneur, see Riker's History of Harlem, p. 637, New Castle Co., Del., Kalendar of Wills, p. 19, will of Thomas Tourneur.

The Holland Society has a record showing that the widow of Sigfredus Aldrich, Mary, was for Mary Tourneur.

Dutrieux—Additions.

The undersigned when writing the article on Philippe Dutrieux in the Record for January, 1914, said: "a list of the children of Philippe Dutrieux born in Holland may yet come to light." Three of these children's baptisms had appeared in the Record (volume 26, p. 80) but without the names of the witnesses. As the names of these witnesses have been secured and may throw light on family history these three baptisms are again presented with these additions.

"Walekerk 3 janvier 1616 Philipe filz de filipe du trieu et Jacquemine Noiret sa femme; pour tesmoing Arnoult Noiret et Jasper du trieux et Jacquelainne Hiole."

"Walekerk Dimance 10 feburier 1619 Phlipe fils de Phlippe du trieux et de Jaquemine Noirez; Tesmoins; Grigolle Swemelle et Thomas Mutau et Marynes Anne de Swatripon et Susenne St lonselle."

17. MOULTON—Addition and Correction.

To Moulton Annals pp. 186-7; The Moulton Family and A Genealogical Register of some of the Descendants of John Moulton of Hampton and of Joseph Moulton of Portsmouth, p. 35.

By various deeds, quit-claims, etc., recorded in several volumes of York Deeds it is proved conclusively that Joseph² Moulton (son of Thomas of Hampton, N. H., and York, Me.), who was taken captive by the Indians, had sons (Col.) Jeremiah (called Jr.) "the great Indian Warrior," Joseph, John and (Capt.) Daniel. That Joseph Moulton of Portsmouth and the Joseph mentioned above as son of Joseph² were identical, is proved by the following extract from York, Me., Deeds, Vol. X., Fol. 45: "Joseph Moulton of Portsmouth" N. H., "for himself and as attorney in behalf of his brother, Daniel Moulton" "of Portsmouth, acquits and discharges Jeremiah Moulton, Sr., his heirs," etc. "and fully and freely "etc. "makes over and confirms unto sd Jeremiah Moulton," etc. "all right and interest," etc., "to that they, Joseph and Daniel Moulton, now, have had" etc. "to any part of the estate or estates that did or ought to belong unto their father, Joseph Moulton, and their grandfather, Thomas Moulton, both late of sd York, deceased. Dated, Sept. 18, 1719. Jurat: July 4, 1720."

STANTELY-CANCKTEN-CONKLIN-CORRECTION. 20.

On page 80 of Vol. I. of the Collections of the New York Genealogical and Biographical Society appears the marriage of Delivery Stantely, a young man of Rhye, to Enjeltje Boeckhout of New York, on Oct. 2, 1695. Their eldest child was baptized Oct. 28, 1696 (Vol. II, 239). There the father's name is spelled Deliverance Canckten. Other children were baptized at Tarrytown, N. Y. between 1700 and 1716. In the Records of the Sleepy Hollow Church, the father's name suffers other changes, viz: Leverens Canckele, Canckle, Kankle, Cancely and finally Delefferins Cancklie, the wife in each instance remaining the same. The present method of spelling the name is Conklin.

STORM—CORRECTION. 21.

Dirck Storm, who married Berranecke ---, is omitted from the index of the Sleepy Hollow Church Records. They had children baptized there between 1720 and 1735, whose numbers are 402, 453, 522, 580, 647, 846.

NOTE.

EARLY SETTLERS OF NEW JERSEY.—Mr. Orra E. Monnette of 3101 Wilshire Boulevard, Los Angeles, California, genealogist and compiler of the "Monnet Family Genealogy," and a member of the New York Gen. and Biog. Society, has undertaken the compilation of a work to include the first settlers of Piscataway and Woodbridge, New Jersey, and to extend to the first two or three generations thereof. If the plan is well received it may be extended to include the first settlers of Elizabethtown. This undertaking is in the interest of genealogy from the broad standpoint. It is an unselfish undertaking and not for the purpose of financial return. Therefore, all genealogists and others interested in these localities will render a positive and permanent service to genealogy by furnishing to Mr. Monnette all data and sources of information known to them concerning these first settlers, as it is desired to make the work as accurate and authentic as possible.

BOOK REVIEWS.

By John R. Totten.

EDITORIAL NOTE:—The New York Genealogical and Biographical Society solicits as donations to its Library all newly published works on Genealogy, History and Biography, as well as all works on Town, County and State History, or works embodying information regarding the Vital Records of any and all localities. It also solicits the donation to the manuscript collections of its library any and all manuscript compilations which bear upon the above mentioned topics.

In consideration of such donations the works so presented to the Society will be at once placed upon the shelves of its library and will be reviewed in the next subsequent issue of The New York Genealogical And Biographical Record, each donation of such character, whether in printed or manuscript form, will be reviewed under the head of "Book Notices" and a convolution of The Record containing the review will be sent to the donor.

whether in printed or manuscript form, will be reviewed under the head of "Book Notices" and a copy of The Record containing the review will be sent to the donor.

The Society does not solicit donations of publications or manuscripts on topics foreign to the above mentioned subjects, as its library is specialized and cannot accommodate material which does not bear directly upon its recognized sphere of usefulness.

Donations for review in the January issue of The Record should be delivered to the Society before December 1st of the previous year; for the April issue, before March 1st; for the July issue before June 1st; and for the October issue, before September 1st.

All donations will be generously reviewed with a view of calling the attention of the public to their good points; but, while generous, the reviews will contain such proper criticism as the interest of the genealogical student would expect from the editorial staff of The Record.

The "Book Notices" of The Record are carefully read by all librarians as well as genealogical students, and the review of a work in The Record is equivalent to a special advertisement of such work.

HISTORICAL AND GENEALOGICAL MISCELLANY, Early Settlers of New Jersey and their Descendants. John E. Stillwell, M.D. New York. Vol. III. 1914. Quarto, cloth, pp. 546. Indexed. Price $5.00 per volume, express prepaid. No single volume will be sold. The set can be had at a small reduction. Address the compiler at 9 West 49th Street, New York City.

We had the pleasure of reviewing Vol. II. of this monumental work in 1907, and, although eight years have passed, during which we have eagerly awaited the present volume, it is with no less interest that genealogists generally will welcome it advent. It is largely with Monmouth County that the work deals, with two incursions into other states, that of Bray of Kinderhook, N. Y. and of Yarmouth, Mass. Family names to whom extensive space has been given are Applegate, Ashton, Bowne, Brown, Burrowes, Campbell, Chamberlain, Coward, Cox, Crawford, Curtis, Dorset, Eaton, Edwards, Fitz Randolph, Grover, Hartshorne, Holmes, Huet, Kearny, Lawrence, Leaming, Leeds, Lippit and Lyell. There is a copious chapter of Addenda and Errata which greatly adds to the value of the work. Congratulations are due the compiler and are hereby extended in behalf of students of New Jersey records.

DWELLY'S PARISH RECORDS, Vol. III. Kent Monumental Inscriptions, being all those in the parishes of Reculver-cum-Hoath, Herne and Herne Bay. 8vo, cloth, pp. 167. 1914. Price 7s. and 6d. Address E. Dwelly, the Editor, Margate Road, Herne Bay, England.

This volume follows the plan heretofore pursued in this series. Sprinkled through the text, however, will be found tricks of all armorial bearings and rubbings of the old brasses and a view of the Herne Church. Historic notes concerning this church and that of Reculver are incorporated from The Ancient Church and Roman Castrum of Reculver by the late George Dowker, F.G.S., 1911, and from Memorials of Herne, by the late Rev. J. R. Buchanan. Attention is called to the "wanton destruction by fire a few days ago of the parish church of Wargrave-on-Mames" as an instance of how important is the preservation of such material as is contained in this book.

ABSTRACT OF NORTH CAROLINA WILLS, Compiled from Original and Recorded Wills in his Office, by J. Bryan Grimes, Secretary of State. 8vo, cloth, pp. 670, with Index and Appendix. 1910. Price $2.00. Apply to Miles O. Sherrill, State Librarian, Raleigh, N. C.

This work contains an abstract of every will found in the above office. These mention the name of the testator, place of residence, names of wife, children, legatees, witnesses, probate officer, etc., and also the names of plantations mentioned and remarkable items or noteworthy passages in wills. Arranged in alphabetical order the facts about any one item are easily acquired. It is noted that the earliest will is dated 1663 and that few were found before 1690. It was about 1700 that the keeping of wills was first ordered and in 1715 the General Assembly passed an act confirming all wills which had been theretofore proved and the administration thereof. The act also provided for the better regulation of these matters.

The preparation of the abstracts has been well performed and in all cases reaches a lucid conclusion. The work will not only prove an interesting but a helpful agency to searchers after genealogical lore.

THE WRIGHT FAMILY. A Genealogical Record of the Descendants of Peter Wright from 1740 to 1914. Compiled by Fred Philo Wright of Oswego, N. Y. Pamphlet, pp. 34. Price $2.00. Address compiler.

An interesting brochure. Peter Wright was of Hempstead, L. I., where he was born July 9, 1740, and was married at St. George's Church there January 9, 1761 to Elizabeth Baker, born in North Kingston, R. I., March 28, 1743. These dates are given in the hope that they may catch the eye of some descendant, for it is not known to which family he belonged. It would seem that he did not come of the Wrights of Oyster Bay of whom an extended notice was printed in the N. V. Gen. & Biog. Record of Jan. 1872. The compiler suggests that the Flushing family may be the right line. As the records there were destroyed by fire we would advise that Quaker and Presbyterian records of that place be examined, these being the earliest in date. Besides the usual genealogical data the text is supplied with the military history of the members of the family and a directory of descendants now living whose addresses are known. Altogether a worthy effort.

HISTORY OF HUDSON, N. H., 1678–1913, by Kimball Webster. Edited by George Waldo Browne. 8vo, cloth, pp. 648 including a copious index. 1913. Address author at Hudson, N. H. Price $3.50.

(1733-1741), of District of Nottingham (1741-1746), and of Nottingham West (1746-1830), and since (1830-1912) Hudson, N. H. The work is exhaustive and of great merit and will be of great value to genealogical searchers. It is recommended to all genealogical and historical libraries.

THE SLOCUMS, SLOCUMBS AND SLOCOMBS OF AMERICA, 1637-1908. Vol. II., by Dr. Charles Elihu Slocum. 8vo. half morocco, pp. 543, including index, illustrated. Price on application. Address author, 218 13th Street, Toledo, O.

This second volume brings to a successful conclusion this eminently praiseworthy history of this well-known American family. The work bears evidence of painstaking care and the author is to be congratulated upon the completion of so worthy a task. Recommended to all genealogical libraries.

BOSTONIAN SOCIETY PUBLICATIONS, Vol. X. 8vo, cloth, pp. 172. Price $2.00. Address, Bostonian Society, Old State House, Boston, Mass.

Recommended to all genealogical and historical societies.

An excellent compilation giving the record of Casper Branner (1760) and his descendants to the fifth generation inclusive. Recommended to all genealogical libraries.

NORTHRUP AND TUCKER FAMILIES OF RHODE ISLAND. Mrs. E. C. Chatfield, 4736 Emerson Ave., S. Minneapolis, Minn.

Some Descendants of William Palmer of Watertown, Mass. and Hampton N. H. pp. 4, price 50 cents. W. L. Palmer, Box 2388 Boston, Mass.

John Grow of Ipswich, and John Groo (Grow) of Oxford, by Geo. W. Davis. 8vo., cloth, pp. 237, ill. Price, $5. Address Geo. W. Davis, 1150 Connecticut Avenue, Washington, D. C.

This is a painstaking genealogy of the Grow family, in which we notice especially the unusually large amount of detailed biographical matter concerning many members of the family. In this book we note with commendation that doubtful points are clearly indicated as such with the author's conclusions. This discrimination certainly gives authority to the work, and immensely aids the future searcher in this family line. A tone of thoroughness and authority pervades the book, which is well indexed.

HISTORY OF THE SOCIETY OF DESCENDANTS OF ROBERT BARTLET OF PLYMOUTH, MASS. Compiled by Marian Longfellow, Historian of the Society Loring-Axtell Co., Springfield, Mass. 8vo., cloth, pp. 114, ill. Price, cloth $1, paper $.75, of Mrs. E. B. Suhanek, 81 Pearl St. Holyoke, Mass.

This book is not, as one is apt to assume, a genealogy, except in a very limited sense. It is the story of the development of the Bartlet Society with the records and addresses of its meetings. The illustrations are excellent, and descendants of the Plymouth Bartletts can hardly afford to be without a copy of the book.

GILDERSLEEVES OF GILDERSLEEVE, CONN., AND THE DESCENDANTS OF PHILIP GILDERSLEEVE, by Willard Harvey Gildersleeve. 8vo., cloth, pp. 81, ill. Limited edition of 75 copies. $3 post paid of the author at 894 Broad St., Meriden, Conn.

The fortunes of the Gildersleeve family are more than ordinarily interesting. Taking part in the Puritan migration from Watertown, Mass., to Connecticut, the family is found well established in Long Island at the opening of the American Revolution. The disaster to the American arms at Brooklyn Heights forced them to sail from Sag Harbor to Connecticut, where they settled on the river at a place now bearing the village name of Gildersleeve. There the family has for generations carried on the business of shipbuilding.

The book is clearly arranged, well indexed and a credit to author and publisher.

A QUAKER'S VISIT TO HARTFORD IN THE YEAR 1676. Ed. by Frank D. Andrews, Vineland, N. J. Pamphlet, pp. 13, 25 cents a copy.

This is a most interesting account of a visit of William Edmundson, carpenter, Commonwealth soldier and Quaker, to the town of Hartford, then of about one thousand population. The whole story suggests the apostle Paul in its sea voyage on the Sound, its side-journey to Hartford under a Heavenly command, and its spiritual message in the two churches of Hartford. Edmundson's talks after the regular services in the churches suggests St. Paul in the synagogues on the Areopagus.

This is another excellent historical publication issuing from the Press of the Ruebush-Elkins Co. The material it contains is of great value and will be found a mine of information for historians and genealogists interested in that locality. Recommended to all historical and genealogical libraries.

PHIZ AND DICKENS as they appeared to Edgar Browne with original illustrations by Hablot K. Browne. 8vo. cloth, pp. 320 including index. New York, 1914. Dodd, Mead & Company, 4th Ave. & 30th St, New York City. Price $4.00 net.

In this book Mr. Edgar Browne, son of the late Hablot K. Browne ("Phiz"), gives an account of the Dickens circle from the intimate standpoint of a contemporary, and new light is thrown by his narrative on many points in Forster's "Life." In addition to his work for Dickens, "Phiz" produced illustrations for many, if not most, of the chief figures in early Victorian literature: and among the names of his acquaintances evoked in these pages are those of Macready, the Keans, Phelps, Robson, Mulready, Chas. Lever, Harrison Ainsworth and Thackeray.

A large number of characteristic illustrations by "Phiz," in the possession of the author, are now reproduced for the first time. Recommended to Historical and general reference libraries.

THE DUCHESSE DE CHEVREUSE. A life of Intrigue and Adventure in the days of Louis XIII, by Louis Batiffol. 8vo., cloth, pp. 354, illustrated. Dodd, Mead & Co., 30th St., & 4th Ave., New York City. Price $3.00 net.

In writing this life of the brilliant Marie de Rohan, Duchesse de Chevreuse, who was Cardinal Richelieu's famous opponent, the author has given a picturesque and lifelike atmosphere to his book by writing it, not as a chronicle of events, but rather as if it were a story. In this way the personages who figure in this famous French lady's life acquire an aspect of reality. Louis XIII, Cardinal Richelieu, courtiers, generals, churchmen, and other famous figures of the time, appear and re-appear during life of its heroine. In this way, by writing fact as if it were fiction, the facts become picturesque and most entertaining. Recommended to all historical and general reference libraries.
